WASHINGTON, D. C.

P R E F A C E .

THE CONSTITUTIONAL YEAR BOOK was first issued in 1885, with the special object of supplying a demand which had often been made by Conservative speakers and writers, and by politicians generally, for a cheap and handy reference-book of political information, containing facts and statistics of public interest, such as are often only obtainable after laborious search among Parliamentary Blue Books and other official documents. The success which attended its issue has justified the continuance of the publication in an enlarged and improved form.

The Constitutional Year Book does not claim to compete in variety of general information with the numerous and valuable Year Books at present in circulation. While, however, its scope is chiefly political, there will be found in its pages much of the information usually contained in a Year Book, in addition to features which are believed to distinguish it from any existing work of the kind.

Special attention is drawn to the complete information relating to Parliamentary Constituencies, Members, Candidates, and Elections from 1885 to the present time ; to the Parliamentary Summary ; to the statistics bearing on the several General Elections ; and to the condensed Tables of Statistics on almost every subject of national importance, which have been carefully revised and brought down to the latest possible date.

The Editor will be glad to receive any suggestions or corrections from correspondents.

The Gregorian or New Style is 13 days in front of the Julian or Old Style. Thus in Russia, where the Julian Calendar is still in use, our 15th March is the 2nd March.

The year 5680 of the Jewish Era commences on September 7th, 1919.

The year 1338 of the Mohammedan Era commences on October 7th, 1919.

Ramadan (Month of Abstinence observed by the Turks) commences on June 10th, 1919.

RULE.—Opposite the Dominical letter find the month and follow the column down.

Example.—What day of the week was 25th February, 1881? The Dominical letter for 1881 is seen in the table below to be B. Finding February (in the third column) opposite to B and following the column down we see that the 25th was a Friday.

In leap year there are two Dominical letters; the first applies up to February 28th, the second from February 29th.

THE CONSTITUTION.

The term, "The English Constitution," is commonly so used as to include both the form of public Government under which we live, and the constitutional rights and privileges of private citizens. Considering the various forms of Government as either "absolute," or "pure," or "mixed," the English Constitution belongs to the latter category. By this is meant, that the voice of the ultimate sovereign power, which is the constituent body of the nation, is so obtained as to give expression to the various classes and interests of the collective community. Again, constitutions being either "written" or "unwritten," the English Constitution is "unwritten," i.e., although it results, in some measure, from the decisions of judges, and the provisions of statutes, such as Magna Charta, the Petition of Right, or the Bill of Rights, such decisions and statutes are avowedly declaratory merely of the pre-existing law. Whereas, then, in the case of written Constitutions, such as that of the United States, the question of the bearing of proposed changes upon the Constitution of the State is one of mere interpretation, and to be decided by the ordinary tribunals; in England, on the contrary, "unconstitutional" conduct on the part of a Minister can only mean a violation of the spirit of the Constitution, and can only be reached by the extraordinary proceeding of impeachment, which is defined as "a judicial trial by the House of Lords of a person accused by the House of Commons of grave offences, which the ordinary law cannot reach, through its insufficiency or uncertainty." This proceeding has, in modern times, become rare, but in extraordinary cases might still be resorted to. The Constitution of England is a

LIMITED MONARCHY,

the supreme political authority being vested in a King or Queen, and two Houses of Parliament. It being conceded that in every constitution which is the growth of ages, and which exercises sway over mixed populations, "there must be two parts, first, that which excites and preserves the reverence of the population—the dignified parts—and next, the efficient parts, those by which it in fact works and rules," the distinctive merit of the English Constitution is, that while its "efficient part" works more easily and simply and better than any instrument of government which has yet been tried, its "dignified parts" are still as capable of exciting and sustaining enthusiasm as when the King was his own Prime Minister. The secret of the efficiency of the English Constitution lies in the close union of the executive and legislative power. The connecting link is

THE CABINET.

By that word, which is technically unknown to any Act of Parliament or in official proceedings, is meant a committee of the legislative body, selected to be the executive body; a committee, however, which has the power of advising the dissolution of the assembly which indirectly appointed it. Though appointed under one Parliament, it can, with the permission of the Sovereign appeal to the next. It is nominated by the Crown, but being also responsible to Parliament, it consists exclusively of statesmen whose opinions agree in the main with the majority of the House of Commons. Among the members of this committee are distributed the great departments of the Administration. Each Minister conducts the ordinary business of his own office without reference to his colleagues; but the most important affairs of every department, and especially such matters as are likely to be the subject of discussion in Parliament, are brought under the consideration of the whole Ministry. When Lord Salisbury's third Ministry came into office in 1895, a Cabinet Committee for National Defence was constituted, under the Chairmanship of the Prime Minister. The functions of this body, now called the

have been remodelled. It consists of the Prime Minister, the Secretaries of State for War, India, the Colonies, and Foreign Affairs, the First Lord of the Admiralty, Viscount Esher, and Lord Nicholson; the chief of the General Staff, the first Sea Lord, and the Directors of Military and Naval Intelligence; other high officials are called into council as occasion requires. Perennial records are kept of its conclusions and of the reasons on which they are based. While the Committee in no way limits the responsibility of the Cabinet as a whole, it provides a machinery by which the military policy of the country shall be, as far as possible, continuous, and shall be based upon the authority of the most competent experts. The establishment of the Committee was formally approved by the House of Commons on March 5th, 1903. In Parliament, the

are bound to act as one man in all questions relating to the Executive Government. If one of them dissents from the rest on a question too important to admit of compromise, it is his duty to retire. While the Ministry retains the confidence of the Parliamentary majority, that majority supports them against opposition, and rejects every motion which reflects on them or is likely to embarrass them. If they forfeit that confidence, or if the Parliamentary majority are dissatisfied with the way in which affairs are conducted, they have merely to declare that they have ceased to trust the Ministry, and to ask for a Ministry which they can trust. By the system of Party, an organised body of men will be always found ready to succeed them; "His Majesty's Opposition" being as much a part of the polity as the Administration itself. The Cabinet holds its deliberations in secret, and the King's permission is necessary if any Minister desires to make public what has passed thereat. Mr. Gladstone, whose experience was unrivalled, held that the Privy Councillor's oath applied to its proceedings, and that no one was entitled even to make a note of them except the Prime Minister, who reports to the Sovereign. No official record or minute of any kind is kept. The chief of the Cabinet is

THE PRIME MINISTER.

Besides being a Privy Councillor, he usually, though not necessarily, holds the office of First Lord of the Treasury. He has no legal primacy over the other members of the Cabinet; this is, indeed, necessarily the case in a body which has itself no legal status.* The official precedence of the Prime Minister was not defined until 1905, when he was declared to rank next after the Archbishop of York. The Prime Minister is selected by the Sovereign, whose choice, among natural-born subjects, is nominally unrestrained, but is, in fact, limited to the leaders of the party which can command a majority in the House of Commons. When charged by the Sovereign with the task of forming an Administration, he proceeds to the selection of occupants for the various offices, and submits their names for the approval of the Crown. The old Constitutional maxim, that "the King can do no wrong," is now literally true, for his acts are really the acts of his Ministers; and his Ministers are responsible to the House of Commons, not merely as of old for any breach of the law, but for the general course of their policy, which must accord with the opinions of the majority of that House, or else, in conformity with Constitutional usage, practically as binding as a legal enactment, the Ministers are bound to resign office.

THE SUCCESSION.

The Succession to the Crown is regulated by an Act of Parliament passed in A.D. 1701, and usually called the "Act of Settlement." This Act limited the right of succession to the Princess Sophia of Hanover, grand-daughter of James I., and to her heirs, being Protestants.

All the property which once formed the main revenue of the Crown is now treated as furnishing part of the general State revenues, and the management of it is directly controlled by Parliament. At the commencement of every reign, Parliament fixes the yearly sum which shall be payable to the Crown for all expenses not directly of a public kind. (See under "The Civil List and Royal Grants;" post.)

THE SOVEREIGN AND PARLIAMENT.

The King (acting by the advice of his Ministers) can prorogue Parliament whenever he pleases, and no Parliament can be assembled, prorogued, or dissolved without his express command. He can also dissolve Parliament at his pleasure; but, since the passing of the Parliament Act in 1911, no Parliament can last longer than five years; although under the Septennial Act passed in 1710, the maximum duration of Parliament had previously been seven years. Its annual meeting is secured by the necessity of obtaining from it a grant for the yearly supplies. The assent of the Sovereign is indispensable for any Bill (or proposed law) to become actual law. The legislative power is vested primarily in the two Houses of Parliament.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The House of Lords consists of the first and second Estates of the Realm, viz.: the Lords Spiritual and the Lords Temporal. It comprises a varying number of English peers (princes of the blood, dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts, and barons), two archbishops, 24 bishops, 16 representative peers for Scotland chosen for each Parliament, and 28 representative peers for Ireland, elected for life. The Sovereign can make as many new peers as he chooses.

* "The Treaty of Berlin (1878) is the first European instrument which formally describes the Prime Minister of England by that title."—Times, Nov. 11th, 1904.

His Ministers usually recommend (especially at the time of their giving up office) the grant of peerages to some of their most active and distinguished supporters. When once a person has been summoned to Parliament to sit in the House of Lords, or has actually taken his seat, or when a person has been created a peer by the King's "letters patent," his succeeding heirs inherit the right to sit, except in the case of certain law Lords created peers for life under the provisions of the Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876. Women cannot sit in the House of Lords, though women may be peeresses by royal grant, or in a few cases even by descent. The Lord Chancellor, who is always, though not necessarily, a peer, presides over the debates in the House of Lords. Any bills can be proposed in the House of Lords except such as affect taxation. By the Parliament Act, 1911, the absolute veto of the House of Lords was destroyed, and their powers very seriously curtailed. (See under "House of Lords," post.)

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The House of Commons (the third Estate of the Realm) consists, since the Redistribution Act of 1885, of 670 members, elected by "constituencies" of counties, boroughs, or universities. The places represented have varied a great deal from time to time, according to their changing size and importance; but through all changes the principle has been maintained that every member represents the interests of some definite locality or place. The main qualification entitling a person to be registered and to vote—both in counties and boroughs—is the inhabitant occupancy of a dwelling-house, on which rates are paid, for twelve months preceding July 15. In counties, the possession of freehold property is an ancient alternative qualification. Full particulars of the qualifications for voting will be found under the article "Parliamentary Franchise."

The main function of the House of Commons is one hardly recognised by common speech, but may be sufficiently described as the maintenance of the Executive Government. Without a House of Commons divided into organised parties, the carrying on of Government by the Cabinet system would be in a free country impossible. The House of Commons has also what has been called "an informing function." Formerly it was accustomed to inform the Crown of the grievances and complaints of particular persons, and the Sovereign took action at the petition of Parliament. At the present time the function of Parliament is rather to inform public opinion of such grievances and complaints. The practice of asking questions in the House, though often carried to extreme limits, is, it cannot be doubted, a valuable safeguard against abuses of power by the Executive. It is, further, the office of the House of Commons to give expression to the real opinion of the nation on all matters which come before it. The time spent in a debate on some question of foreign policy, apparently without result, may in reality have been employed in the manner most profitable to the general good. Lastly, the House of Commons is the most important branch of the Legislature. The principal measures are generally brought forward by the Ministers of the day, but private members are equally entitled to introduce Bills, only that it is more difficult for them to carry such through. There is one important exception, however, to the rule just stated. No private person can propose a Bill having for its object an increase of taxation. By this rule is secured the responsibility of the Cabinet for the national finance; without it, the nation might be continually enlarging its expenditure, the blame for such increase attaching to separate and irresponsible private members.

PRIVILEGES AND SAFEGUARDS.

The right of public meeting and the right to petition Parliament are important Constitutional privileges. The maintenance of what is called "The liberty of the subject" forms a valuable part of the English Constitution. Its chief safeguards, independently of the mode of making laws, are (1), the administration of justice on the trial of accused persons; (2), the general prevention of illegal imprisonment; (3), the definition and limitation of the duties of the police.

To the first category belong (a) the institution of "trial by jury," which secures a fair trial by twelve persons chosen at random from the body of the people, having nothing to hope or fear from the Executive; (b) the protection accorded to jurymen, by which they cannot be made civilly or criminally responsible for their verdicts; also the protection of their functions from possible encroachments by judges; (c) the independence of the judges, secured by the enactment which makes their commission "during good behaviour," and renders them irremovable, except upon a joint address from both Houses of Parliament.

An example of the second class of safeguards is the rule which secures that anyone whose liberty is restrained shall, have an opportunity, under the writ of Habeas Corpus, of having the ground of his restraint judicially investigated; of being speedily brought to trial if accused, and of suffering his imprisonment at fixed places, not at the discretion of the Executive. The right to claim damages in a civil action for illegal detention, and the rule that "excessive bail must not be required," belong to this class of safeguards.

The last class is concerned with the definition and regulation of the duties of the police, especially in respect of subjecting suspected persons to a preliminary judicial investigation. Depending, as these safeguards do, on fine distinctions as to when a "warrant" is necessary in bringing an accused person before justices, they cannot be here discussed: though, in concluding, we may notice the Constitutional principle under which "general warrants," or warrants to apprehend all persons suspected, without naming or describing any specially, or to apprehend all persons guilty of a crime therein specified, are illegal, and will not, like legal warrants, protect the officer who executes them.

THE CROWN.

POWERS AND FUNCTION OF THE SOVEREIGN.

The durability, the regularity, and the popularity of the English Monarchy are curiously illustrated by the statement made by more than one writer on the Constitution, that from Egbert (802 A.D.) to George V., the blood of Cerdic, the first King of Wessex (519 A.D.), has run in the veins of every English Sovereign, with the exception of Sweyn, Canute, Harold, and William the Conqueror. (See p. 18.)

In Saxon times the Crown was essentially dependent upon the popular will. It was not strictly hereditary. Preference would be given cæteris paribus to the son of a deceased king, but the chief object was to obtain a leader capable of maintaining the defence and the order of the realm. It was held that the Witenagemot, or national council, had power to depose an unworthy sovereign, and to revoke grants of public land unwisely made by him. The privileges and the powers of the King were nevertheless considerable. He was entitled to maintenance for himself and his retinue on public journeys, and to the produce of wrecks, tolls, mines, fines, and forfeitures. He was the leader of the national forces. He was the fountain of justice, a court of appeal in the last resort, with arbitrary powers both of mercy and of punishment. The grounds upon which William and Harold respectively laid claim to the Crown of Saxon England illustrate the position of the Monarchy. Harold urged that his oath of allegiance to William had been extorted by force, that he could not promise a Crown that was not his, that he had been elected by the free will of the people. William relied on the oath of Harold, who had sworn fealty upon the sacred relics, and on the choice of Edward the Confessor.

After the Norman Conquest, the power of the Crown was greatly augmented. This arose from the stern character of William, from his authority as a military conqueror, and from the change in the tenure of land. At Salisbury, in 1085, William received the fealty of all landholders, both of those who held in chief and of their tenants. All held from the Crown. One of the peculiar attributes of the feudal compact was thus infringed and altered. The Crown became despotic for 130 years, and its exactions were tremendous. At last, in 1215, Magna Charta laid the foundations of English liberty. It appears that this great Statute was confirmed no less than thirty-two times, for whenever money was required by the King its renewal was demanded. It now stands on the Statute Book as 25 Edward I. (1297). Section 29 of this Act is the keystone of English History. "No freeman shall be taken or imprisoned, or be disseised of his freehold or liberties or free customs, or be outlawed or exiled, or any otherwise destroyed; nor will we pass upon him nor condemn him but by lawful judgment of his peers or by the law of the land. We will sell to no man, we will not deny or defer to any man either justice or right." Personal freedom, security of property, and liberty of movement, thus became the essential rights of every Englishman.

The Crown was not strictly hereditary until the time of Edward II. It was declared to be hereditary by a Statute in the 25th year of Edward III.

From the time of the confirmation of the Great Charter (1297) to the accession of the House of Tudor (1485), the prerogative of the Crown was often exercised in an arbitrary manner, though there was a constant assertion of privilege on the part of the Commons. Parliament met irregularly, at the King's pleasure. The right of purveyance, the sale of pardons, the fines demanded on the accession or marriage of an heir, gave occasion for exactions that were heavy and uncertain. Windsor Castle was built in the reign of Edward III., under the right of purveyance, by which writs were issued to sheriffs of counties to furnish such workmen as might be required.

Under the House of Tudor, 1485—1603, the Crown had great power. The country was weary of civil war, and dreaded above all things a disputed succession; the nobles were exhausted, and had lost much of their power, and the Commons had not learned to use their strength. Henry VII., by means of the Star Chamber, treated with great rigour the nobles, the members of Parliament, and the jurors who offended him.

Henry VIII. was almost absolute, and his proclamations had the force of law. The reign of Edward VI. was marked by a milder rule, and by a repeal of the Statute giving to the King's proclamation the force of law.

Elizabeth, strong, despotic, and self-willed, yet had the wisdom so essential to a great ruler. She knew when and how to yield, without loss of dignity or of power. She was the first Sovereign under whom the constitutional right of Parliament to grant supplies was recognised; and the loans that were raised were punctually repaid.

The Stuarts were a very different race (1603—1688). Through good and through ill fortune they clung to the idea of the absolute power and privilege of the throne. They forgot the great truth of the English Constitution, that English law ought to guide and to protect the highest and the lowest in the realm alike. Yet great Constitutional progress was made during the reigns of the Stuart Kings, and the power of the Commons was asserted and established. The Petition of Right presented to Charles I. in 1628 by the Commons, prayed—(1) That no loan or tax be levied except by consent of Parliament. (2) That no man might be imprisoned but by legal process. (3) That soldiers and sailors should not be billeted in private houses. To these demands the King, after some delay, replied, "Soit droit comme il est désiré." In 1641 the Star Chamber and the Courts of High Commission, the engines of arbitrary power employed by the Tudors, were abolished, and the King's Council was deprived of the power of arbitrary imprisonment. In the reign of Charles II.

(12 Car. 2, cap. 24) the old feudal rights of wardship, purveyance, and other exactions were abolished. The Act of Habeas Corpus was also passed in this reign (31 Car. 2, cap. 2), 1679.

The "Declaration of Right" drawn up by Parliament and accepted by William and Mary on their accession in 1688, may be said to have terminated the long struggle between the Crown and the people. The most essential articles of this declaration are the following:—"The King cannot dispense with laws without the consent of Parliament. He cannot erect any tribunal of his own will. He cannot levy money without a Parliamentary grant. No standing army to be kept in time of peace without consent of Parliament. Excessive fines and immoderate punishments prohibited." The Revolution of 1688 also established the important principle that the Sovereign shall profess the Protestant faith, and shall be bound to maintain the Protestant religion as by law established. In the Coronation oath he swears that he is "a faithful Protestant" and "will, according to the true intent of the enactments secure the Protestant Succession to the Throne." The Bill of Rights (1689) and the Act of Settlement (1701) further enact that no person professing the Popish religion, or who shall marry a Papist, is capable of inheriting or possessing the Crown, and the people are released from their allegiance in such case.

The Royal Prerogative in 1688 was described as follows in a pamphlet written in that year—"The King has no prerogative but what the law gives him. We must not therefore presume a prerogative, and then conclude it law, but first find the law, and by it prove the prerogative, and when we have found the prerogative it must be measured by what the public good will bear. The King is supreme in the legislative part as well as in the executive part, but has not the whole supremacy in the legislative part as in the executive."

The following portion of the Coronation oath, as settled at the Revolution, is also interesting and instructive:—

"Question—Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the dominions thereto belonging according to the Statutes in Parliament agreed on, and the respective laws and customs of the same?"

Answer—I solemnly promise so to do.

Question—Will you to your power cause law and justice, in mercy, to be executed in all your judgments?"

Answer—I will."

During the reigns of the first four Georges, the respective rights and duties of the King, Lords, and Commons were gradually settled and acknowledged. The King, however, exercised a far more active and direct authority than accords with the custom of the present day. George III., indeed, at the commencement of his reign, endeavoured to assert to the utmost extent the influence of the Sovereign. He permitted Lord Bute to hold a position of confidential adviser, independently of the Ministry and of Parliament. At a later period, during the administration of Lord North, the King assumed to himself the right of interference in all the details of administration. As soon, however, as Mr. Pitt was enabled, by the assistance of the Crown, but with the support of the country, to defeat the Opposition in the House of Commons, and at the General Election of 1784 to secure a majority for himself, he became the Minister in fact as well as in name, and the relations between the Sovereign and the Minister gradually approximated to the existing system.

Although many of the powers of the Royal prerogative are dormant, the influence of the Crown is nevertheless deservedly great. And in the modified sense of the prerogative it has been said that the Crown has three rights—the right to be consulted, the right to encourage, and the right to warn.

Yet even now the power and prerogative of the Crown, and also its duties, are considerable. The King can prorogue or dissolve Parliament, even before it proceeds to business, and he can create peers without restriction as to numbers. He can veto laws, and is the irrevocable head of the Executive. The Sovereign is the "Fountain of Justice"; that is, with the advice of his responsible Ministers, he appoints directly, or by delegation, all judges and magistrates. All criminal prosecutions are conducted in his name, and he can, with a few exceptions, pardon all offenders, either before or after conviction; though this prerogative is in practice seldom exercised. He is the head of society in the kingdom. All degrees of nobility are or have been derived by grant from the Crown. All titles of honour are in the gift of the Crown, and all corporations owe their charters, either directly or indirectly, to the same source. The Sovereign alone can coin money, impress what stamp he chooses upon it, and impart to it its legally current value. The Sovereign, being "Supreme governor as well in all spiritual or ecclesiastical things or causes temporal," appoints all archbishops and bishops of the Established Church. In respect of external affairs, the Sovereign appoints all ambassadors and diplomatic agents to foreign governments, receives foreign potentates and ambassadors, and conducts all negotiations with those States; appoints Commissions of enquiry; concludes treaties, and makes war or peace; has the supreme command of the army and navy, and appoints all the officers of those services; appoints the viceroys of Ireland and India, and the governors of Colonies and foreign possessions. In the case of certain of the Colonies he prescribes the form of government, and in all of them his assent is essential to the validity of all acts of colonial legislation.

But the old times of arbitrary power and the irreligious use of it have passed away. The tyranny of Norman, Plantagenet, Tudor and Stuart Kings has disappeared. The power of the great nobles is only a subject for romance. The power of the Commons remains strong, rigorous, and restless: yet there is a sentiment that has controlled, and ought still to control, the dominant element in the State—an unswerving regard for British freedom and British law, the security of property, and the safety of the person.

THE CIVIL LIST AND ROYAL GRANTS.

The Civil List of King George V. is exceeded in amount by the revenue of several foreign monarchs. The income of some of the foreign sovereigns is stated to be as follows:—Russia, unknown, but generally believed to be upwards of £2,000,000; Austria-Hungary, £940,000; Prussia, £770,000; Italy, £612,000; Spain, £280,000. The King's Civil List is also considerably less than that of previous British sovereigns. The Civil List of George II. was £800,000; that of George III. in 1815, amounted to £1,030,000; and William IV. received £510,000.

In his message to the House of Commons on June 14th, 1910, His Majesty stated that he placed the Hereditary revenues of the Crown, as his predecessor had done, unreversedly at the disposal of the House of Commons. The Civil List Act, 1910 (10 Edw. VII. and 1 George V., cap. 28), was passed in recognition of the fact that these revenues belonged to the Crown.

It is directed, therefore, that the Hereditary Revenue specified in the Civil List Act of 1837 (which were then declared to be due and payable to Her Majesty Queen Victoria) shall be carried to the credit of the Consolidated Fund, and that the clear yearly sum of £470,000 shall be paid out of the same as a provision for the honour and dignity of the Crown.

The manner in which the Royal income is to be applied is strictly defined, as follows:—

|---|----------|
| Their Majesties' Privy Purse | £110,000 |
| Salaries of H.M. Household and Retired Allowances ... | 125,800 |
| Expenses of H.M. Household | 193,000 |
| Works | 20,000 |
| Royal Bounty, Alms, and Special Services | 13,200 |
| Unappropriated Moneys | 8,000 |
| | £470,000 |

His Majesty also enjoys the revenues arising from the Duchy of Lancaster estates, amounting in 1917 to £58,000.

The above arrangement lasts during the present reign and for six months afterwards. It is not unfavourable to the nation, since the Crown estates have produced an annual rental almost equal to, and sometimes greater, than the amount of the Civil List.

The net income of the Crown Lands in 1916-17 was £680,000, and the smaller branches of the Hereditary revenue produced £39,158.

TAXES ON THE ROYAL INCOME.

Income Tax is paid upon His Majesty's private estates, but not upon the Civil List grants.

There is an exemption under the Act 5 and 6 Vict., c. 35, Section 88, in favour of Government Stock or dividends belonging to the Crown, and property belonging to and in the virtual occupation of the Crown is not assessed.

Duty is paid in respect of the Estate of a member of the Royal Family, but not upon that of the Sovereign.

The Royal Family are exempt from Legacy and Succession Duties, under the provisions of Acts of Parliament (35 George III., cap. 1, and Schedule; and 16 and 17 Vict., c. 51, Sec. 18); and also from the necessity for taking out Establishment Licences (32 and 33 Vict., c. 14, Sec. 19).

The cost of State visits will be borne entirely out of the Civil List.

GRANTS TO THE ROYAL FAMILY.

The grants made by Parliament, and now payable annually for the support of the Royal Family, in addition to the income granted to His Majesty, are as follows:—

|---|----------|
| Queen Alexandra..... | £70,000 |
| King Edward VII.'s daughters | 18,000 |
| Duke of Connaught | 25,000 |
| Prince Albert | 10,000 |
| Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein..... | 6,000 |
| Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll | 6,000 |
| Princess Henry of Battenberg | 6,000 |
| Duchess of Edinburgh | 6,000 |
| Duchess of Albany..... | 6,000 |
| Princess Mary | 6,000 |
| Total | £159,000 |

Provision is made for a contingent annuity of £70,000 for Her Majesty Queen Mary in the event of her widowhood. No provision is made for the Prince of Wales as he receives the income of the Duchy of Cornwall estates, which in 1917 amounted to £50,000; in the event of his marrying the Princess of Wales shall receive an annuity of £10,000, and in the event of the Princess of Wales surviving the Prince of Wales she shall receive an annuity of £30,000. The First Lord of the Treasury, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and the Keeper of the Privy Purse are appointed the Royal Trustees, and there shall be paid to them an annual sum of £10,000 in respect of each of His Majesty's sons (other than the Prince of Wales) who attains the age of 21, and a further annual sum of £15,000 in respect of each son who marries, and an annual sum of £6,000 in respect of each daughter who attains the age of 21 or marries.

The principles upon which the grants to the younger children of the Sovereign have been made in the past were clearly stated by Mr. Gladstone during the debate on the annuity to the Duke of Connaught, July 31, 1871. He reminded the House that Parliament had assented to an arrangement by which, instead of attempting to make a general provision at the commencement of each reign for the possible issue of the Sovereign, each particular case had been dealt with as it arose. That arrangement had some disadvantages, inasmuch as it was liable to be misunderstood out of doors, and that, being so misunderstood, it was apt to cause unjust remarks to be made upon the Royal Family and the Sovereign. He considered, however, that there were recommendations of a high order attaching to the present plan. In the first place, it was the one by far the most agreeable to the spirit of a free Constitution; it established a considerable degree of moral control which Parliament might otherwise lose. If the Sovereign were to be responsible for realizing out of his annual income funds sufficient to endow a family, however numerous, in a manner becoming their station, it would be necessary to enlarge the allowance at the commencement of the reign; and, further, the arrangement would lose all its elasticity, because, whether the Sovereign had issue or not, the sum at his disposal would remain the same. The present method of provision also tended greatly to promote and confirm harmony between the great powers of the State. It placed the conduct of the Sovereign and of the Royal Family, especially of its junior members, in view of the public and the Legislature, and, while preserving a salutary Parliamentary control, it likewise preserved in the hands of the Sovereign an important control over the younger branches of the Royal Family. Supposing the Sovereign were granted what was necessary for annual expenditure, but that every Royal Prince and Princess, on arriving at full age, or at marriage, should receive a fixed annuity, this moral and general control would be relaxed or destroyed. Mr. Gladstone said that, in his opinion, the nature of the provision was excellent, as long as it was worked in a spirit of liberality, of prudence, and of attachment to the Sovereign; but it undoubtedly would be grievously marred, and might become hardly practicable or secure, were it unfortunately to be dealt with in a different spirit. The arrangement between the Crown and Parliament was made by no written covenant, nor would it be possible to frame one without fettering the liberty of the people and Constitutional control. But there were other engagements besides written words, and it was recorded, beyond doubt, that Parliament was morally liable to deal with these cases when they arose. He referred to the terms of the Civil List Act, and the Report of the Committee of 1837, as showing that the income was bestowed upon the Sovereign after a careful investigation of details, and an exact appreciation of what each of the burdens would require in order to maintain the dignity of the Sovereign, and with it the dignity of the nation. As showing the moral liability of Parliament to provide for the junior branches of the Royal Family as they come to mature age, there was not, either in the Report of the Committee, nor in any debates of Parliament, the slightest claim, or the faintest expectation, that out of that income savings could be made adequate to a due provision for them. There was, moreover, positive evidence that upon every previous occasion Parliament had, without question, by an overwhelming vote, admitted the virtual bond of honourable obligation to make such provision. After referring to numerous instances in previous reigns, Mr. Gladstone concluded by asserting that a long and unbroken series of practical acknowledgment by Parliament for generations, embracing every possible case to which the principle could apply, constituted a state of just expectation on the part of the Sovereign, from which it was impossible for Parliament to recede, and which it would be utterly unworthy of it to disregard.—Hansard's Debates, vol. 208, p. 571.

GRANTS MADE IN 1889.

In July, 1889, Queen Victoria communicated to Parliament the approaching marriage of Princess Louise of Wales to the Duke of Fife, and requested that Parliament would make provision for her, and also for (the late) Prince Albert Victor.

A Committee was thereupon appointed, with instructions to inquire into the former practice with respect to provisions for Members of the Royal Family, and to report upon the principles which it is expedient to adopt in the future. The Report of the majority of the Committee was to this effect:—

“That since the accession of the House of Hanover there is precedent for provision for every child of an Heir Apparent, and no precedent for the omission of such a provision; and there is also precedent for provision for the children of every child of every younger son of a Sovereign, and for provision for a younger son of the Heir Apparent.

“The Committee cannot find that any notice has ever been given to the Crown by any resolution of the House of Commons, or in any declaration on behalf of a Government by a Minister of the Crown, that the practice which has heretofore prevailed in reference to making provision for members of the Royal Family would be changed; or that Her Majesty has had any ground for supposing that it was necessary for her to make provision for the members of her family. In view of these facts the Committee are of opinion that Her Majesty would have a claim on the liberality of Parliament should she think fit to apply for such grants as, in accordance with precedent, may become requisite for the support of the Royal Family. But the Committee have been informed that Her Majesty does not propose to press this claim for the children of her daughters and younger sons; and with regard to the daughters and younger sons of future Sovereigns, the Committee are of opinion that at the proper time arrangements should be made under which no future claim of a similar kind can arise.

“In order to prevent repeated applications to Parliament, and to establish the principle that the provision for children should hereafter be made out of grants adequate for that purpose which have been assigned to their parents, the Committee recommend the creation of a special fund by the quarterly payment, during the present reign, of £9,000 out of the Consolidated Fund. Out of this the Prince of Wales, with the sanction of Her Majesty, and the assent of the First Lord of the Treasury and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, would be empowered to make such assignments, and in such manner, to his children as he may think fit.”

In accordance with this Report a Bill was passed through Parliament, receiving Royal assent on August 12th, 1889, by which an annual sum of £36,000 was assigned to H. R. H. Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, for the support of his children, in the manner recommended by the Committee. This grant expired on July 22nd, 1901.

REVISED GRANTS MADE IN 1901.

On His Majesty King Edward VII's accession the question of provision for the younger children of the Sovereign and the children of the Heir Apparent was considered by the Select Committee on the Civil List, who reported as follows:—

“In the first place they recommend that an annuity of £20,000 shall be paid out of the Consolidated Fund to His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York (now Prince of Wales) who has succeeded to the Revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall. They also recommend the grant of an annuity of £10,000 to Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cornwall and York (now Princess of Wales) during the continuance of her marriage with His Royal Highness.

“Your Committee have carefully considered whether it would be advisable that any provision, whether immediate or contingent, should be made at the present time for those children of the Heir Apparent who may reach an age at which they may require separate establishments; but in view of the youth of their Royal Highnesses and the consequent uncertainty of the future, they do not recommend that any such provision should be made on the present occasion, and content themselves by recording the fact that nothing for this purpose is included either in the Civil List or in the annuities proposed.

“Your Committee have already called attention to the fact that the annuity granted by the Prince of Wales's Children Act, 1889, ceases on 22nd July, 1901. It is, therefore, necessary to make fresh provision for their Royal Highnesses Princess Louise (Duchess of Fife), Princess Victoria and Princess Maud (Queen of Norway). Your Committee accordingly recommend that an annuity of £18,000 for their joint lives, diminishing by £6,000 with each death, should, in accordance with the precedent of the Prince of Wales's Children Act, 1889, be paid to Trustees by quarterly payments out of the Consolidated Fund. Out of this fund the Sovereign, with the assent of the First Lord of the Treasury and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, should be empowered to make such assignments and in such manner to their Royal Highnesses as in his discretion he may from time to time think fit.”

In introducing the Bill to give effect to these recommendations, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, explained that whatever remained from the private fortune or savings of Queen Victoria had been devoted to the benefit of her younger children, and that, therefore, the King had no personal fortune, and was dependent upon the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster and the Parliamentary grant. Basing his calculations on the increase in the value of the surrendered hereditary revenues of the Crown, he estimated that during the next sixteen years the average annual cost of the Royal Family to the taxpayer would not be more than £33,000. The proposals of the Committee were agreed to by Parliament, and were embodied in the Civil List Act of 1901, referred to above.

REVISIONS MADE IN 1910.

On His Majesty King George V.'s accession a Select Committee was appointed to deal with the Civil List and in its report stated that:—

“Your Committee find that the total amount of the Civil List and its distribution among the prescribed classes was carefully considered in 1901, and, after further inquiry, they see no reason for recommending any alteration. They are satisfied that the provision then made was adequate, but not more than adequate for the proper maintenance of the dignity of the Crown.

“The Committee recommended that owing to the inconvenience which arises from the present arrangement for the execution of alterations and repairs in the Palaces in the personal occupation of His Majesty, the internal works which are provided for in Class IV. of the Civil List should continue to be paid for in that way. For the external works, however, the Committee recommended that a fixed sum of £27,000 should be placed upon the Civil Service Estimates, under the head of Palaces in the personal occupation of the Sovereign, including Windsor Castle, Buckingham Palace, Frogmore and Marlborough House. Previously, the First Commissioner of Works had been compelled to estimate for these external repairs many months in advance—a matter of some difficulty.

“During the greater part of the reign of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria it was the practice to make provision for the younger children of the Sovereign as occasion arose. But in the Prince of Wales's Children Act, 1889 (52 and 53 Vict., cap. 35), it was recognised that it was desirable to prevent the necessity for repeated applications to Parliament on behalf of the Royal Family, and to establish the principle that the provision for children should hereafter be made out of grants adequate for that purpose which had been assigned to their parents.

“Your Committee concur in this view and, therefore, recommend that provision should be made in the Civil List Act of the present reign for granting an annuity of £10,000 per annum to each of His Majesty's sons on attaining his majority, with a further annuity of £15,000 per annum on his marrying; and an annuity of £6,000 per annum to each daughter on attaining her majority or marrying. These grants should be subject to the understanding that Parliament will not be asked to make provision for the children of the younger members of the Royal Family.

“From the commencement of the present reign, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales became entitled to the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall, and it is not considered necessary that any further provision should be made for His Royal Highness; but your Committee recommend that, in the event of his marrying, an allowance of £10,000 per annum should be assigned to the Princess of Wales, to be increased to £30,000 should she survive His Royal Highness.”

The Bill to give effect to these proposals was introduced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. D. Lloyd George, who explained that in future the expense of State visits should be borne entirely out of the Civil List and that no income tax should be charged upon the Civil List. The income tax on the Duchy of Cornwall to be charged as usual. On the whole, undoubtedly, by comparison of the expense of State visits of the late reign, the Crown would be a slight, but not a substantial, gainer by this arrangement. The prospects are, however, that the expenditure on these State visits will rather increase than diminish, and from the point of view of the public Exchequer, the Treasury is no loser by the transaction. The amount which the House of Commons was asked to sanction appeared to be higher than that of 1901, but this was entirely due to the fact that the allowance to Queen Alexandra now came into operation, and for the first time a sum of £70,000, due under the Act of 1901, was to be charged on the Exchequer. If that were taken out, the provision now made would represent a diminution and not an increase. The proposals of the Committee were agreed to by Parliament and were embodied in the Civil List Act of 1910.

THE EXECUTIVE GOVERNMENT.

I.—MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S ADMINISTRATION, 1919.

* The asterisk denotes a Member of the Cabinet during the whole or part of his tenure of the office. The names in capitals are those of the existing Cabinet.

† The acceptance of any of these offices by a Member of the House of Commons vacates his seat, but he is eligible for re-election.

Titles in brackets were acquired subsequently to taking office.

For CONSERVATIVE and UNIONIST Administrations, 1885-1905, see page 56;

For LIBERAL Administrations, see page 48.

DEPARTMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

[The following pages describe the main functions exercised by the principal Departments and Officers of the Executive Government. Several Offices are included which, though not, strictly speaking, Government Departments, are intimately connected with them. In modern times, if a Department is represented in Parliament by two officials, one, as a rule, is in each House. The Home Office is generally an exception (both Secretary of State and Under Secretary being in the House of Commons), and occasionally the Board of Trade and the Local Government Board. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, and usually the heads of the great spending Departments, are in the House of Commons. The Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Council, and the great Officers of the Household, are always Peers.]

ADMIRALTY (Whitehall, S.W.), is under a Board, who, since the reign of Queen Anne, have been appointed as "Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland." The Board, before the outbreak of War in 1914, consisted of eight members, viz.: the First Lord of the Admiralty, the First and Second Sea Lords, the Third Sea Lord, the Fourth Sea Lord, the two Civil Lords, the Parliamentary Secretary, and the Permanent Secretary.

The duties of the respective members of the pre-war Board are set out at length in the CONSTITUTIONAL YEAR BOOK of 1916.

Changes have been made in recent times; the Board on January 10th, 1918, was reconstituted, and consisted of 11 members, viz.: The First Lord of the Admiralty, the First Sea Lord and Chief of Naval Staff, the Second, Third, and Fourth Sea Lords, the Deputy Chief of Naval Staff, the Assistant Chief of Naval Staff, the Deputy First Sea Lord, the Civil Lord, the Controller, and the Second Civil Lord.

The First Lord of the Admiralty is responsible for the general direction and supervision of all business relating to the Navy. He also deals personally with all matters relating to promotions and removals from the Service of naval and marine officers; honours and rewards; Royal Yachts, and Admiralty Yacht, including appointment of all officers; appointment of Admirals and officers in command, including Engineer Rear Admirals, Surgeons-General and Deputy Surgeons-General, and Staff Appointments of Royal Marines; Chaplain of the Fleet, appointment of, and entry of naval chaplains and instructors; Civil appointments and promotions (higher posts); nomination to Naval Cadetships and to Assistant Clerkships, R.N.

The First Sea Lord advises the First Lord on preparation for War, and on all large questions of naval policy and maritime warfare.

The Second Sea Lord is similarly responsible for the manning and training of the Fleet, which includes complements, barracks, training and educational establishments, also all mobilisation regulations for the Personnel; service and appointments of officers of all branches (except as reserved to First Lord); Royal Marines; Coastguard and Reserve Forces; hospitals; discipline and signals.

The Third Sea Lord is responsible for the design of Matériel for the Fleet, including ships and their machinery, armour, naval ordnance and gun mountings, aeroplanes and airships, and docking facilities; also alterations and additions to ships which affect design or fighting efficiency; preparation of estimates of cost of all new construction falling due in any year under current and prospective programmes, &c.

The Fourth Sea Lord is responsible for matters connected with the transport service, including hired auxiliary vessels other than armed merchant cruisers; passages; the superintendence of naval store, Fleet coaling and victualling services; ordnance and medical stores, &c., and all questions relating thereto; full and half pay; allowances and compensations, including table money; prize questions; pilotage and surveying; pay and freight of treasure and all extra payments; debts of officers and men, naval and marine pensions and widows' pensions; character, conduct and badge questions; naval savings banks; medals; uniform regulations; naval prisons; deserters—rewards for apprehension; removals of "R."; general salvage money questions and money demands for salvage of naval stores; collisions.

The Deputy Chief of Naval Staff is responsible for war operations in home waters.

The Assistant Chief of Naval Staff is responsible for trade protection and anti-submarine operations.

The Deputy First Sea Lord is responsible for general policy questions and operations outside home waters.

ADMIRALTY—continued.

The Civil Lord has charge of works and buildings, including purchases of land; coast guard buildings, sites and leases; staff of civil (except as reserved to First Lord) establishments, including classification, appointment, promotion, pay, allowances and pension; dockyard police; Greenwich Hospital business, including appointments (except of naval chaplains to livings, superintendent of the Royal Hospital school, curator of the Painted Hall, and appointments to Greenwich Hospital pensions); charitable fund, compassionate allowances, subscriptions, &c., and allowances to ministers of religion and grants in aid of churches and schools; marine and dockyard schools; special questions affecting retirement and pay of naval and marine officers and men, when discretionary power is specifically provided for by Order in Council; works questions of an important character are marked to him also.

The Controller is responsible for the production of matériel.

The Additional Civil Lord is responsible for contracts for Matériel for the Fleet (including ships and their machinery, armour, naval ordnance and gun mountings, aeroplanes and airships), works, yard machinery, and stores of all descriptions. Contract arrangements in connection with the disposal, salvage, or loan of vessels or stores. Superintendence of the Contract and Purchase Department; general organisation of dockyards including provision of labour and plant, and all business questions in connection with the building and repair of ships and their machinery, whether in the dockyards or in private yards.

The Parliamentary Secretary deals with finance, estimates and expenditure generally; and all proposals for new and unusual expenditure; accounts—cash, store and dockyard expense; purchase and sale of ships and of stores generally; payment of hire of ships as armed merchant cruisers, troop ships, colliers, freight ships, &c.; questions involving reference to the Treasury financially, except as provided for under Civil Lord; questions connected with exchequer and audit department; general labour questions, including annual petitions.

The Permanent Secretary has control of the discipline of the various Departments of the Admiralty; recommendations for appointments and promotions in the Admiralty office; correspondence; communications with foreign naval attachés; communications with ministers of religion (other than Church of England); appointment of messengers.

All members of the Board communicate

(Animals) Acts, and the Destructive Insects Acts, formerly exercised by the Privy Council. It superseded the Land Commission, taking over their functions in regard to the Tithe Rent-charge, Copyhold, Inclosure of Commons, and Allotment Acts, as well as their general duties connected with the drainage and improvement of land, agricultural holdings, glebe and settled lands. It also now administers the Small Holdings and Allotments Act of 1907 and Acts of previous years. The powers and duties of the Commissioners of Works under the Survey Act, 1870, were vested in the Board of Agriculture; and the collection and preparation of agricultural and forest statistics, as well as the inspection and assistance of technical agricultural schools, were also transferred to it. It has power to make, and assist, enquiries and experiments for the promotion of agriculture and forestry; to prescribe rules for preventing rabies in dogs, and to regulate the seizure, detention, and disposal of stray dogs.

The control of the Fisheries was transferred from the Board of Trade, and that of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew from the Office of Works, in 1903. The administration of a large part of the Crown Lands was transferred to the Board in 1907.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL, THE

(543, Royal Courts, W.C.), is the chief Law Officer of the Crown, and is appointed by letters patent under the Great Seal. He is a member of the Government, and almost necessarily must be in the House of Commons. He represents the Crown in the courts of law, prosecutes by himself or by his nominee in criminal cases, exhibits informations in revenue cases in the Exchequer, and takes proceedings on behalf of those who come under the protection of the Crown as parens patrie, such as lunatics, or the objects of a charitable trust. Legal questions are constantly referred for his opinion by the different Government offices. When the House of Lords is sitting as a Committee of privileges in peerage cases, he is present in a judicial capacity to express the views of the Crown on any point which may arise. Letters patent for inventions are considered to be issued under his general superintendence, and under the patent laws appeals from the Comptroller may in certain cases be brought to him. He is the official head of the Bar, and to him all questions of professional etiquette are referred.

Under an arrangement made in 1895, the Law Officers are precluded from appearing on behalf of private clients, a clerical staff is assigned to them.

CHAMBERLAIN, LORD.—The office of the Lord Chamberlain (St. James' Palace, S.W.), is a department of His Majesty's Household, and its head, who is always a Peer of high rank and a Privy Councillor, is a member of the Ministry for the time being. He superintends all the officers and servants of the Household above stairs (see Lord Steward below), the department of the Wardrobe, the Jewel House at the Tower of London, and the licensing of plays in the metropolis north of the Thames. He has the direction of the details of State functions such as coronations, Royal marriages, public entries, and funerals. In his department are the Royal Physicians, the Chaplains, the Chapels Royal, the Sergeants-at-Arms in Parliament, and the care of the Royal swans on the Thames. His Deputy, the Vice-Chamberlain, is usually a member of the House of Commons, and until recently has also been a Privy Councillor.

COMPTROLLER—Col. Sir D. F. R. Dawson, G.C.V.O., C.M.G.

CHAMBERLAIN, THE LORD GREAT (House of Lords, S.W.).

—This is an hereditary office, at present held by the Marquess of Lincolnshire, K.G., G.C.M.G., as the delegate of the joint heirs, who were declared in 1902 to be the Earl of Ancaster, the Marquess of Cholmondeley, and himself. Admission to the House of Lords when Parliament is not sitting is granted to strangers under regulations made by the Lord Great Chamberlain. On all State occasions he has the charge of Westminster Hall, as when it is used for a trial or a coronation. At a coronation he has functions of a numerous and varied character. When the Sovereign goes to Parliament, this officer walks on the right of the Sword of State, next to the Royal Person.

CHANCELLOR—THE LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR of GREAT BRITAIN

is the highest judicial officer in the Kingdom, and ranks next to the Sovereign. He is ordinarily appointed by the delivery of the Great Seal into his custody. He is keeper of the Royal conscience, custodian of the Great Seal, visitor in right of the Crown of all hospitals and colleges of Royal foundation, and patron of between 600 and 700 Crown livings and twelve canonries. Representing the Sovereign as parens patriæ, he has the general superintendence of all charitable trusts, and he is the general guardian of all infants, idiots, and lunatics. As a judge, he is president of the High Court of Justice, and of the Court of Appeal, besides presiding, if present, when the House of Lords is exercising its appellate jurisdiction. He is a Cabinet Minister and a Privy Councillor, and is usually, though not necessarily, a Peer. He presides on the woolsack as Speaker (or Prolocutor) of the House of Lords, and when in office takes precedence of every temporal lord. When Royal Commissions are issued for opening the Session, for giving the Royal Assent to Bills, or for proroguing Parliament, the Lord Chancellor is always a Commissioner, and reads the King's Speech. He appoints the justices of the peace in every county, usually, though not necessarily, on the recommendation of the Lord Lieutenant, acting on the advice of an advisory committee; and directly in every Borough (except in Lancashire, where the Chancellor of the Duchy exercises the patronage). The Lord Chancellor nominates to many important offices connected with the administration of justice. Letters Patent under the Great Seal are passed by him, and all writs for the commencement of civil proceedings in the courts of law are "tested" or witnessed in his name. The Lord Chancellor's jurisdiction is confined to Great Britain.

CHARITY COMMISSION

(Ryder Street, St. James', S.W.) is superintended by a Chief Commissioner, a permanent official appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury, assisted by three other commissioners, one of whom is a member of the House of Commons, and represents the Commission in Parliament. Their duties are to superintend the preparation of schemes for the general administration of charities, and also of Endowed Schools and the City of London Charities, under special Acts of Parliament. Under the Board of Education Act, 1899, some of the duties of the Commission in regard to educational charities have been transferred to that Board.

COMMISSIONERS—H. W. T. Bowyer, C.B. (Chief); H. P. Morris (Second); Rt. Hon. Sir J. Compton-Rickett, M.P. (Third, unpaid).

SECRETARY—G. C. Bower.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

(Burlington Gardens, W.) is administered by two permanent Commissioners, appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury. Their duty is to examine all candidates for the Civil Service in respect of age, health and character; they also make arrangements for all literary examinations for the Home Civil Service, for the Indian Civil Service, and for the admission of candidates to the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich and the Royal Military College at Sandhurst.

COMMISSIONERS. — S. M. Leathes, C.B. (First); D. B. Mair and L. C. H. Weekes (Asst. Comms.).

SECRETARY—G. G. Mennell.

COLLEGE OF ARMS, OR HERALDS' COLLEGE (Queen Victoria Street, E.C.), not strictly a Government Department, is presided over by the Hereditary Earl Marshal. Its officers carry out Royal proclamations, grant coats of arms, direct public funerals, and transact genealogical and similar business. Attached to the Department are three Kings of Arms, bearing respectively the titles of Garter, Clarenceux, and Norroy; six Heralds (Chester, York, Windsor, Somerset, Lancaster, and Richmond), four Pursuivants, and a Registrar.

Following the death of the 15th D. of Norfolk in 1917, Lord Edmund B. Talbot, M.P., was appointed Deputy Earl Marshal.

GARTER KING OF ARMS—Sir H. F. Burke, K.C.B., C.V.O.

COLONIAL OFFICE (Downing Street, S.W.) is presided over by a Secretary of State (changing with the Ministry), assisted by one Permanent, one Parliamentary, and four Assistant Under-Secretaries. In the Colonies having responsible Government, the Colonial Secretary recommends the Governors to the Crown for appointment, and has power to advise the disallowance of laws passed by Colonial Legislatures, where they conflict with Imperial legislation or touch on Imperial interests, but otherwise exercises little interference. In the Crown Colonies, on the other hand, he exercises direct executive action, and all important officers are appointed by the Crown on his recommendation. Their legislation is subject to revision, and the Colonial Secretary exercises considerable control over their expenditure.

COLONIAL OFFICE—continued.

CROWN AGENTS FOR THE COLONIES (4, Millbank, Westminster, S.W.1, 13, Gt. St. Helen's, E.C.3, and 1, Tokenhouse Buildings, E.C.2).—These officials, three in number, are appointed by the Secretary of State, and transact under his supervision all the financial, commercial, emigration, and other business in this country on behalf of such of the Colonial Governments as are not represented by Agents-General, together with that of certain Protectorates under the Foreign Office. In the case of the Colonies having responsible Government this work is done by the Agents-General, who are appointed by the several Colonial Governments (see page 35). The Crown Agents' salaries and expenses are defrayed from a fund derived from the Governments for whom they act, the scale of charges being fixed by the Colonial Secretary. The office is thus self-supporting.

CROWN AGENTS.—Major Sir M. A. Cameron, K.C.M.G.; Sir W. H. Mercer, K.C.M.G.

AN EMIGRANTS' INFORMATION OFFICE (34, Broadway, Westminster, S.W.1) was organized by the late Mr. E. Stanhope when Colonial Secretary in 1886. Its duty is to collect and circulate the latest and most useful and accurate information respecting the Colonies, for the guidance of intending emigrants, and to answer personal inquiries (which average about 6,000 per annum), but it does not promote or discourage emigration, nor is it responsible for advising emigrants in the selection of their destination.

CONGESTED DISTRICTS BOARDS.—See under Ireland and Scotland.

CORNWALL (DUCHY OF) OFFICE (Buckingham Gate, S.W.) is presided over by the Lord Warden of the Stannaries and a Council; it is charged with the management of the estates belonging to the Prince of Wales as Duke of Cornwall. The jurisdiction and powers of the Stannaries Court were transferred to the County Courts of Cornwall in 1896.

LORD WARDEN.—Lord Balfour of Burleigh, K.T., G.C.M.G.

SEC.—W. Peacock, C.V.O.

COURTS OF JUSTICE, THE ROYAL (Strand, W.C.)—The Courts of Justice, though not, strictly speaking, part of the Executive Government, are now maintained out of the Imperial funds, and may properly be noticed here.

The Supreme Court of Judicature for England was constituted by the Act 37 and 38 Vict., cap. 66, and an Act of 1910, 1 George V., cap. 12. It consists of two permanent divisions, "His Majesty's High Court of Justice," with both original and appellate jurisdiction, and "His Majesty's Court of Appeal," mainly exercising appellate jurisdiction. The High Court of Justice is divided into three divisions, and now consists of (1) The Lord Chancellor and six Justices of the Chancery Division, (2) The Lord Chief Justice of England, and seventeen Justices of the King's Bench Division, and (3) the President and one Justice of the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division. The Court of Appeal consists of four ex-officio Judges, viz., the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Chief Justice of England, the Master of the Rolls, the President of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty Division; and five Lords Justices of Appeal, who are all Privy Councillors. The various offices of the Courts were amalgamated in 1879 and a "Central Office" was constituted, under the superintendence of the Masters of the Supreme Court, now seven in number. In its various departments is transacted the general business of litigation leading up to the hearing of cases in Court, including the machinery for recording the Orders of the Courts. The six Chancery Judges, working in pairs, have, in addition, sets of Chambers, and four Chancery Masters are assigned to each pair for dealing with questions affecting property, &c., over which the Chancery Division has jurisdiction. There are also eleven Taxing Masters, whose duties are to tax the costs of solicitors. The salaries of all the officers of the Courts are defrayed from moneys voted by Parliament, with the exception of the Judges, whose salaries are charged upon the Consolidated Fund. (See under Paymaster-General, post.)

CROFTERS COMMISSION.—See under Scotland.

CUSTOMS AND EXCISE (Lower Thames Street, E.C.) The Customs and Excise Establishment is administered under the Finance Act, 1911, by three permanent Commissioners, appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury. It has charge of the collection of all customs and excise duties at the ports of the United Kingdom. For this department the Treasury is responsible in Parliament.

COMMISSIONERS.—Sir L. N. Guille-mard, K.C.B. (Chairman), F. S. Parry, C.B. (Deputy Chairman), Sir R. F. Crawford, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., Noel E. Behrens, and Sir W. Gallagher, I.S.O.

SECRETARIES.—J. P. Byrne, C.B., I.S.O., E. C. Cunningham, C.B.

DEFENCE, COMMITTEE OF IMPERIAL (Whitehall Gardens, S.W.).—This body was organized on its present basis in 1904, and consists of the Prime Minister (who is the Chairman), the Secretaries of State for War, Foreign Affairs, Colonies, and India, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the First Lord of the Admiralty, the Chief of the General Staff, the First Sea Lord, the Directors respectively of Naval and Military Intelligence, (together with Viscount Esher and Lord Nicholson). Other high Imperial and Colonial officials are invited to attend as members when occasion requires. (See also page 20.)

SECRETARY.—Lieut.-Col. Sir M. P. A. Hankey, K.C.B.

DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION

(6a, Dean's Yard, Westminster, S.W.1.) This Commission was constituted in 1910 under the Development and Road Improvement Acts of 1909 and 1910. It consists of Eight Commissioners, six of whom are unpaid. Their duties are to consider applications for advances for the purposes of aiding and developing agriculture and rural industries; and forestry; the reclamation and drainage of land; the improvement of rural transport; the construction and improvement of harbours and of inland navigations; the development and improvement of fisheries; and for other purposes; and to frame schemes with respect to any of these matters.

COMMISSIONERS.—Lord Richard Cavendish, C.M.G. (Chairman), H. Jones-Davies, Sir W. Stowell Haldane, Sidney Webb, W. W. Berry, John Pius Boland, (all unpaid), Vaughan Nash, C.V.O., C.B. (Vice-Chairman, £1,500), Prof. T. B. Wood C.B.E. (part time, £700).

SECRETARY.—R. T. Warner (acting).

ECCLESIASTICAL AND CHURCH ESTATES COMMISSION (Millbank, S.W.)

This Office, not strictly a Government Department, is administered by a body consisting of the archbishops, bishops, three deans, and twenty eminent laymen. The principal duties are discharged by the Church Estates Commissioners, the chief of whom, often a Peer, is nominated by the First Lord of the Treasury, one other is commissioned by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and one is ordinarily a member or supporter of the Government for the time being. They administer the large estates vested in them, and apply the proceeds in promoting the work and efficiency of the Church of England, and increasing its endowments. They have also power, under Acts of Parliament, to create new ecclesiastical districts. An annual report is made to the Home Secretary. It has been proposed to unite

CHURCH ESTATES COMMISSIONERS.—Sir L. T. Dibdin, K.C. (Chairman); Rt. Hon. Lord Stuart of Wortley, K.C., W. A. Mount, C.B.E., M.P.

SECRETARY.—S. E. Downing.

EDUCATION, BOARD OF (Whitehall, S.W.).—The Board of Education was established in 1899, and is charged with the superintendence of all matters relating to Public Education. The Board consists of a President, and of the Lord President of the Council (unless he shall be appointed President), the Principal Secretaries of State, the First Lord of the Treasury, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The Vice-President of the Committee of Council on Education was, up to 1902, a member of the Board, and responsible for the Department in the House of Commons, but in that year the office was abolished and a Parliamentary Secretary substituted. The Board takes the place of the Committee of the Privy Council on Education (including the Department of Science and Art) and also under Order in Council has taken over some of the powers of the Charity Commissioners and the Board of Agriculture in relation to education. It may also inspect or superintend the inspection of secondary schools in England, desiring to be inspected. The Act also created a Consultative Committee, upon which sit representatives of the Universities and other bodies interested in education, and questions may be referred to them by the Board. The Rt. Hon. A. H. D. Acland is the Chairman of this Committee. The supervision of the Royal College of Science and Art, of the Victoria and Albert Museum, the Bethnal Green Museum, of the Geological Museum in Jermyn St., and of the Geological Survey, rests with the Board. An Educational Library open to the public, is established at Charles St., Whitehall, S.W.

FOREIGN OFFICE (Downing Street, S. W.) is presided over by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who changes with the Government, assisted by a Parliamentary and a Permanent Under-Secretary of State, with three Assistant Under-Secretaries. All negotiations with and despatches to and from foreign Powers pass through this Office; and all diplomatic and consular representatives abroad are appointed by, and report to, the Foreign Secretary. A very important branch of work is transacted in the Commercial Department, which collects, through our Consuls abroad, information likely to be of use to the commercial community in this country, and circulates it among Chambers of Commerce, &c. Commercial agents, distinct from Consuls, have been appointed in some few countries for the purpose of promoting British trade interests.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES REGISTRY (temp., British Museum, Montague Place, W.C.1) is managed by a permanent Chief Registrar, appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury. This officer, who is an ex-officio Commissioner under the National Insurance Act, 1911, exercises all the statutory powers of supervision over the Friendly and Building Societies of the country. These powers, however, are very limited and do not make him in any way responsible for the management or solvency of any society.

The Friendly Societies Acts were consolidated in 1896.

Under the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1897, the Registrar has the duty of certifying the soundness of societies for mutual insurance against accidents.

CHIEF REGISTRAR—G. S. Robertson.

HERALDS' COLLEGE.—See College of Arms.

HOME OFFICE (Whitehall, S. W.) is presided over by the Secretary of State for the Home Department (changing with the Ministry, but always in the House of Commons), assisted by one Permanent and one Assistant Under-Secretary, and one Parliamentary Under-Secretary. This department is charged generally with the maintenance of order and the repression of crime in Great Britain. It has complete control over the Metropolitan Police (outside the City), but only certain statutory financial powers over the provincial police. It controls all prisons, whether convict prisons or those transferred from local authorities under the Prisons Act, 1877, and is in this work assisted by Boards of Visitors appointed locally. The prerogative of mercy vested in the Crown is exercised upon the advice of the Home Secretary, except as to Ireland and Scotland, where it is exercised by the Lord Lieutenant and the Secretary for Scotland respectively. The direction of Public Prosecutions is an important branch of the Home Office work, but is transacted at the Treasury by the Solicitor to that Department. Amongst other duties of the Home Office are the inspection of reformatory and industrial schools, of coal and metalliferous mines, of quarries, of explosives, and of factories and workshops. It administers the Aliens Act, the Burial Acts, the Inebriates Acts, the Vivisection Act, the Cruelty to Animals Act, the Housing Acts (in London), and other statutes. The Home Office also prepares the Criminal and Judicial Statistics for England and Wales, and the Mineral Statistics for the United Kingdom.

INDIA OFFICE (Whitehall, S.W.) is presided over by a Secretary of State (changing with the Ministry), assisted by one Permanent and one Parliamentary Under-Secretary, and by a Council composed of not more than fourteen members, having Indian experience. The members of Council are appointed by the Secretary of State, are ineligible to be elected to Parliament, and hold office for ten years, but a member may for special reasons be continued in office for a further period of five years. The major part of them must consist of persons who have resided in India at least ten years, and who have not left India more than ten years previously to their appointment. The "Secretary of State in Council" is charged with such superintendence of the Government of India as is entrusted to him by the Government of India Act of 1858. The precise relations between the India Office and the Governor-General of India, and between the Secretary of State and his Council, are somewhat difficult to explain, being regulated by the Act of 1858 before-mentioned, which transferred the Government of India to the Crown, and vested the powers of the old Court of Directors of the East India Company in the Secretary of State for India in Council.

UNDER - SECRETARY. — James Mac Mahon.

AGRICULTURE and TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION, DEPARTMENT of (Upper Merrion Street, Dublin).—Under an Act of 1899, a Department with this title was created for Ireland, having as President the Chief Secretary, and a Parliamentary Vice-President. Its powers and duties include all matters relating to Agriculture and Fisheries in Ireland, as well as the administration of the grants for Science, Art, and Technical Instruction. It is assisted by a Council of Agriculture, a consultative body formed of local representatives; an Agricultural Board, and a Board of Technical Instruction, who advise on matters submitted to them by the Department. Funds are placed at the disposal of the Department to be applied in promoting various objects of national interest defined in the Act, which include the aiding, improving, and developing of Agriculture, Horticulture, Forestry, Dairying, Cattle-Breeding, Flax-growing, Sea and Inland Fisheries, &c.

VICE-PRESIDENT.—H. T. Barrie, M.P.

SECRETARY.—T. P. Gill.

EDUCATION IN IRELAND, COMMISSIONERS OF (Marlborough Street, Dublin).—The Board consists, when complete, of twenty unpaid Commissioners (ten Protestant and ten Roman Catholic), one of whom is a paid Resident Commissioner, and all are appointed by the Lord Lieutenant. It was incorporated by Royal Charter in 1845, for administering the funds placed at its disposal by Parliament for the purposes of National Education.

RESIDENT COMMISSIONER.—Rt. Hon. W. J. M. Starkie, Litt.D., LL.D.

IRISH LAND COMMISSION (24, Upper Merrion Street, Dublin) is appointed to administer the Irish Land Acts and the Land Purchase Acts 1885 to 1909. The Commissioners are aided in the work of fixing judicial rents by Assistant Commissioners and skilled valuers, and the hearing of appeals from the decisions of these officers is the principal duty of the Judicial Commissioners. The Church Temporalities Commission, appointed under the Irish Church Act, 1869, is merged in the Land Commission.

JUDICIAL COMMISSIONERS.—Rt. Hon. Justice Wylie, and Hon. Justice Fitzgerald.

ESTATES COMMISSIONERS.—Rt. Hon. F. S. Wrench, W. H. Stuart, and Sir E. O'Farrell, K.C.B.

SECRETARY.—T. George H. Green.

EDUCATION, BOARD OF INTERMEDIATE (1, Hume Street, Dublin), was established under the Act 41 and 42 Vict., c. 66, and consists of twelve unpaid Commissioners, and two paid Assistant Commissioners (one Protestant and one Roman Catholic) appointed by the Lord Lieutenant.

ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS.—W. F. Butler, M.A., I.S.O. and W. A. Houston, M.A.

IRELAND—continued.

ENDOWED SCHOOLS COMMISSION, IRELAND (23, Nassau Street, Dublin).—Established by the regulation of certain Endowed Schools, consists of ten ex-officio Commissioners, and ten appointed by the Government.

SECRETARY.—S. Murphy, LL.B., B.L.

IRISH CONGESTED DISTRICTS BOARD (23, Rutland Square, Dublin).—Established by the Irish Land Purchase Act of 1891, for the purpose of developing the resources of the poorer districts of the West of Ireland. It consists of the Chief Secretary, the Vice-President of the Department of Agriculture, one Land Commissioner, and five members nominated by the Lord Lieutenant. With funds provided out of the Church Surplus and from other sources, the Board is enabled to aid the migration or emigration of occupiers of small holdings, or to amalgamate such holdings; also to encourage suitable industries in the congested districts. An Annual Report is presented to Parliament.

SECRETARY.—J. R. O'Brien.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD FOR IRELAND (Custom House, Dublin), established under 35 and 36 Vict., c. 69, for administering the Poor Law and Medical Charities Acts. Its President is the Chief Secretary for the time being, and the permanent Under-Secretary is an ex-officio member. It consists, in addition, of a Vice-President and three Commissioners, one of whom belongs to the medical profession.

VICE-PRESIDENT.—Rt. Hon. Sir H. A. Robinson, K.C.B.

SECRETARY.—A. R. Barlas, M.A.

IRISH PUBLIC WORKS, BOARD OF (51, St. Stephen's Green, East Dublin). This Department, under three Commissioners, is controlled by the Treasury in London, and is not under the Irish Government. It has extensive functions relating to the administration of public loans for various purposes, such as the drainage of rivers, reclamation of land, construction of railways, control of Harbour Works, &c.

CHAIRMAN.—Sir G. A. Stevenson, K.C.B., C.V.O.

VALUATION OF IRELAND (General) AND BOUNDARY SURVEY (6, Ely Place, Dublin).—This Department, established by 17 Vict., c. 17, under a Commissioner, deals with the valuation, for rating purposes, of lands and premises throughout Ireland, and has extensive duties relating to the registration of voters, the fixing of polling places, and kindred subjects. A large staff of professional valuers is attached to the office.

ACTING COMMISSIONER.—James Carroll.

JUDGE ADVOCATE-GENERAL (68, Victoria Street, S.W.).—The "Advocate-General, or Judge-Martial of his Majesty's Forces," as he was officially designated, was usually, up to 1892, a member of the House of Commons, changing with the Ministry. He submitted the proceedings of General Courts-Martial at home directly to the Sovereign (being for that purpose always a Privy Councillor), and was the legal adviser of the War Office and the military authorities in all matters not falling within the province of their solicitor. The salary of the office, formerly £2,000 a year, was reduced in 1888 and subsequently abolished, the office being made non-political and conferred upon one of H.M. Judges. It was decided in 1905 to appoint to the post, by Letters Patent, a legal officer, who is a salaried Civil servant at £2,000 a year, and gives his whole time to the work of the Department. The principal duty consists in revising the judgments of Army Courts-Martial and advising the Secretary of State as to their legality. He is assisted by a permanent Legal Deputy and two Military Deputy Judge-Advocates.

JUDGE ADVOCATE-GENERAL.—Felix Cassel, K.C.

(Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C., and 18, Portugal Street, W.C.), established under the Act 25 and 26 Vict., c. 53, and subsequent Land Transfer Acts, for registering freehold and leasehold estates, with the object of facilitating proof of title, and rendering the dealing with land more safe, simple, and economical.

REGISTRAR.—Sir C. Fortescue Brickdale.

LIGHT RAILWAYS COMMISSION.—See under Railways (post).

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD

(Parliament Street, S.W.), formerly the Poor Law Board, is administered by a President (who is always a member of the Legislature, and changes with the Ministry) assisted by one Permanent and one Parliamentary Secretary. It is charged with multifarious duties, of which the chief relate to the Poor Law and Public Health. Among questions under the former head are the inspection of workhouses, pauper schools, boarded-out children, pauper lunatic asylums, the administration of the Unemployed Workmen Act, 1905, and various duties as to vagrancy, &c. Besides carrying out the Local Government and Public Health Acts, the Board has to administer the Baths and Washhouses Acts, the Housing Acts (except in London), and other legislation for local improvements, the Canal Boats Act, the Alkali Acts, the Metropolis Water Act, the Motor Car Act, and to sanction the grant of borrowing powers to local authorities. In addition, functions of great importance and of vast detail arise in connection with the Turnpike and Highway Acts, the Vaccination Acts, local taxation, the division of parishes, and the audit of local accounts. A Government Bill was introduced in 1905 to raise the status of the President to that of a Secretary of State.

gaols, and workhouses, and for the prosecution of offences. Licences are granted by them to keepers of private asylums. Periodical reports are made to the Lord Chancellor and are laid before Parliament.

The Royal Commission on the care of the Feeble Minded recommended, in 1908, a large development of this Commission and its constitution as a "Board of Control."

CHAIRMAN.—Rt. Hon. Sir W. P. Byrne, K.C.V.O., C.B.

SECRETARY.—O. E. Dickinson.

MINT, THE ROYAL (Little Tower Hill, E.C.), is nominally presided over by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, as "Master and Worker of the Mint," but is actually managed by the Deputy Master, a permanent official, appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury. It manufactures the coinage and medals of the country, and also supplies silver and bronze coin to certain colonies. The work of this Department, according to ancient custom, is annually tested by the "trial of the pyx," when specimens of the coinage of the year are carefully examined by a jury of experts, presided over by the King's Remembrancer, with the assistance of the officers of the Standards Department of the Board of Trade.

MUSEUMS AND GALLERIES.

BRITISH MUSEUM (Great Russell Street, W.C.).—Is managed by a Board of Trustees, some of whom are official, some serve in right of their relationship to families who have made large bequests to the Museum, and the rest are nominated by the First Lord of the Treasury. They elect from themselves a Standing Committee, in whom the real power is vested. The chief management under them is entrusted to the Director and Principal Librarian. Under the charge of this body are placed all the collections in the British Museum itself, and in the Natural History Museum at South Kensington. An annual grant is made for the purchase and acquisition of new objects of interest, besides which special purchases are occasionally authorised.

The British Museum is open to the public from 10 a.m. till dusk, Sundays 2 p.m. till dusk. The British and Mediæval antiquities are closed on Tuesday and Thursday. The Reading Room is open daily to readers from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. throughout the year. Reading tickets are granted on application, stating age (not under 21), abode, business or profession, and object of application; and a recommendation from a householder of recognised position, or some well-known person, must accompany it.

DIRECTOR AND PRINCIPAL LIBRARIAN.—Sir F. G. Kenyon, K.C.B., D.Litt.

BETHNAL GREEN MUSEUM.—A branch of the Victoria and Albert Museum. Open free on Monday, Thursday, and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4, 5, or 6 p.m.; on Wednesdays at similar hours, admission 6d. Sundays, 2 p.m. till dusk.

GEOLOGICAL MUSEUM, Jermyn Street (under the Board of Education), open every week-day, free, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the winter months, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at other times. NATIONAL GALLERY (Trafalgar Square) is managed by a Board of unpaid trustees appointed by the Prime Minister, and a responsible Director. The national collection of pictures, established by Lord Liverpool's administration in 1824, is entrusted to them, as well as the purchase of additions (subject to the sanction of the Treasury). Open to the public free from 10 a.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Saturday; on Sundays, April to September, from 2 p.m. till dusk; and on Thursday and Friday after 11 a.m., admission 6d.

DIRECTOR.—C. J. Holmes.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF BRITISH ART (Tate Gallery, Millbank, S.W.), a gift to the nation by the late Sir Henry Tate, who also presented many valuable pictures, was opened in 1897. Since 1917 it is managed by a Board of Unpaid Trustees and a Keeper appointed by the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury. Open free on Monday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday; and Sunday afternoon. Tuesday and Wednesday, 6d.

DIRECTOR.—C. Aitken.

NATIONAL PORTRAIT GALLERY (St. Martin's Place, W.C.), founded at the instance of the late Earl Stanhope in 1859, is vested in a Board of unpaid trustees appointed by the Prime Minister. The national collection of portraits is under their charge, and they are responsible for all fresh purchases, a small grant being annually made by Parliament. The chief executive duties are vested in the director. The present building, adjoining the National Gallery, was erected under an Act passed in 1889, at the cost of the late Mr. W. L. Alexander. Open on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4, 5, or 6 p.m., free; Thursday and Friday, 6d.; Sunday, 2.30 to 5.30 p.m., April to October.

THE COMMITTEES OF THE PRIVY COUNCIL FOR TRADE, AND ON AGRICULTURE, AND EDUCATION (England), have been merged in the BOARDS OF TRADE, AGRICULTURE, and EDUCATION, respectively.

PRIVY SEAL, LORD (9, Chelsea Embankment, S.W.).—The post of Lord Privy Seal is an ancient office conferring high precedence, but having merely nominal functions, and is vacated on a change of Ministry. The duties formerly assigned to this department were abolished by the Act 47 and 48 Vict., c. 30, but the Lord Privy Seal has often been entrusted with the discharge of important work which for any special reason requires the attention of a minister in Parliament. The office, which is often an honorary one, has usually carried with it a seat in the Cabinet, and is so held at present.

SCOTLAND:SECRETARY FOR SCOTLAND

(Dover House, Whitehall, and 6, Parliament Sq., Edinburgh).—The Office of Secretary for Scotland was created by Act of Parliament in 1885.† It is a political appointment, the holder changing with the Government, and may be held by a member of either House of Parliament. The powers formerly vested in the Home Office (except such as relate to Factories and Workshops, Mines, Explosives and Vivisection); the Privy Council (except the Science and Art Department of the Board of Education); the Local Government Board; and the Board of Trade; and the Treasury, are transferred, so far as regards Scotland, to the Secretary for Scotland. They include practically most of the administrative branches of the Government in Scotland, embracing Law and Justice, Education, the Poor Law, Public Health, Prisons, Police, Reformatories, Fisheries, Valuation, Artisans' Dwellings, Loans for Public Works, and many other Departments.

† There was a Secretary of State for Scottish affairs from 1708 to 1746.

Edinburgh) has generally consisted of six to nine members, and is presided over by the Secretary for Scotland, as Scotch Vice-President of the Council. It exercises in regard to Scotland control over the public elementary education of the country.

SECRETARY.—Sir J. Struthers, K.C.B.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD

FOR SCOTLAND (125, George Street, Edinburgh).—Established by the Scotch Local Government Act of 1894 to take over all the powers and duties formerly exercised by the Board of Supervision, in relation to the Poor Law and Public Health, and to perform duties in relation to Local Government analogous to those of the Local Government Board in England. The Board consists of the Secretary for Scotland (President), the Solicitor-General for Scotland, and the Under Secretary for Scotland, together with three members (appointed on the recommendation of the Secretary for Scotland), one of whom is Vice-President and Chairman, the second and third being legal and medical members respectively.

VICE-PRESIDENT.—Sir G. M'Crae.

LORD-ADVOCATE OF SCOTLAND (Dover House, Whitehall).—The Lord-Advocateship of Scotland is an ancient Office of State which is held direct from the Crown, and the holder changes with the Government. He is Public Prosecutor for Scotland, and in his duties as such is assisted by the Solicitor-General for Scotland, four principal Advocates Depute, and one Assistant Depute. His political functions in the management of Scottish affairs are of importance, many discretionary powers and a considerable amount of patronage being entrusted to him. Prior to the Union, he held a seat ex-officio in the Parliament of Scotland, and the Office has still the title of Right Honourable attached to it, in respect of its holder being ex-officio a member of the ancient Scottish Privy Council. Since the Union he has almost invariably had a seat in the House of Commons, where he answers questions relating to the legal business of Scotland, and assists in conducting Scotch legislation, the Government Bills being drafted under his superintendence. The Lord-Advocate is counsel for the Crown in all Crown civil cases, and also practises ordinarily in the Scottish Courts, having the privilege of sitting on the right of the table within the bar. He is usually appointed a Privy Councillor and a King's Counsel. The Lord-Advocate's Office was formerly intimately connected with the Home Office, but it is now limited in that respect to matters relating to law and justice.

STATIONERY OFFICE (Princes Street, Westminster, S.W.) is administered by a permanent Controller, appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury. It has charge of the supply of printing, stationery, and books for the home and foreign departments of the Government, and of the printing for the Houses of Parliament. The Controller is the "King's Printer," and the copyright of Government publications is vested in him.

CONTROLLER.—W. R. Codling, C.B.E., M.V.O.

STEWARD, LORD, always a Peer of high rank and a Privy Councillor, changing with the Government, is head of the Board of Green Cloth, and has precedence of all dukes not of the blood Royal. He has the sole direction of the Royal Household below stairs (see Lord Chamberlain for above), his authority extending over all the officers and servants of the Household, except those of the King's chapel, chambers, and stable. He usually bears a white staff on State occasions, and at the funeral of a Sovereign breaks it over the Royal coffin. The Treasurer and Comptroller of the Household (until of late years usually Privy Councillors) are subordinate political officers in this department. (Office—Buckingham Palace, S.W.)

STEWARD, LORD HIGH, is an officer appointed only for a specific purpose, as for a coronation, when he walks next before the Sovereign, bearing the crown of St. Edward, or at the trial of a peer for high treason or felony, when he presides. In the latter case modern custom usually assigns this office to the Lord Chancellor.

SUPREME COURT PAY OFFICE.

See under Paymaster-General.

TRADE, THE BOARD OF (Whitehall Gardens, and Gwydyr House, S.W.).—The Board is merely a nominal body, entitled, "The Committee of Council appointed for the consideration of all matters relating to Trade and Foreign Plantations." It is administered by a President, who changes with the Government, and is assisted by a Parliamentary and a Permanent Secretary. All matters relating to trade and commerce fall to its charge, except certain functions exercised by the Home Office and the Commercial Department of the Foreign Office.

Under the Conciliation Act of 1896 the Board has powers of intervention, inquiry, and arbitration in trade disputes, which have been frequently exercised with great benefit.

The powers of the former Commissioners of Emigration are now vested in the Board of Trade. (See also under Colonial Office.)

The administration of the Trade Boards Act, 1909, the Labour Exchanges Act, 1909, and Part II. of the National Insurance Act, 1911 (Unemployment Insurance), lies with the Board of Trade.

The various departments of the Board of Trade are:—

MARINE (54, Victoria Street, S.W.).—Under the Merchant Shipping Acts the powers of the Board include the survey and detention of unseaworthy or over-laden ships, the provision of local Mercantile Marine offices for the engagement and discharge of seamen, the inspection of boilers, the conduct of inquiries into shipping disasters, and the supervision of expenditure out of the Lighthouse Fund.

The General Register and Record Office of Shipping and Seamen (Tower Hill, E.) is also a branch of the Board of Trade.

RAILWAYS.—With regard to Railways, many duties are imposed upon the Board by the Railway and Canal Traffic Act of 1888, and subsequent statutes, such as the Hours of Railway Workmen Act, 1894, the Light Railways Act of 1896, and the Prevention of Accidents Act, 1900. Its powers of inspection are also in all respects very wide. No line can be opened without a certificate from the Board, cases of accident are investigated, and all by-laws are submitted for the Board's approval. A special temporary branch for dealing with questions of traffic in London was organized in 1907.

HARBOURS.—The control and supervision of Harbours, and the protection of the rights of the Crown in foreshores, are under the Board of Trade.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.—The Electric Lighting Acts give great powers to the Board as to granting licences and provisional orders for the supply of electricity, and as to inserting conditions for the public safety.

BANKRUPTCY (1, Horse Guards' Avenue, S.W.) and COMPANIES (33, Carey Street, W.C.).—The Bankruptcy and Companies' Winding-up Acts also give large powers to the Board, involving practically the supervision of every bankrupt estate or company in England and Wales, and the appointment of all the official receivers.

COMMERCIAL, LABOUR & STATISTICAL (Commercial Department, 7, Whitehall Gardens, S.W.; Commercial Intelligence Branch, 73, Basinghall Street, E.C.; Labour Department, Gwydyr House, Whitehall, S.W.; Statistical Department, 1, Whitehall, S.W.)—A "Labour Bureau" was organized by the late Mr. Mundella in 1885, the object being the collection and dissemination of statistical and other information as to the rate of wages, the cost of manufacture, and the selling prices of produce at home and abroad. This work was further developed in 1893, when a separate department was organised, entitled the "Labour Department," having distinct offices and a special staff. The Labour Department has a staff of correspondents in the larger towns, whose duty it is to inform the central office of important events affecting labour in their districts, and to conduct local investigations. The Labour Gazette (monthly, 1d.) is issued by this Department for supplying information on subjects of special interest to workmen and workwomen, such as trade disputes, important industrial negotiations, sliding scales, &c. The Department also publishes digests of reports of the inspectors of mines and factories, of proceedings under the Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Acts, of action taken by local authorities with regard to the sanitary condition of workshops, the housing of the poor, the provision of allotments, &c. Important meetings and conferences are noticed, and statistics are given of pauperism, immigration, savings banks, education (especially in its industrial aspects), exports and imports, and the prices of the chief articles of consumption by workmen, as well as comparative tables of wholesale prices of leading articles in the chief markets of the world. A large number of copies is gratuitously distributed to Free Libraries, workmen's organizations, Mechanics' Institutes, Chambers of Commerce, and other institutions. An annual report is issued. The Board of Trade Journal (weekly, 3d.) is issued by the Commercial Department, and sets forth tariff changes, movements in foreign markets, foreign commercial legislation, port and harbour regulations, &c.

STANDARDS (7, Old Palace Yard, S.W.).—The custody of the primary standards of length and weight, and the duty of verifying local standards, devolve upon the Board of Trade. The Permanent Secretary is the "Warden of the Standards."

MISCELLANEOUS.—Important functions relating to gas and water companies, tramways, assurance and other companies, also devolve upon the Board; and it has the main charge of the collection of our national statistics, the management of the Imperial Institute (q.v.), the superintendence of the Patent Office (q.v.), and the financial control of Trinity House (q.v.)

TREASURY, THE (Whitehall).

"The Commissioners for executing the offices of Treasurer of the Exchequer of Great Britain and Lord High Treasurer of Ireland" are a body comprising the First Lord of the Treasury, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and three members of the Government, usually called Lords of the Treasury, all changing with the Ministry. The Treasury is the highest financial Department of the State. It is charged with the preparation of all financial measures, and the provision of money to meet the requirements of the Imperial service throughout the world. It is entrusted, in the interest of sound finance, with a power of check over the public expenditure, and its assent is, for that object, required for all measures increasing, or tending to increase, the public expenditure. This power of check has from time immemorial been given to the Treasury, and it is in the possession of this power that the Chancellor of the Exchequer differs generally from foreign Ministers of Finance. The Board very seldom meets, and the real work of the Treasury is done by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who introduces the Budget, and exercises a supreme supervision over questions affecting the public Revenue and Expenditure; but for the details the Financial Secretary to the Treasury, with his colleagues, the Permanent Secretaries, are responsible. These officers practically control the financial affairs of the country, with the occasional assistance of one or other of the Lords. The First Lord is usually the Prime Minister, but in recent years the custom has been frequently departed from. Unless he is also Chancellor of the Exchequer he does not ordinarily take much part in the management of the department, of which, however, he is the supreme head. He acts rather as final arbiter between the different Departments of the Government, and is occupied chiefly in the direction of the general policy of the Government, and in exercising the large and varied powers of patronage which are vested in the office. The Parliamentary or Patronage Secretary to the Treasury, with two of the Lords, and sometimes the Paymaster-General,

Vice-Chamberlain, Treasurer, or Comptroller of the Household, act as "whips" of the Party in office, and manage its affairs in and out of Parliament.

The Financial Secretary, besides his business at the office, is also responsible for the arrangement of the business of the House of Commons. The Treasury controls the Revenue departments, and is responsible for them to Parliament (the Post Office excepted, when represented by a Minister in the House of Commons). The control of the Treasury over expenditure in Ireland is represented by the Treasury Remembrancer at Dublin Castle, and in Scotland by the King's and Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer (Exchequer Office, Edinburgh).

The Solicitor to the Treasury acts as Crown Nominee for intestates' estates, as King's Proctor in the Divorce Court, and legal adviser to the Treasury and other Departments. From 1884 to 1908 he was also Director of Public Prosecutions, but the Prosecution of Offences' Act of 1908 severed the two offices, and established a separate Director of Public Prosecutions.

TRINITY HOUSE, THE (Trinity Square, E.C.).—This ancient Corporation, which is self-elected, consists of a Master (unpaid), a Deputy-Master, twenty-six Elder Brethren (thirteen of whom are honorary, two being Royal Naval, and eleven Merchant Service officers), and some Junior Brethren. It is entrusted with the control of all lighthouses, buoys, and beacons, and the examination of masters and pilots. In Scotland and Ireland other bodies of Commissioners work under the supervision of the Trinity House for this purpose. Financial control is vested in the Board of Trade, the funds being mainly derived from tolls. By Royal Warrant, issued in December, 1912, the title of "Captain" was conferred on Elder Brethren.

WOODS, FORESTS, AND LAND REVENUES COMMISSION

(23, Park Crescent, Portland Place, W.1), consists of two permanent members, appointed by the First Lord of the Treasury. They administer the hereditary landed property of His Majesty, which was at his accession assigned to the nation in exchange for the fixed Civil List then guaranteed to him during his reign. (See under "The Crown.")

COMMISSIONERS.—Rt. Hon. Lord Ernle M.V.O. (unp.). G. G. Leveson-Gower.

WORKS AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS COMMISSION (Storey's Gate, S.W.), presided over by a Parliamentary

First Commissioner, changing with the Government, and nominally composed, in addition, of the Principal Secretaries of State and the President of the Board of Trade. It has charge of all Government works and public buildings occupied by the Civil Departments in Great Britain; and the "Royal" parks in and near London are also under its charge.

ROYAL COMMISSIONS.

ROYAL Commissions, as the Commissions of Inquiry instituted under the authority of the Crown are commonly designated, are constituted either by Special Act of Parliament, by an instrument under the Great Seal, or by Warrant under the Sign Manual. They have power to examine witnesses, and to send for persons, papers, and records, but in ordinary cases have not powers of commitment or indemnity. A Special Act of Parliament is necessary if it is desired to confer unusual powers. Ordinary Commissions now almost invariably issue under the Sign Manual. In Ireland, Commissions are appointed by the Lord Lieutenant, on behalf of His Majesty.

The Reports of Royal Commissions are forwarded to the Secretary of State to be laid before the Sovereign, by whose command they are subsequently presented to Parliament.

The powers of Commissions expire with the presentation of their Final Report, unless subsequently continued by authority. In addition to Commissions of Inquiry there are others of a more or less permanent nature, such as the Royal Commissions for the Exhibition of 1851, Army Purchase, Horse Breeding, Historical Manuscripts, the Universities, and for various home, foreign, and colonial Exhibitions. Others again, such as those for the Irish Land Acts, Lunacy, National Insurance, Public Works Loans, Railway and Canal Traffic, Light Railways, &c., &c., are virtually Departments of the Government or of the Judicature, and are noticed ante.

A Departmental Committee to consider the procedure of Royal Commissions was appointed in 1909; its Report was issued in 1910 (Cd. 5235).

* By proclamation, dated 5th November, 1800, the Members of the Parliament then sitting on the part of Great Britain (which had met in July, 1796), were declared to be Members of the First Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland to meet on 22nd January, 1801.

RULES FOR PETITIONS TO PARLIAMENT.

Every Member presenting a Petition to the House must affix his name at the beginning thereof.

Every Petition presented to the House of Commons must be written, and not printed or lithographed; this does not apply to Petitions presented to the House of Lords.

Every Petition must contain a Prayer.

Every Petition must be signed by at least one person on the skin or sheet on which the Petitioner is written.

A Petition to either House of Parliament may be presented either flat or in the form of a roll; but where the Petition and signatures occupy more than one sheet, all the sheets must be securely fastened together. It is preferable that a Petition should be presented flat, with the sheets stitched together. A Petition presented in the form of a roll must be so rolled that the Petition comes first as the roll is unrolled.

In the case of a Petition presented to the House of Commons, if signatures are affixed to more than one sheet, the Prayer of the Petition must be repeated at the head of each sheet; but on every sheet after the first the Prayer may be reproduced in print or by other mechanical process. Signatures upon sheets not so headed will not be counted. The "Prayer" signifies that part of the Petition which expresses the object of the Petitioners, as distinguished from formal parts.

In the case of a Petition presented to the House of Lords, if signatures are affixed to more than one sheet, the Prayer of the Petition should not be repeated at the head of each sheet.

Every person signing a Petition must write his address after his signature, or his signature will not be counted; nor will signatures which appear in the same handwriting.

Every Petition must be written in the English language, or be accompanied by a translation certified by the Member who shall present it.

Every Petition must be signed by the parties whose names are appended thereto by their names or marks, and by no one else except in case of incapacity by sickness.

No letters, affidavits, or other documents may be attached to any Petition.

No erasures or interlineations may be made in any Petition.

No reference may be made to any debate in Parliament.

No application may be made for any grant of public money, except with the consent of the Crown.

No application may be made for a charge upon the revenues of India, except with the consent of the Crown.

All Petitions, after they have been ordered to lie upon the Table, are referred to the Committee on Public Petitions, without any question being put; but if any such Petition relate to any matter or subject with respect to which the Member presenting it has given notice of a Motion, and the said Petition has not been ordered to be printed by the Committee, such Member may, after notice given, move that such Petition be printed with the Votes.

A Member cannot present a Petition from himself. It is quite competent to any hon. Member to petition the House, but then his Petition ought to be presented by another Member.

The Rule which prohibits a Member from presenting a Petition from himself is not to be understood to extend to cases in which a Member shall present a Petition signed by him in his representative capacity as Chairman of a County Council or of any public incorporated body.

Petitions to the House of Lords should be headed—

"To the Right Honourable the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled."

Those to the House of Commons should be headed—

"To the Honourable the Commons of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in Parliament assembled."

A Petition should run as follows:—

"The humble Petition of" (the undersigned, or describe the body presenting it) sheweth: (Here set out the facts.)

"Your Petitioners therefore pray that (your Lordships, or your Honourable House) will be pleased to": (Here state the prayer.)

"And your Petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray.

"Signed..... Address"

A Petition to the House of Commons should be forwarded to a Member of the House of Commons, with a request that he will present it to the House; if the Petition affects especially, or emanates especially from a particular constituency, it should be forwarded to the Member for that constituency, irrespective of his political opinions.

A Petition to the House of Lords should be sent to some Peer or Peers.

A Petition, addressed to a Peer or a Member of Parliament at the Houses of Parliament, passes free through the Post. It should be enclosed in a cover open at the ends, and marked outside "Parliamentary Petition." If sent through the Letter Post it must not exceed 32 ounces in weight.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

ORIGIN.

The House of Lords is by far the more ancient of the two Houses of Parliament, being derived from the King's Great Council as it existed in the reigns immediately following the Conquest. Of this Council the constitution and powers seem not to have been precisely defined, and there is some difference of opinion as to what they really were in practice. It included magnates ecclesiastical and temporal, bishops, abbots, earls, barons, and apparently other persons of distinction, summoned by the king. In early times it seems likely that all tenants-in-chief of the king received the summons, which later was only issued directly to the greater tenants holding baronies, while the lesser, summoned through the sheriff of the county, and appearing by representation, were the germ of the knights of the shires in the Lower House. The creation of baronies by patent, apart from tenure, dates from the latter part of the fourteenth century. The effect of a summons by writ in creating a peerage in early times has been a matter of some question. It seems that some persons were summoned by writ for one parliament, and not again, others were summoned individually, but not their descendants. The same irregularity, however, is found in the issue of writs to boroughs for the election of members of the House of Commons for some time after the commencement of its existence, so that it is difficult to draw the line in this matter between constitutional and arbitrary exercises of prerogative. It was held in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, in accordance with what had gradually become an established custom, that a writ of summons conveyed a hereditary peerage. Such a peerage is considered to descend to heirs general; it goes into abeyance in the case of a peer so created having several daughters, until it is called out of abeyance by the Crown as the descendants of all but one co-heiress are extinct. It thus differs from the usual rule of English patents descending to heirs male only, and from that of some Scotch peerages descending to an elder daughter. In the case of the Earl of Arundel, in 1626, it was decided by the House that every peer of full age is entitled to his summons, and that the House should refuse to proceed to business in case such summons to any peer is omitted. That the Crown no longer possesses the right of creating a life peerage, conferring a seat and vote in the House, was decided in the well-known case of Lord Wensleydale in 1856. The only temporal lords sitting without hereditary peerages are the past and present Lords of Appeal created under the Acts regulating the appellate jurisdiction of the House, passed in 1876 and 1887. These lords hold the rank of Barons for life, and may sit and vote after resignation of their offices.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

The Appellate jurisdiction of the House has its origin in the practice of appealing for justice to the King in Parliament. Petitions of this kind were addressed to the King in the Great Council, but after the establishment of the Courts at Westminster such petitions were ordinarily referred to the proper Court. The Lords and the Privy Council appear to have exercised certain judicial powers jointly. The Lords exercised a right of appellate jurisdiction down to the reign of Henry IV, and after some disuse, it was resumed in that of Elizabeth. In 1585, the establishment of the Court of Exchequer Chamber, as intermediate between the Common Law Courts and the House of Lords, definitely recognized its right to hear appeals from those Courts. The House of Lords in the following century claimed in some cases even an original jurisdiction. But two cases in the reign of Charles II, which created for the time a violent conflict between the Houses—those of Skinner v. the East India Company and Shirley v. Sir John Fagg—ended by the defeat in the first case of the claim to original jurisdiction, and the establishment in the second of the right to entertain appeals from Courts of Equity as well as of Common Law.

This jurisdiction, originally exercised by the whole House, or any members who chose to attend, has, since the case of O'Connell's appeal (1844), been left to the Law Lords—that is, the Chancellor and other peers holding, or having held, high legal positions. By the more recent Acts, as before mentioned, the Lords of Appeal are especially appointed to exercise this jurisdiction, under the presidency of the Lord Chancellor. But any other legal peer, and, theoretically, any peer whatever, retains the right to attend and deliver judgment.

THE LORDS SPIRITUAL.

Before the Reformation the Lords Spiritual formed the larger part of the House. By the disappearance of the mitted abbots under Henry VIII they were reduced to the twenty-six bishops—being then a minority of the House, which about that time included fifty-nine temporal peers. Their number in the first Parliament of his predecessor had been only twenty-nine.

Under the Union with Ireland the Irish bishops sat by rotation in the House, but they were excluded by the Irish Church Act of 1869. At present twenty-four English bishops sit as barons, the junior bishops above that number for the time being having no seats. The Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and the Bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester are always members of the House. It has been supposed that the bishops' baronies arise from the tenure of their lands; the analogy, however, of other European kingdoms in early times favours the idea that the magnates of the Church were admitted to the national councils in virtue of their ecclesiastical dignities.

THE LORDS TEMPORAL.

The Lords Temporal comprise the dignities of duke, marquess, earl, viscount, and baron. The ducal title, although one of great importance in earlier times, was first recognized in England by the creation of the Black Prince as Duke of Cornwall by Edward III. The rank of marquess is originally derived from the office of governor and custodian of the marches or borders, and bears date as a title from the reign of Richard II. The earls derive their name from the Danish eorle, signifying "noble by birth" (May), which was used as a title of dignity prior to the Norman Conquest. After that date the alternative title of count came into use until the revival of the original title. The rank of viscount also dates back to remote times, and was used to distinguish the degree next subordinate to count. The title, however, was not conferred in England until the reign of Henry VI. The rank of baron is the oldest dignity in the peerage, as the title is to be found in the records of the Saxon dynasties. Under the feudal system following the Conquest the barons became the tenants in capite of the King, and were so summoned, as before stated, to Parliament. The oldest English baronies now existent are those of de Ros and Le Despencer, both dating from December 24th, 1264; but an Irish barony, Kingsale, was conferred by Henry II in 1181, and confirmed by subsequent kings in 1223 and 1397.

THE HEREDITARY SYSTEM.

The unlimited power of the Crown to add to the House of Lords has at times been looked upon as dangerous to its independence. As long, however, as a peerage is necessarily hereditary the permanence of the creation and the necessary succession of an heir who will be wholly independent would restrain a Sovereign or Minister, save in the most exceptional cases, from any very lavish exercise of this power. In the reign of Queen Anne, the Ministry of Harley and Bolingbroke created twelve peers at once, to overcome the opposition to the Government in the House of Lords. After the accession of the House of Hanover this opposition became the dominant party, and proposed, by the Peerage Bill of 1719, to make such abuse of power impossible for the future, by prohibiting all future creations except on the extinction of existing peerages. This Bill was rejected by the House of Commons, as calculated to convert the House of Lords into a clan oligarchy, severed from the rest of the nation, and no similar proposal has ever been renewed. The action, however, against which it was directed has never been repeated, though strong threats of the kind were thrown out at the time of the Reform struggle of 1832, and of the Constitutional struggle of 1911.

The House of Lords is sometimes rather indubiously referred to as consisting wholly of great landowners. They necessarily form its majority, and it is well that they should thus be secured an organ in the State. But among its most prominent and active members are many who have been themselves raised to the peerage for public services or professional eminence. Of its present members about one-fourth have had experience as members of the House of Commons. It is constantly recruited from the ablest men of the time (as is shown by the fact that only about one-fourth of the existing peers sit by virtue of peerages dating before 1800), from the law, the army, the navy, and the professional and commercial classes; so that a seat in the House is a possible inheritance for the descendant of any English family.

PROCEDURE.

The House usually meets on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at a quarter past four o'clock. It does not as a rule sit on Friday or Saturday. It may proceed to business if at least three peers are present; but no question can be decided on a division unless thirty peers at least take part in the vote.

The stages through which a Bill has to pass in the House of Lords correspond with those in the House of Commons. But in the Upper House the first reading of a Bill is usually a matter of course; discussion is reserved for the second reading, when the principle of the Bill is decided upon. If the second reading be carried, it is not usual to raise the question again on going into Committee, or by any amendment going to the root of the matter. But a Bill which has passed the House of Commons is often read a second time with the understanding that large alterations are to be made in Committee, limiting the scope of the Bill, though not defeating its object. A Bill after passing the second reading, or after passing through Committee of the whole House, may be referred to a Standing Committee, as in the House of Commons. These Committees are composed of not more than 40 nor less than 20 peers, and all are nominated by the Committee of Selection. The quorum is twelve, and the procedure is the same as in a Select Committee. When a decisive majority has declared in favour of a Bill the third reading is not often opposed, unless in consequence of something that has occurred in Committee or on the report of amendments. But if the majority has been so small as to leave the real opinion of the House uncertain, there is nothing irregular in a fresh trial of strength on the third reading, which sometimes results in the loss of the Bill.

The Lords' amendments on a House of Commons Bill, and vice versa, may be accepted, rejected, or modified by the other House. If the two Houses cannot agree a Conference may be held between members on both sides. For many years, however, such Conferences have been wholly formal, no discussion taking place. Written reasons are delivered for the course adopted. Should the disagreement between the two Houses remain unadjusted the Government of the day can, at their discretion, pass the measure in dispute after the lapse of a certain period, which varies according to whether the Bill is, or is not, a Money Bill, without the consent of the House of Lords, under the provisions of the Parliament Act, 1911. See as to this next page.

The Lord Chancellor (who is usually, but not of necessity, a peer) presides in debates as Speaker, but without the authority of the Speaker of the House of Commons as guardian of order. His position as a member of the Ministry of the day would be incompatible with that of an arbiter between parties, and as he is frequently a new member of the House, he would not necessarily have the experience of a Speaker of the House of Commons. Order is maintained by the House at large, which decides by acclamation, or, in extreme cases, by vote, as to which of two speakers be heard. A motion to cast the duty of deciding on points of order upon the Lord Chancellor and the Lord Chairman was rejected, June 22, 1908. Since 1889 peers have been at liberty to refer to each other in debate by name.

The Chairman of Committees, who is elected for each Parliament, exercises full authority on points of order in Committee. The Lord Chancellor has not a casting vote when the House is equally divided. His vote is taken first on every division, but if the numbers be equal, he declares that the "Not Contents" have it, the rule being "Semper praesumitur pro negante."

Though Bills granting money to the Crown, or imposing pecuniary liabilities, pass through the same stages as others, the privileges of the House of Commons have been, since 1768, held to preclude their origination or amendment by the Lords. The restriction was so fully established that in 1865 a proposed alteration by the House of Lords in the local authority which under the Cattle Plague Bill was to have power to assign pecuniary compensation for Cattle slaughtered was withdrawn on the ground of privilege. In 1891, also, an amendment to the Education Bill, which might indirectly have increased the rates, and in 1904 an amendment to the Licensing Bill, were objected to in the House of Commons. Until 1911 the abstract right of rejecting a Money Bill was admitted; but the rejection, in 1860, of the Paper Duty Repeal Bill by the House of Lords led next year to the inclusion of all the financial measures of the year in a single Bill, which could only be accepted or rejected en bloc. This practice has since prevailed.

The House of Commons has sometimes endeavoured to force measures upon the House of Lords by "tacking" extraneous matters upon a Bill of Supply, which, if rejected, would cause public inconvenience. This practice is admitted to be unconstitutional, but was successfully resorted to under William III, and was also attempted later with regard to an "Occasional Conformity Bill." To mitigate some practical inconveniences Bills of a partly financial character are occasionally passed through the House of Lords with words marked by underlines and brackets (formerly done in red ink), explaining the money provisions intended. These are struck out before the Bill leaves the House, and are re-inserted in the Commons.

As bearing on this point debates in the House of Lords on the Finance Bill, July 26, 1894, and on the Old Age Pensions Bill, on July 31, 1908, may be referred to. "The legal right of the Lords, as a co-ordinate branch of the Legislature, to withhold their assent from any Bill whatever to which their concurrence is desired, is unquestionable."—May's Parl. Practice, p. 516.

By the passage of the Parliament Act, 1911, the relations between the House of Commons and the House of Lords in regard to legislation were entirely changed. The following are the operative clauses of the Bill :—

1.—(1) If a Money Bill, having been passed by the House of Commons, and sent up to the House of Lords at least one month before the end of the session, is not passed by the House of Lords without amendment within one month after it is so sent up to that House, the Bill shall, unless the House of Commons direct to the contrary, be presented to His Majesty and become an Act of Parliament on the Royal Assent being signified, notwithstanding that the House of Lords have not consented to the Bill.

(2) A Money Bill means a Public Bill which in the opinion of the Speaker of the House of Commons contains only provisions dealing with all or any of the following subjects, namely, the imposition, repeal, remission, alteration, or regulation of taxation; the imposition for the payment of debt or other financial purposes of charges on the Consolidated Fund, or on money provided by Parliament, or the variation or repeal of any such charges; supply; the appropriation, receipt, custody, issue or audit of accounts of public money; the raising or guarantee of any loan or the repayment thereof; or subordinate matters incidental to those subjects or any of them. In this subsection the expressions "taxation," "public money," and "loan" respectively do not include any taxation, money, or loan raised by local authorities or bodies for local purposes.

(3) There shall be endorsed on every Money Bill when it is sent up to the House of Lords and when it is presented to His Majesty for assent the certificate of the Speaker of the House of Commons signed by him that it is a Money Bill. Before giving his certificate, the Speaker shall consult, if practicable, two members to be appointed from the Chairmen's Panel at the beginning of each Session by the Committee of Selection.

2.—(1) If any Public Bill (other than a Money Bill or a Bill containing any provision to extend the maximum duration of Parliament beyond five years) is passed by the House of Commons in three successive sessions (whether of the same Parliament or not), and, having been sent up to the House of Lords at least one month before the end of the session, is rejected by the House of Lords in each of those sessions, that Bill shall, on its rejection for the third time by the House of Lords, unless the House of Commons direct to the contrary, be presented to His Majesty and become an Act of Parliament on the Royal Assent being signified thereto, notwithstanding that the House of Lords have not consented to the Bill: Provided that this provision shall not take effect unless two years have elapsed between the date of the second reading in the first of those sessions of the Bill in the House of Commons and the date on which it passes the House of Commons in the third of those sessions.

(2) When a Bill is presented to His Majesty for assent in pursuance of the provisions of this section, there shall be endorsed on the Bill the certificate of the Speaker of the House of Commons signed by him that the provisions of this section have been duly complied with.

(3) A Bill shall be deemed to be rejected by the House of Lords if it is not passed by the House of Lords either without amendment or with such amendments only as may be agreed to by both Houses.

(4) A Bill shall be deemed to be the same Bill as a former Bill sent up to the House of Lords in the preceding session if, when it is sent up to the House of Lords, it is identical with the former Bill or contains only such alterations as are certified by the Speaker of the House of Commons to be necessary owing to the time which has elapsed since the date of the former Bill, or to represent any amendments which have been made by the House of Lords in the former Bill in the preceding session, and any amendments which are certified by the Speaker to have been made by the House of Lords in the third session and agreed to by the House of Commons shall be inserted in the Bill as presented for Royal Assent in pursuance of this section:

Provided that the House of Commons may, if they think fit, on the passage of such a Bill through the House in the second or third session, suggest any further amendments without inserting the amendments in the Bill, and any such suggested amendments shall be considered by the House of Lords, and, if agreed to by that House, shall be treated as amendments made by the House of Lords and agreed to by the House of Commons; but the exercise of this power by the House of Commons shall not affect the operation of this section in the event of the Bill being rejected by the House of Lords.

3.—Any certificate of the Speaker of the House of Commons given under this Act shall be conclusive for all purposes, and shall not be questioned in any court of law.

4.—(1) In every Bill presented to His Majesty under the preceding provisions of this Act, the words of enactment shall be as follows, that is to say:—

“Be it enacted by the King’s most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Commons in this present Parliament assembled, in accordance with the provisions of the Parliament Act, 1911, and by authority of the same, as follows.”

(2) Any alteration of a Bill necessary to give effect to this section shall not be deemed to be an amendment of the Bill.

5.—In this Act the expression “Public Bill” does not include any Bill for confirming a Provisional Order.

6.—Nothing in this Act shall diminish or qualify the existing rights and privileges of the House of Commons.

7.—Five years shall be substituted for seven years as the time fixed for the maximum duration of Parliament under the Septennial Act, 1715.

Private Bills, if opposed, are referred to committees of five members, nominated by a Committee of Selection, over which the Chairman of Committees presides. No peer is compelled to serve on such a committee, but if he consents to serve he must attend during the hearing of the whole case.

The House of Lords possesses, like the Lower House, power to commit for contempt of its authority, and to protect its officers from molestation in the execution of its orders. It has also power to punish by fine and imprisonment persons guilty of breach of privilege, or of libels upon the House or its members. In the exercise of these powers it claims all the authority of a Court of Record.

It exercises the right of deciding, by a Report to the Crown, on claims to sit or vote in the House, or to vote at the election of Scotch or Irish representative peers. The case, if disputed, is heard before a Committee of Privileges, at which any peer may attend, and on which some non-legal peers have often sat. The judgment is usually delivered by the Law Lords and the Chairman of Committees alone, though sometimes a lay peer who has heard the whole case has also delivered his opinion. A Select Committee of the House of Commons, to whom the question of the succession of Visct. Wolmer, M.P., to the Earldom of Selborne was referred in 1895, reported as follows:—

1st.—That the succession to a peerage of England, Great Britain, or the United Kingdom, disables the person so succeeding from sitting or voting in the House of Commons.

2nd.—That as the calling up to the House of Lords by writ of summons is the best and safest proof of his succession, the general practice of the House of Commons has been to abstain from declaring the seat of the new peer vacant. But as, in the case of a Scotch Peerage, the succession does not entitle the holder to a seat in the House of Lords, and there is, therefore, no writ of summons, the House of Commons has been in the habit, in such a case, of declaring the seat vacant, upon good and satisfactory evidence of the death of the predecessor and succession of the member affected.

3rd.—That when a member who has succeeded to a peerage entitling him to a seat in the House of Lords refuses or delays to apply for a writ of summons the House of Commons may ascertain the fact of the succession by such inquiry or evidence as it considers necessary.

The peers of Scotland and Ireland, since the unions with the two kingdoms, sit only by representation, the Scotch having sixteen, the Irish twenty-eight representatives. The Scotch representative peers are chosen at the commencement of every new Parliament. The Irish representative peers are elected for life on the occurrence of vacancies. Many Scotch and Irish peers, however, sit by English titles. A Scotch peer, not a representative, cannot be elected to the House of Commons. An Irish peer may be elected for any constituency not in Ireland, but, like all other peers, is not entitled to be placed on the register of Parliamentary electors, or to vote at a Parliamentary election.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The following list contains, as regards all Peers entitled to sit in the House of Lords, their names; date of creation of the title; dates of birth and succession to the peerage; naval, military, and other public services; names of heirs; principal residences; and politics; in the order stated.

| 1910—George V. Accession ... | 31 | 35 | 161 | 50 | 276 | 16 | 28 | 26 | 623 |
| 1919—March 31 | 28 | 40 | 165* | 71 | 325 | 16 | 28* | 26 | 698 |

NOTE.—The figures in the last three lines differ materially from the earlier ones, owing to the fact that in the latest enumeration the Royal Dukes are included in the first column, and those Scotch or Irish Peers who sit by virtue of other titles are enumerated according to their ordinary or superior titles, as shown on page 152. The latest numbers also include minors.

* Earl Curzon is included in both of these totals, as he is an Earl of the United Kingdom and also one of the representative peers of Ireland. This reduces the total number to 698.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

HISTORY.

IN the Sovereign and the three estates of the realm—viz., the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal, and the Commons, is vested supreme legislative authority in this country. The growth of the power of the House of Commons—the third estate—is a prominent feature in our history from the reign of Henry III downwards.

In early Saxon times, the Witenagemot (general council or assembly of wise men) exercised many of the functions which were afterwards assumed by Parliament. This assembly was not called together by Royal warrant, but met of its own accord. Every freeman possessed the right of taking part in its deliberations, although the expense of attending from a distance practically limited the exercise of the privilege to the richer nobility and the higher ecclesiastics. The Witenagemot in theory elected the king. It had a voice in the determination of war and peace, and in general matters of State policy. It acted as a court of appeal, and its authority appears to have been necessary for the imposition of extraordinary taxation.

After the Conquest, the Witenagemot gave place to the Great Council of the Realm, first summoned in 1070, and attended by twelve representatives from every county. This was no longer a meeting of the ordinary freemen, but representation was based on land tenure, and the Council became a court of the vassals of the Crown, composed of bishops, abbots, earls, barons, and knights, who held land directly from the king. Under the first Norman kings the authority of the Great Council was limited. It still, indeed, discussed questions of foreign and general policy, and enjoyed a certain legislative authority, but it had no power to join in taxation; and although its "Counsel and Consent" was necessary in matters of fiscal as well as of political importance, its functions seem to have become almost nominal. In the reign of Henry II (A.D. 1154 to 1189), its authority was considerably extended, and about this time it began to be summoned regularly, and the Commons were admitted to its deliberations. Although it engaged in the discussion of taxation, yet the Crown resolutely maintained that the sole right to levy taxes on the subject was vested in the Sovereign. During the troubled times of John's reign, however, the authority of the Great Council increased rapidly, and in 1215, in the Magna Charta, its constitution was more clearly defined and its powers over taxation were first formally recognised, by the enactment that no burthen beyond the customary feudal aids might be imposed, "save by the Common Council of the Realm."

There was as yet but one assembly, but it is to be noticed that in Magna Charta, for the first time, an important distinction was made between the "greater" and the "lesser" barons; the former, it was enacted should be summoned to the Council personally by special writ, but the latter were to be called together by a general writ addressed to the sheriffs. In this, according to Mr. Freeman, lay the germ of popular representation.

Up to this time the towns had enjoyed comparative immunity from taxation, but their growing importance, and the increasing wealth of the mercantile class, which was not represented in the Great Council, made it desirable, as a means of making taxation more efficient, that the towns should be brought into contact with the central authority. Accordingly, in 1265, Simon de Montfort, in the king's name, summoned a parliament at Westminster, and besides requiring the attendance of two knights from every shire, he ordered the return of two citizens or burgesses from each town. The Parliament of 1265, therefore, was the first distinct foundation of a system of popular representation.

During the reign of the first three Edwards the assembly was in a period of transition, and at the close of the reign of Edward III the division into Lords and Commons had become apparent. In that reign it was the practice for the prelates, with the clergy, to consult by themselves: the nobles by themselves: and the knights and burgesses by themselves: but sending the result of their deliberations collectively to the king. The clergy and baronage—the official and hereditary element—gradually became an upper Assembly, while the union of the knights of the shire with the burgesses became known as the "Commons." Under the strong-willed Tudor dynasty the Commons displayed little independence (although they refused to accede to some of the demands of Henry VIII), and it was not till the accession of the House of Stuart that the long struggle between the Sovereign and the Parliament began. By making the grant of supplies contingent upon the redress of grievances, the House of Commons during the Stuart dynasty was able to greatly extend and consolidate its authority. The unyielding disposition of Charles I led him to attempt to govern without a Parliament, and his growing necessities drove him to many illegal expedients for raising money by forced loans, "ship-money," tonnage and poundage, &c., thus alienating popular sympathy, and enlisting it on the side of the Parliament. After the Restoration the popular assembly showed some symptoms of a relapse into subservience, but only outwardly so; its supremacy was firmly established by the Revolution of 1688, which for the second time drove the representative of the Stuart dynasty into exile, and finally transferred the principal authority from the king to the representatives of the people.

In the Declaration of Right submitted to William III on coming to the throne, the powers of the House of Commons are clearly defined. William accepted the crown with the acknowledgment that the king had no right to exercise a dispensing power, or to exact money, or maintain a standing army, "save by consent of Parliament." A very important change was effected soon after his accession. The vote of supplies was made an annual one, and the powers necessary for the pay and discipline of the army were granted but for a single year. The grant of supplies and the Army Act have remained annual ever since, and the necessity for passing them ensures the annual meeting of Parliament. To William III also belongs the credit of the solution of the difficulty occasioned by the growth of the new power of the Commons, when he began to choose his ministers from among the members of the party strongest in the House of Commons. This change is the origin of our system of government by party, and has been productive of far-reaching results.

In 1714, upon the accession of the House of Hanover, the power of the House of Commons was well established, and its place in the constitution had become clearly defined. The Septennial Act, limiting the duration of parliaments to seven years, was passed in 1716. At the Restoration the number of members was 513, and they were increased to 558 in 1707, when the Act of Union of the English and Scottish Parliaments was passed, and 45 members were allotted to Scotland. In 1800, upon the union with the Irish Parliament, 100 members were added, bringing the total up to 658. By the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885, the number of members was raised from 652 to 670—England and Wales having 495 instead of 489, Scotland 72 instead of 60, Ireland having still 103. The County seats in England and Wales are now 253 instead of 187, in Scotland 39 instead of 32, and in Ireland 85 instead of 64, while the number of Borough seats (including Universities) was in England reduced from 302 to 242, in Scotland raised from 28 to 32, and in Ireland reduced from 39 to 18. The total result was that throughout the United Kingdom the number of County seats was raised from 283 to 377, while the number of Borough seats (including Universities) was reduced from 369 to 293.

The franchises upon which the House of Commons was elected began to be the subject of Parliamentary discussion in 1785, when Pitt brought forward his motion for Electoral Reform, by which many of the decayed boroughs would have been disfranchised. In 1809 Sir Francis Burdett again raised the question; but, although the subject was afterwards kept much before the public, it was not till 1832 that what is known as the first Reform Act was passed. By this Act, 56 constituencies, returning 111 members, were totally disfranchised, and thirty others lost one Member each. 22 new Boroughs were given the right to return two members, and 20 to return one member. 65 new County constituencies were created. In Scotland and Ireland, the County representation remained unaltered, but eight new Scotch boroughs were added. Both the Borough and County franchises were extended, the franchise being bestowed in Boroughs on all £10 resident householders.

In 1867 the second Reform Act was passed by Mr. Disraeli. 11 Boroughs in England were totally disfranchised, and 23 others lost one member each. 25 new seats were bestowed on boroughs and Universities, and 28 on Counties. The franchise was conferred in Boroughs on all householders, and on lodgers occupying lodgings of not less than £10 annual value. In the following year the Act, with some slight modifications, was extended to Scotland. In Ireland, the County franchise remained unaltered, but in Boroughs, householders rated at an annual value of £4 or upwards became entitled to vote.

If there was any injustice or shortcoming in the Reform Act of 1867, both parties were equally responsible for it. The Liberals were at that time in a majority in the House of Commons, and could have passed any amendments they liked, or rejected the Bill altogether. In fact, however, the Act, as it was finally passed, was very much in advance of the measure proposed by Mr. Gladstone in 1866, and was regarded by many of the Liberal party, notably by the late Mr. Bright, as having gone to the very verge of what might be granted with safety. Naturally no attempt was made to amend the representation of the people during Mr. Gladstone's next period of office, which lasted from 1868 till 1874.

In 1872, Mr. G. O. Trevelyan moved a resolution in favour of extending the Borough franchise to the Counties. A resolution of a similar tendency was brought forward by Sir Charles Dilke in 1873. Both were opposed by Mr. Gladstone, and rejected by large majorities. When the Conservatives came into power in 1874, these resolutions, which were annually renewed, began to receive a growing support from the Liberal party, but it was not till 1878 that Lord Hartington, then the official leader of the Opposition, formally adopted the equalisation of the franchise in town and county as an article of the Liberal creed.

The Franchise Act of 1884 marks the third of the great changes in the Constitution of the House of Commons which have taken place in the present century.

By this Act household suffrage and the £10 occupation and lodger franchise were extended to the counties throughout the United Kingdom.

PROCEDURE.

The rules of procedure in the House of Commons as regards public business are numerous and complicated. The following brief abstracts of the principal Standing Orders and regulations may be useful for reference; it has been abridged from the small volume, published annually, entitled "Rules, Orders, and Forms of Procedure of the House of Commons." Many of the technical terms used in connection with this subject will be found in the "Glossary of Political Terms," post.

The Chair.—The Speaker presides at all meetings of the House, and the Chairman of Ways and Means, as Deputy Speaker, acts in his absence, and also presides when the House is "in Committee." There is also a Deputy Chairman, empowered to act in the absence of the Chairman, and as Deputy Speaker in the absence of both the Speaker and Deputy Speaker. Five members are nominated by the Speaker annually to act as temporary Chairmen of Committees when required.

Sitting and Adjournment of the House.—The House now ordinarily meets at 2.45 p.m., except on Fridays. Business is preceded by prayers; after prayers the House is counted, and if 40 members be not present a second count is made at 4 o'clock. If a quorum be not then present, the House stands adjourned until the next sitting day. If notice is taken, or the numbers in a division show, that 40 members are not present, the House at once adjourns. The time-table of business, as arranged in 1906, is as follows:—

- 2.45 p.m. House meets. Prayers.
- 2.50 ,, Private business—not to last later than 3 p.m.

Not later than

- 3. 0 p.m. Questions.

- 3.45 p.m. Urgent questions. Public business.
- 8 8.30 ,, Informal adjournment.
- 8.15 ,, Consideration of adjournment motion or private business (if any).
- 11. 0 ,, End of public business.

On every day, except Friday, public business ends at 11.0 p.m. Opposed business cannot afterwards be taken, but an exception may be made in regard to any particular matter on a motion by a Minister of the Crown, decided without debate.

The ordinary sittings terminate at 11.30 p.m., unless previously adjourned, or unless a financial Bill or any proceedings taken under an Act of Parliament or Standing Order are under consideration, in which case the sitting may be prolonged if necessary.

On Fridays the House meets at mid-day, and sits until 5.30 p.m., unless previously adjourned. Business is not entered upon until 40 members are present, but even if there be no quorum, the House cannot be adjourned until 4 o'clock. The debate on any business is interrupted at 5 p.m., and no opposed business is taken afterwards.

No motion for the adjournment of the House can be made until questions have been disposed of, and no such motion can be made before the business of the day has been entered upon, except by leave of the House; a member rising in his place, proposes to move the adjournment for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, and not less than 40 members rise in their places to support the motion; if fewer than 40 members and not less than 10 rise, the House determines by a division whether the motion shall be made. If the motion is supported by 40 members, or is carried, it comes on for discussion at 8.15 p.m. When, during any debate, a motion is made to adjourn or to report progress, the debate thereupon must be confined to the matter of such motion; and no member who has moved or seconded any such motion is entitled to move or second any similar motion during the same debate. If the Speaker or Chairman is of opinion that a motion for adjournment of the debate, or to report progress, is an abuse of the rules of the House, he may forthwith put the question thereupon from the chair, or he may decline to notice it.

Conduct of Members.—Every member must be uncovered on entering or leaving the House, or on moving from one part of the House to another, and must make an obeisance to the chair in passing to or from his seat. Seats may be retained for the sitting by members who have been present at prayers, but not otherwise. The front bench on the right of the chair is reserved for Ministers; that on the left is ordinarily occupied by Privy Councillors or other members who have held office. No member may pass between the chair and any member who is speaking from either of the two lower benches; nor between the chair and the table; nor may he read any newspaper, book, or letter in his place.

Admission of Strangers.—Persons desirous of admission to the Speaker's, or Distinguished Strangers' Gallery must make application to a member, who may then apply, personally or by letter, at the office of the Speaker's Secretary. Admission to the Special Gallery and under the gallery is only granted on the personal application of a member to the Serjeant-at-Arms. Tickets of admission to the Strangers' Gallery can be obtained through a member, but orders of admission (except to the Ladies' Gallery) for the same day are issued after 4.15 p.m. (12.15 p.m. on Fridays) from the Admission Order office in St. Stephen's Hall. Applicants for these go direct to the Admission Order Office, without applying to a member. An applicant, however, is required to give a member's name as a reference, in case of necessity, before being admitted. The Members' Lobby is reserved for members and Peers only, and for some permanent officials, secretaries of Ministers, and such others as are included in a special list authorised by the Speaker. Parliamentary agents are admitted to the Members' Lobby until half-past five o'clock. Persons going to the offices of the House on business are admitted at all times. When the Committees are not sitting, none but persons going to the offices of the House are admitted. When the Committees are sitting, persons proceeding to them are only permitted to enter the Committee Rooms and offices pertaining thereto. During the sitting of the House no visitor is admitted to the central hall, unless he wishes to see a member, or has a ticket of admission to one of the galleries, and no persons except those who have such tickets are permitted to go beyond the central and lower waiting halls. Members can take friends into the strangers' dining and smoking rooms and on the terrace, but not into the library, reading room, tea room, and members' dining room. Strangers may be ordered to withdraw by vote of the House, decided without debate, or by order of the Speaker or Chairman at any time.

Business of the House.—The ordinary public business of each day consists of orders of the day and notices of motion. An order of the day is a Bill, or other matter, which the House has ordered to be taken into consideration on a particular day.

Orders of the day generally take precedence of motions on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays; Government business having precedence at every sitting except after 8.15 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, and the sitting on Friday. After Easter, Government business has precedence on Tuesday, and after Whitsuntide, until Michaelmas, at all ordinary sittings, and nearly all Friday sittings. After Whitsuntide, all public Bills, except those introduced by the Government, are arranged so as to give priority to those which are most advanced in their stages.

Except for a money bill, no order of the day or notice of motion can be taken after eleven at night, if objection is made to its progress.

The House proceeds each day at afternoon sittings with, 1, Private Business; 2, Petitions; 3, Questions; 4, Any motion for adjournment on matter of public importance; 5, Matters taken at the commencement of Public Business; 6, Orders of the Day and Notices of Motion. Notices of motions take precedence of orders of the day on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. When a motion has been made and seconded a question thereupon is proposed to the House by Mr. Speaker; if it is not seconded it drops at once. A motion once made can only be withdrawn by the unanimous leave of the House. A question may be superseded: 1, By Adjournment or by a "Count out;" 2, By a motion "That this House do now proceed to the Orders of the Day," or "That the Orders of the Day be now read;" 3, By Amendment. A decision by the House on a question may be prevented by moving the Previous Question, i.e., "That that question be not now put," and to this motion no amendment may be moved. If the previous question be negatived, the original question is to be put forthwith, without amendment or debate. Debate upon a question may be interrupted: 1, By a matter of privilege suddenly arising; 2, By words of heat between members; 3, By a question of order; 4, By a message from the King or Lords Commissioners; 5, By an answer to an address; 6, By a message from the Lords.

Closure.—The Closure rule adopted in March, 1887, and amended in March, 1888, is as follows:—

"That after a question has been proposed, a member rising in his place may claim to move, 'That the question be now put,' and, unless it shall appear to the Chair that such motion is an abuse of the rules of the House, or an infringement of the rights of the minority, the question, 'That the question be now put,' shall be put forthwith, and decided without amendment or debate.

“When the motion, ‘That the question be now put,’ has been carried, and the question consequent thereon has been decided, any further motion may be made (the assent of the Chair as aforesaid not having been withheld) which may be requisite to bring to a decision any question already proposed from the Chair. Also, if a clause be then under consideration, a motion may be made (the assent of the Chair as aforesaid not having been withheld) that the question, that certain words of the clause defined in the motion stand part of the clause, or that the clause stand part of, or be added to, the Bill, be now put. Such motions shall be put forthwith, and decided without amendment or debate.

“Provided always, that this rule shall be put in force only when the Speaker or the Chairman of Ways and Means is in the chair.” Questions for the closure of debate under this order are decided in the affirmative if, when a division be taken, it appears by the numbers declared from the Chair that not less than 100 members voted in the majority in support of the motion.”

Rules of Debate.—Every member desiring to speak must rise in his place uncovered, and address himself to the Speaker. A member may not read a speech, but may refresh his memory by notes. Members can only speak to a point of order, while the House is dividing, by permission of the Speaker, and, while speaking, are to sit covered. A new member who has not yet spoken, is generally called upon, by courtesy, in preference to other members. On resuming an adjourned debate, the member who moved its adjournment is allowed precedence by courtesy. The Speaker or Chairman may call the attention of the House, or Committee, to continued irrelevance or tedious repetition of his own arguments, or the arguments of others, on the part of a member; and may direct the member to discontinue his speech. In questions to ministers or other members, no argument or opinion may be offered, nor any facts stated, except so far as necessary to explain the question. By indulgence, a member may explain matters of a personal nature, although there be no question before the House; but they may not be debated. A reply is allowed to a member who has made a substantive motion to the House. Any member may rise to speak “to order,” or upon a matter of privilege suddenly arising. No member is to allude to any debate of the same Session, on any question not then under discussion.

A member may not allude to any debate in the other House of Parliament. He may not use His Majesty’s name irreverently in debate, nor for the purpose of influencing the House in its deliberations; nor may he refer to any other member by name. In case of grave disorder, the Speaker may adjourn the House, or suspend the sitting for a fixed time.

Censure.—Whenever any member is named by the Speaker or Chairman, immediately after an offence of disregarding the authority of the Chair, or of abusing the rules of the House by persistently and wilfully obstructing the business of the House, or otherwise, has been committed by such member, a question is forthwith put, without amendment, adjournment, or debate, “That such member be suspended from the service of the House.” If any member is so suspended, the Order continues in force until the end of the Session, unless previously rescinded. The suspension does not exempt the member from serving on any private bill committee. Not more than one member can be “named” at the same time, unless several have jointly disregarded the authority of the Chair. A member whose conduct is grossly disorderly may be ordered to withdraw from the House for the remainder of the day’s sitting, or he may be “named” as above described. On March 7, 1901, in consequence of the action of certain Irish members, the following amended Standing Order was passed:—“That if any member or members acting jointly, who have been suspended under this Order from the service of the House, shall refuse to obey the direction of the Speaker, when severally summoned under the Speaker’s orders by the Serjeant-at-Arms to obey such direction, the Speaker shall call the attention of the House to the fact that recourse to force is necessary in order to compel obedience to his direction, and the member or members named by him as having refused to obey his direction shall thereupon, and without further question put, be suspended from the service of the House, during the remainder of the Session.” (The regulations governing the question of order in debate were under consideration in the Session of 1902, but the discussion was suspended, and has not since been resumed.)

Divisions.—No member may vote unless present when the question is put, and every member so present must vote. When a division is taken strangers are excluded from seats below the bar, and a two-minute sand-glass is turned to allow members time to enter the House, after which the doors are locked, and the Speaker puts the question. After the voices have been given, he declares whether, in his opinion, the "ayes" or the "noes" "have it." If his decision is challenged, he directs the "ayes" to go into the right lobby, and the "noes" into the left lobby, and appoints two tellers for each party. When all the members have resumed their places, the tellers on either side come to the table and report the numbers to the Speaker, who declares them to the House. If he is of opinion that a division is unnecessarily claimed, he may take the vote by calling upon the members who support and who challenge his decision, to rise in their places, and he shall then either declare the numbers or name tellers for a division.

Public Bills.—A member who wants to initiate a Bill must attend at the beginning of business on the first day of a Session, and must ballot for a place for his notice. On his position in the ballot, early or late, very much depends the chance of pushing the Bill through Parliament. The ballot can be drawn by one member for another, and groups of members sometimes ballot individually for the same Bill, thus securing additional chances of success. Bills making grants of public money must originate with Ministers, and must be first considered in Committee of the whole House. The first reading of a Bill may be taken immediately after the same has been presented. On the order being read for the second reading of a Bill, a motion is made, and a question put, "That the Bill be now read a second time," and amendments may be moved by leaving out "now," and substituting "three months," "six months," or any other time; or that the Bill be rejected. A Bill having been read a second time, is ordered, with certain exceptions, and unless the House otherwise direct, to be committed to a Standing Committee, see below (Standing Committees). When a Bill has been fully considered in Committee of the whole House, the Chairman is directed to report it to the House. Clauses may be withdrawn by the member in charge of the Bill on giving two days' notice. A Bill reported without amendment is ordered to be read a third time, and on the third reading a motion is made and question put, that the Bill be now read a third time, to which amendments may be moved, as on the second reading. After the third reading, and further proceedings thereon, the title of the Bill is agreed to, and the Bill is passed without further question. For a description of the various Committees of the House of Commons see "Glossary of political terms," post.

Standing Committees.—The Standing Orders of the House were altered in 1919,* so as to provide for the establishment of six Standing Committees, as follows:—

(1) When a Bill has been read a second time it shall stand committed to one of the Standing Committees, unless the House, on motion to be decided without amendment or debate, otherwise order. But this order shall not apply to—

(a) Bills for imposing taxes, or Consolidated Fund or Appropriation Bills; or

(b) Bills for confirming Provisional Orders.

(2) The House may, on motion made by the member in charge of a Bill, commit the Bill to a Standing Committee in respect of some of its provisions, and to a Committee of the whole House in respect to other provisions. If such a motion is opposed, the Speaker, after permitting, if he thinks fit, a brief explanatory statement from the member who makes and from the member who opposes the motion, shall without further debate put the question thereon.

The six Committees are designated the A. B. C. D. E. and Scottish Committee respectively, and their procedure is assimilated to that of Committees of the whole House. The Scottish Committee consists of all the members representing Scottish constituencies, together with ten other members nominated by the Committee of Selection, having regard in such apportionment to balance of parties in the whole House, and having power from time to time to discharge such members, and to appoint others in their place.

Each of the other Committees consists of not less than 40 nor more than 60 members, and it is provided that for the consideration of Public Bills relating exclusively to Wales and Monmouthshire the Committee shall include all the members for Wales and Monmouthshire.

The Bills committed to a Standing Committee are distributed among them by the Speaker, and in all but one of the Committees Government Bills have precedence.

The Chairman of the Committee is given power to apply the closure under the same conditions as in the House, except that 20 members is the number necessary to render the majority effective.

Supply.—Whenever the Committee of Supply stands as an Order of the day, the Speaker leaves the Chair without putting any question, unless on first going into Supply on the army, navy, or civil service estimates respectively, or on a vote of credit, an amendment is moved, or question raised, relating to the estimates proposed to be taken in Supply. In 1896, for the first time, a Sessional Order was passed allotting twenty days, before the 5th August, to the business of Supply, with an additional three days, if necessary, before or after the same date. If the business is not completed within that time the remaining votes are to be decided upon in classes forthwith. Supplementary estimates and votes of credit are excluded from the computation, and the proceedings are not to be interrupted by motions for adjournment or other dilatory motions. The success of this experiment in providing for the regular and business-like discussion of the Estimates has been very marked, and the Sessional Order has since been annually renewed, with some variations.

* The new Standing Orders are not yet available, so the full effect of the alterations cannot be given.—Ed.

Partly considered Bills.—In the Session of 1890, owing to the excessive length of the debates, Lord Salisbury's Government brought forward proposals by which power would be given to the House of Commons to carry over Bills from one Session to another. A Committee was appointed, and the Government proposals were met by Mr. Gladstone with a direct negative, but his draft report framed in that sense was rejected.

The Report of the Committee stated that the exhausting labours imposed upon members of Parliament were excessive and increasing, and that the closure was inadequate to enable the House to deal with lengthy, complicated, and controversial Bills. It was necessary, therefore, either to adopt a more stringent form of closure or to give power to revive measures in the succeeding session. They recommended the second alternative. They proposed that—

“A Standing Order should be passed, under which any Public Bill, in progress in Committee of the whole House, or in a Standing Committee, or which had been reported, or which had reached any further stage, might, on the motion of a member in charge of the Bill, be suspended until the next Session.

“If the Motion were carried, then, in the ensuing Session of the same Parliament, a Member whose name was on the suspended Bill might present the Bill in the form in which it stood when the Proceedings thereon were suspended; and the Questions on the First and Second Readings thereof should be successfully put forthwith.

“If both Questions be carried, the Bill would be ordered to be printed; and, if it had been partly considered in Committee in the previous Session, the Committee would begin their consideration of the Bill at the Clause on which Progress was reported in the previous Session; but if it had been reported from Committee in the previous Session, its consideration, as reported, would be appointed for that day week.

“If the First or Second Reading were negatived, such Vote was not to preclude the House from entertaining a Bill on the same subject under the ordinary Rules of Procedure.”

The Committee pointed out that the proposed Standing Order was limited to Bills which had originated in one House and which had never left it, and they recorded their opinion that neither House could, of its own authority, postpone to a future Session any Bill sent to it from the other House without a breach of constitutional usage.

The Committee summarised the various considerations as follows:—

“The length of discussion to which it is thought necessary to subject measures which are the object of party controversy has increased, is increasing, and does not seem likely to diminish. As a result, the difficulty of passing such measures through all their stages in the course of one Session has increased likewise. This difficulty is especially felt in the case of long and complicated Bills, and it is precisely in the case of these Bills that the closure of debate is most ineffective as an instrument for facilitating the rapid progress of business. It is, therefore, desirable to increase the power of the House of Commons to deal with such measures; it is also desirable to shorten the length of Sessions, whose present duration overtakes the endurance of Members and embarrasses the machinery of administration; but it is not desirable, so long as any other alternative remains, to increase the stringency of the existing machinery for closing debate. Your Committee believe that if these three principles be accepted every possible alternative is excluded, except one which shall relieve Parliament in certain cases from the necessity of repeating in two successive Sessions the same debate upon the same questions. They attach no weight, for reasons above given, to any objections that have suggested themselves to this plan, based upon the relations now existing between the two Houses of Parliament. They think the change, though undoubtedly an important one, is much less violent in character and much less at variance with the spirit of Parliamentary tradition than some alterations which have been made of late years in Parliamentary procedure; and they point out that if, as they recommend, it be effected, by Standing Order instead of by Bill, the experiment may be purely tentative, and could be abandoned, should that course be subsequently thought desirable, by the sole action of the House of Commons, without requiring the consent of the other branch of the Legislature.”

N.B.—General Elections prior to 1832 took place as follows; 1807, 1812, 1818, 1820, 1826, 1830, and 1831. In 1832, the number of members in the House of Commons was fixed at 658. In 1844 and 1852 four seats were disfranchised, and were allotted elsewhere in 1861. In 1870 six seats were disfranchised. The number of members was increased to 670 by the Redistribution Act of 1885. A further increase was made under the Representation of the People Act, 1918, to 707 members.

NUMBER OF VOTES RECORDED, 1880—1910 (DEC.).

The following return gives, approximately, the number of votes polled in contested constituencies at the last nine General Elections.

Its value for purposes of comparison is of course very much neutralized by the large number of uncontested Elections, especially in 1886, 1895, and 1900.

POPULATION AND REPRESENTATION.

The estimated population of the United Kingdom on June 30, 1914, was 46,064,738, and the total number of Members of the House of Commons is 707.

Dividing the population by the number of members, each member should represent a population of 65,155. As it is, however—

England (with Monmouthshire), with a population of 34,855,173, has 498 members, or one member for every 69,990 persons.

Wales, with a population of 2,105,511, has 30 members, or one member for every 70,184 persons.

Scotland, with a population of 4,728,500, has 74 members, or one member for every 63,898 persons.

Ireland, with a population of 4,375,554, has 105 members, or one member for every 41,672 persons.

At the proportion of one member to represent 65,155 people—

England should have 536 members, instead of 498, as at present.

Wales should have 32 members, instead of 30, as at present.

Scotland should have 72 members, not 74 as at present.

Ireland should have 67 members, not 105 as at present.

COST OF GENERAL ELECTIONS.

The expenses incurred by candidates at the General Elections, including the returning officers' charges, are stated in Parliamentary returns as follows:—

UNCONTESTED BY-ELECTIONS, 1911-18.

(Excluding Ministerial re-elections.)

NOTE.—In this list are included those Elections which, since the outbreak of the War on August 4th, 1914, have been contested so far as one candidate in each case is concerned by other than the representatives of the parties adhering to the political truce. This is done because the votes recorded at such Elections cannot be used for comparison in the previous table.

CONSTITUENCIES AND ELECTIONS

(Under the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885).

COMPLETE RETURNS, 1885—1918.

THE following pages contain a complete record, which will not appear in future issues of this book, of the Parliamentary Representation of the United Kingdom in the Constituencies constituted under the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885.

The new Parliamentary Representation which came into being under the Representation of the People Act, 1918, will be found on page 194 et seq.

Particulars are given below of the Population according to the figures furnished in the Reports on the 1911 Census, the figures of the Electorate in each Constituency in 1915, together with the results of the Polls at the General Elections of November-December, 1885; July, 1886; July, 1892; July, 1895; September-October, 1900; January, 1906; January, 1910; December, 1910; and at all By-Elections up to the Dissolution of Parliament in November, 1918.

The results of the Polls have been revised so as to accord with the Parliamentary Returns, so far as these are available.

The Constituencies are arranged in the following order:—

1. ENGLAND—

- (a) Counties, p. 248.
- (b) London Boroughs, p. 280.
- (c) Provincial Boroughs, p. 289

2. WALES—

- (a) Counties, p. 312.
- (b) Boroughs, p. 314.

3. SCOTLAND—

- (a) Counties, p. 316.
- (b) Burghs, p. 322.

4. IRELAND—

- (a) Counties, p. 327.
- (b) Boroughs, p. 337.

5. UNIVERSITIES, p. 339.

THE PARLIAMENTARY FRANCHISE (England and Wales).

The following is a Summary of the principal Franchise Provisions of the Representation of the People Act, 1918, relating to Men and Women in England and Wales in both Counties and Boroughs. The Franchises are in substitution for all previous Franchises.

MEN.

- A MAN : (a) must be a British subject ;
 (b) must on or before the last day of the qualifying period be twenty-one years of age.
 (c) must not be subject to any legal incapacity.

RESIDENCE QUALIFICATION.—Must have resided in the same constituency for the qualifying period, or have resided during the qualifying period in the constituency in immediate succession from another constituency within the same Parliamentary borough or Parliamentary county, or from a Parliamentary borough or Parliamentary county contiguous to that borough or county.

Notwithstanding anything in this Act, a man shall not be entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary elector for a constituency in respect of a residence qualification, though he may have been residing in premises in the constituency on the last day of the qualifying period, if he commenced to reside in the constituency within thirty days before the end of the qualifying period, and cease to reside within thirty days after the time when he so commenced to reside.

(NOTE.—Residence does not necessarily mean that only the occupier of a dwelling-house is qualified ; it also includes within its meaning any man who resides in any premises which may be his domicile or place of abode, and to which he has access at any time.)

BUSINESS QUALIFICATION.—Must have occupied business premises in the same constituency for the qualifying period, or have occupied business premises during the qualifying period in the constituency in immediate succession from another constituency within the same Parliamentary borough or Parliamentary county, or from a Parliamentary borough or Parliamentary county contiguous to that borough or county.

("Business premises" means land or other premises of the yearly value of not less than £10, occupied for the purpose of the business, profession, or trade of the person to be registered. The "yearly value" is defined as the gross estimated rental, or in the Metropolis the gross value.)

Where such land or premises are in the joint occupation of two or more persons, each of the joint occupiers shall be entitled to be registered if the aggregate yearly value of the premises be not less than the amount produced by multiplying £10 by the number of the joint-occupiers.

Provided that not more than two joint-occupiers shall be registered for the same land or premises unless they are bona fide engaged as partners carrying on their profession, trade or business on the land or premises.

UNIVERSITY QUALIFICATION.—Must have received a degree (other than an honorary degree) at any University forming, or forming part of, a University constituency.

FREEMAN.—A freeman of the City of London being a liveryman of one of the several companies who is entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary elector in respect of a business premises qualification within the city, shall be entitled, if he thinks fit, to be entered in a separate list of liverymen in the register of Parliamentary electors, and to record his vote for Parliament as a liveryman.

(The foregoing provision shall apply to the freemen of any borough if the council of the borough so resolve, and the expression "freemen" shall include any persons by whatever name called enjoying in that borough rights similar to those enjoyed by freemen of the City of London in that City.)

FOR NAVAL AND MILITARY QUALIFICATIONS see page 381.

WOMEN.

A WOMAN : (a) must be a British subject ;

(b) must on or before the last day of the qualifying period be thirty years of age.

(c) must not be subject to any legal incapacity.

QUALIFICATION.—Must be entitled to be registered as a Local Government elector in respect of the occupation in that constituency of land or premises (not being a dwelling-house) of a yearly value of not less than £5, or of a dwelling-house ; or is the wife of a husband entitled to be so registered.

Where such land or premises are in the joint occupation of two or more persons, each of the joint occupiers shall be entitled to be registered if the aggregate yearly value of the premises is of not less than the amount produced by multiplying £5 by the number of the joint occupiers.

Provided that not more than two joint occupiers shall be registered for the same land or premises, unless they are bona fide engaged as partners carrying on their profession, trade or business on the land or premises.

UNIVERSITY QUALIFICATION.—Must have received a degree (other than an honorary degree) at any University forming, or forming part of, a University constituency, or if at any University where women are not admitted to degrees she has passed such examination and kept such residence at that University as would entitle her to receive a degree if she were a man.

GENERALLY.

The letting or otherwise of a house as a furnished house for part of the qualifying period not exceeding four months in the whole shall not be deemed to be an interruption of residence or occupation.

NOTE.—There is no limit as to the distance within which an elector has to reside in order to be registered for a business qualification, as was the case under the old Parliamentary and Local Government Franchises for Boroughs.

NOTE.—There is no disqualification for non-rating or non-payment of rates.

A person shall not be disqualified from being registered as a Parliamentary or Local Government elector by reason that he or some other person for whose maintenance he is responsible has received poor relief or other alms.

Inmates or patients in any prison, lunatic asylum, workhouse, poorhouse, or any other similar institution, shall not by reason thereof be treated as resident therein for the purpose of this Act.

No person to vote at a General Election for more than two constituencies.

NEW DISQUALIFICATION.

Certain conscientious objectors (see Naval and Military Voters infra).

The wife of a conscientious objector is not disqualified.

QUALIFYING PERIOD.

The qualifying period shall be a period of six months, ending either on the 15th day of January or the 15th day of July, including in each case the fifteenth day.

Provided that in the application of this section to a person who is a naval or military voter, or who has been serving as a member of the naval, military or air forces of the Crown at any time during the said six months and has ceased so to serve, one month shall be substituted for six months as the qualifying period.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR NAVAL AND MILITARY PARLIAMENTARY VOTERS.

MEN AND WOMEN: Persons registered under these provisions must be of full age, i.e.—

- (a) Man, 21 years of age ;
- (b) Man, 19 years of age during the present war ;
- (c) Women, 30 years of age ;

on or before the last day of the qualifying period (viz., January 15th or July 15th), and must not be subject to any legal incapacity.

QUALIFICATION.—A person to whom this section applies (in this Act referred to as “a naval or military voter”) shall be entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary elector for any constituency for which he would have had the necessary qualification but for the service which brings him within the provisions of this section.

The right to be registered in pursuance of the foregoing provision shall be in addition to any other right to be registered, but a naval or military voter shall not be entitled to be registered for a constituency in respect of an actual residence qualification in the constituency except on making a claim for the purpose, accompanied by a declaration in the prescribed form, that he has taken reasonable steps to prevent his being registered under the foregoing provision for any other constituency.

(2) The statement of any person made in the prescribed form and verified in the prescribed manner, that he would have had the necessary qualification in any constituency but for the service which brings him within the provisions of this section, shall for all purposes of this section be sufficient if there is no evidence to the contrary.

(3) This section applies to any person who is of the age required under this Act in the case of that person and is not subject to any legal incapacity, and who

- (i) is serving on full pay as a member of any of the Naval, Military, or Air Forces of the Crown ; or
- (ii) is abroad or afloat in connection with any war in which His Majesty is engaged, and is
 - (a) in service of a Naval or Military character for which payment is made out of moneys provided by Parliament, or (where the person serving was at the commencement of his service resident in the United Kingdom) out of the public funds of any part of His Majesty's Dominions, or in service as a merchant seaman, pilot, or fisherman, including the master of a merchant ship or fishing boat and an apprentice on such a ship or boat ; or
 - (b) serving in any work of the British Red Cross Society or the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in England, or any other body with a similar object ; or
 - (c) serving in any other work recognised by the Admiralty, Army Council, or Air Council, as work of national importance in connection with the war.

(4) A male naval or military voter who has served or hereafter serves in or in connection with the present war shall, notwithstanding anything in this or any other Act, be entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary elector if that voter at the commencement of service had attained, or during service attains, the age of nineteen years, and is otherwise qualified.

REGISTRATION.—It shall be the duty of the registration officer, without any claim being made for the purpose, to place on the absent voters' list any naval or military voter, unless—

- (a) that person, not later than the 18th day of February as respects the Spring Register, and the 18th day of August as respects the Autumn Register, gives notice to the Registration Officer that he does not desire to be placed upon that List ; or
- (b) that person is registered, in pursuance of a claim for the purpose, for the constituency in which he has an actual residence qualification.

The Admiralty, the Army Council, and the Air Council, either directly or through officers appointed by them, shall in the prescribed manner furnish to the Registration Officers in the several constituencies such information as to the names and addresses of Naval and Military voters and such other particulars as may be necessary for the purpose of their Registration and of their voting as such; and it shall be the duty of the Local Government Board to render any assistance that may be required by the Admiralty, the Army Council, and the Air Council in conveying such information to the Registration Officers.

Provided that the Admiralty, Army Council, and Air Council shall not be required to supply any particulars which in their declared opinion would interfere with the proper conduct of the war.

The Registration Officer shall keep a record of any address which may be furnished to him by any person placed on the absent voters' list, or by the Admiralty, Army Council, Air Council, or Board of Trade as the address which is to be for the time being the address of the voter for the purpose of the provisions relating to voting by absent voters and, as soon as practicable, shall cause instructions to be sent to the voter as to the mode of voting under those provisions.

Voting by proxy permitted in case of Naval and Military voters in distant areas, and Merchant seamen, pilots, and fishermen at sea.

The record of addresses shall be open to inspection under the same conditions that govern the register.

DISQUALIFICATION.—Conscientious Objectors.—Any person, being a conscientious objector to whom this sub-section applies, shall be disqualified during the continuance of the war and a period of five years thereafter from being registered or voting as a Parliamentary or Local Government elector, unless, before the expiration of one year after the termination of the war, he proves to the central tribunal as established for the purpose of the Military Service Act, 1916 :—

- (a) that he has during the continuance of the war taken up and, so far as reasonably practicable, continued service which constitutes a person (other than a person serving on full pay as a member of any of the Naval, Military or Air Forces of the Crown) a Naval or Military voter for the purposes of this Act; or
- (b) that having been exempted from military service on condition of doing work of national importance, he has done such work in accordance with the decision and to the satisfaction of the appropriate tribunal or authority; or
- (c) that having obtained an absolute exemption from military service without any such condition, he has nevertheless (whether before or after the passing of this Act) been engaged in and, so far as reasonably practicable, continued some work of national importance; and obtains a certificate from the central tribunal to that effect.

This sub-section shall apply to a conscientious objector who either :

- (i) has been exempted from all military service (including non-combatant service) on the ground of conscientious objection; or
- (ii) having been convicted by court-martial of an offence against Military Law, and having represented that the offence was the result of conscientious objection to military service, has been awarded imprisonment or detention.

The central tribunal established under the Military Service Act, 1916, shall be continued for the purpose of this sub-section for a period of a year after the termination of the present war.

If a person disqualified under this sub-section would have been entitled to be registered as a Parliamentary or Local Government elector but for that disqualification, the disqualification shall not extend so as to affect the right of the wife of that person to be registered or vote as a Parliamentary or Local Government elector, as the case may be.

PARLIAMENTARY AND MUNICIPAL REGISTRATION.

(England and Wales.)

The Representation of the People Act, 1918, enacts that two Registers shall be prepared in each year. The Spring Register on the 15th April of those qualified during the six months ending with the 15th January, and the Autumn Register on the 15th October of those qualified during the six months ending with the 15th July.

During the war and twelve months thereafter, by Orders in Council, these dates and the dates for the stages of registration procedure (for publication of lists, for claims, objections, &c.), may be, and have been, varied. The first Register was published on 1st October, 1918, for the period of the six months ending 15th April, 1918. The second Register on 15th May, for the six months ending 15th January, 1919. The third Register is to be ready on 15th October, 1919, for the six months ending 15th June, 1919.

When permanent dates can be given a detailed list of the stages of Registration will be given on these pages.

NOTE.—The Registration Officers are bound to supply to any applicant a copy of any register or list of electors, claimants, etc., published by them, at the following rates :—

| | s. | d. |
|---|-----------|-----------|
| Not exceeding 100 names | 1 | 0 |
| For every additional 100 or part of 100 ... | 0 | 1 |

They are also bound to permit inspection of and extracts to be made from Claims and Notices of Objections in their custody, and to supply Forms of Claim and Notices of Objection, free of charge, or copies of any Notice of Claim or Objection at 4d. each—and of lists of Proxies appointed, not exceeding six names at 6d., and $\frac{1}{2}$ d. each additional name.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION LAW.

The Parliamentary Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act of 1883 introduced large changes into the previously existing law, and enacted a Code of Regulations for the conduct of elections. There are here shewn in a concise form as amended by the Representation of the People Act, 1918—

1. The principal acts which constitute offences against the election law and the penalties which they entail.
2. The regulations under which Candidates and their Agents are obliged to conduct the election.

1.—OFFENCES AT ELECTIONS.

The offences are grouped under three main heads: (A) Corrupt Practices, (B) Illegal Practices, (C) Illegal Payment, Employment, or Hiring.

(A) CORRUPT PRACTICES.

OFFENCES.

Bribery.—It is bribery to give, lend, or promise money or money's worth, in order to induce an elector to vote or abstain from voting for a particular candidate. The consequences are the same whether the payment is made directly or indirectly, and whether before, during, or after an election.

It is bribery to give, offer, or promise any employment to or for a voter, or anyone connected with him, with the same object. [No person must be employed for payment at an election except by the election agent, who is strictly limited in the numbers he may engage.]

Any person who gives money to be spent in bribery, or who repays it afterwards, is guilty of a corrupt practice.

It is bribery to make a gift or promise to any third person in order to secure an elector's vote.

It is bribery to pay the day's wages of any voter, or to give him money for railway fare, loss of time, &c.

An employer may give his workmen or servants reasonable leave of absence (without deduction of pay) for the purpose of voting, on condition that all voters in his employment are treated alike.

The elector who receives a bribe for his vote, or who bargains for a promise of employment or reward of any kind, is equally guilty of bribery, whether it is done before or after the election.

Treating.—The offence of treating is committed if any meat, drink, entertainment, or provision is corruptly paid or provided for any person at any time in order to influence him, or any third party, to vote or abstain from voting at the election.

PENALTIES.

To the briber or the person bribed, imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months, with or without hard labour, or a fine not exceeding £200.

Deprivation of the right of being elected to Parliament, or voting, for seven years.

Removal from, and disqualification for, any public office.

Payment of the costs of an election enquiry in gross cases.

If committed by a candidate personally, he loses his seat, if elected, and is disqualified for ever from representing the constituency.

If committed by any agent of a candidate, the election is void, and the candidate is disqualified for sitting in Parliament for the same place for seven years.

The same as for bribery.

OFFENCES.

Treating, continued—Treating the wives or relations of electors may constitute the offence. The quantity of refreshment provided is immaterial if the intention is corrupt. The gift of tickets to be exchanged for refreshment is equivalent to direct treating. The person accepting any meat, drink, or entertainment, is also guilty and punishable accordingly.

Undue Influence.—This offence consists—

(a) In using or threatening force or restraint to induce any elector to vote or not to vote at the election.

(b) In inflicting upon or threatening any temporal or spiritual injury against a voter with the same purpose.

(c) In abducting an elector, or fraudulently preventing, or interfering with him in giving his vote freely.

The withdrawal of custom or employment is undue influence, if done with the view of affecting the elector's vote.

A threat to evict a tenant with the same object comes within the definition of undue influence.

Personation.—Any person who applies for a ballot paper in the name of another, whether living or dead, or of a fictitious person, is guilty of personation.

Voting twice at the same election is the same as personation.

Aiding or abetting personation is equivalent to personation itself.

Forging or counterfeiting a ballot paper is an offence punishable as a misdemeanour.

Unauthorised Expenditure.—Incurring any expense on account of public meetings, or issuing advertisements, circulars or publications for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of any candidate, unless authorised in writing to do so, by the election agent of such candidate.

PENALTIES.

The same as for bribery.

The same as for bribery.

To the offender, imprisonment for a period not exceeding two years with hard labour.

Seven years' incapacity to be elected to vote or to hold any public office.

If committed by any agent of a candidate, the latter loses his seat if elected.

(B) ILLEGAL PRACTICES.

Paying or receiving money for the conveyance of voters to the poll, whether in counties or boroughs. (The provision of all but private conveyances, voluntarily lent, is absolutely prohibited, but electors may pay for their own conveyance to and from the poll.)

Paying an elector for exhibiting bills, notices, &c. (The receiver is also punishable; an ordinary advertising agent is exempted.)

Paying any money for election expenses in excess of the prescribed maximum, or through any person other than the election agent.

Hiring or letting committee rooms for payment in excess of the number allowed. (The number of such rooms is strictly limited, and they can be hired only by the election agent.)

A fine not exceeding £100.

Incapacity to vote, in the constituency, during the succeeding five years.

If committed by an agent of a candidate, the election of the latter may be rendered void.

OFFENCES.

Voting when prohibited, or inducing a prohibited voter to vote.

Exceeding Votes allowed.—Voting or attempting to vote in more constituencies than allowed under the Act (R. P. Act, S. 8), or otherwise than by proxy while a proxy appointment remains in force; or as a proxy (unless the husband, wife, parent, or adult brother or sister) for more than two absent voters, or if reasonable grounds for believing the proxy is cancelled, or the voter is dead or not entitled to vote (R. P. Act, 1918, Sch. 3 (10)).

Publishing a false statement of the withdrawal of any candidate, or a false statement of fact in relation to the personal character or conduct of a candidate.

(C) ILLEGAL PAYMENT, EMPLOYMENT, OR HIRING.

To provide money for an illegal practice or payment.

To pay for bands, torches, flags, banners, cockades, ribbons, or other marks of distinction.

To let, lend, hire, borrow, or use for the conveyance of voters to the poll, any animal or conveyance ordinarily kept for hire.

To employ any person (for payment) at the election for any purpose or in any capacity not permitted by the Act.

To induce corruptly any person to withdraw his candidature. The person so withdrawing is equally guilty.

To use as a committee room any licensed house, refreshment house, or public elementary school, or any part of the same.

To publish election bills, placards or posters, without the name and address of the printer and publisher.

PENALTIES.

{ Same punishment as above, but election not voided unless committed by the candidate or election agent.

{ A fine not exceeding £100. If committed by a candidate or his election agent, the consequences of an illegal practice are entailed.

2.—REGULATIONS FOR THE CONDUCT AND MANAGEMENT OF THE ELECTION.

(D) EXPENDITURE.

By the R.P. Act, 1918, S. 33, and the 4th Schedule, a new scale of expenditure is laid down beyond which a candidate is not at liberty to go without risking the loss of his seat; any expenditure above the maximum entails the penalties imposed upon the commission of an illegal practice. The maximum scale is as follows:—

| ELECTORATE. | EACH CANDIDATE. | | | | | | | | | |
|-------------|-----------------|-----|----------|----|--------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-----|----|---|
| | COUNTIES. | | BOROUGH. | | | | | | | |
| | | | Single. | | Joint. | | | | | |
| | £ | s. | d. | £ | s. | d. | | | | |
| 1 | | | 7 | | 5 | 3 ³ / ₄ | | | | |
| 5 | | | 2 | 11 | 2 | 1 | 6 ³ / ₄ | | | |
| 20 | | | 11 | 8 | 8 | 4 | 6 | 3 | | |
| 100 | | 2 | 18 | 4 | 2 | 1 | 8 | 1 | 11 | 3 |
| 500 | | 14 | 11 | 8 | 10 | 8 | 4 | 7 | 16 | 3 |
| 1,000 | | 29 | 3 | 4 | 20 | 16 | 8 | 15 | 12 | 6 |
| 5,000 | | 145 | 16 | 8 | 104 | 3 | 4 | 78 | 2 | 6 |
| 10,000 | | 291 | 13 | 4 | 208 | 6 | 8 | 156 | 5 | 0 |
| 20,000 | | 583 | 6 | 8 | 416 | 13 | 4 | 312 | 10 | 0 |
| 25,000 | | 729 | 3 | 4 | 520 | 16 | 8 | 390 | 12 | 6 |
| 30,000 | | 875 | 0 | 0 | 625 | 0 | 0 | 468 | 15 | 0 |

Thus with an Electorate of 20,000 the maximum total or combined expenses of the Two Joint Candidates for a Borough Constituency would be £625, being £312 10s. each.

Ireland.—This scale also applies to Ireland.

Joint Candidates—Undivided Boroughs.—These instances can now (since the R.P. Act, 1918) occur only in 13 Boroughs, and :—

The Universities of :—Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and the combined (seven) Universities of Durham, Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, Sheffield, Birmingham, and Bristol : each return Two members.

The combined (four) Universities of St. Andrews, Glasgow, Aberdeen, Edinburgh ; will return three members. Each of these University Constituencies is treated as a Borough, with possibly—but not necessarily—joint candidates. Each candidate may prefer to be separate. The elections for Universities will be by “Proportional Representation” with one transferable vote. R.P. Act, 1918, Section 20 (1).

Returning Officer's Charges.—These are outside the above-mentioned maximum expenses, and are payable by the Treasury and not by the candidate (R.P. Act, 1918, S. 29).

Deposit by each Candidate.—Each candidate must deposit £150 with the Returning Officer at the time of Nomination. This sum is to be returned as soon as he has taken the oath if the candidate is elected, or returned if he is not elected but has polled one-eighth of the number of votes polled, i.e., ballot papers (other than spoilt ballot papers) counted (R.P. Act, 1918, Ss. 26 and 27).

Election Agent's Fee.—A sum of £75 for a County, or a sum of £50 for a Borough Constituency as part fee or remuneration to the Election Agent is also outside the maximum expenses, but any further part or balance of the fee must be included within the maximum.

Personal Expenses.—The personal expenses of a candidate, which include the reasonable cost of his living at hotels or elsewhere for the purpose of the election, are also outside the prescribed maximum, and they are not limited to any precise amount, though any excess over £100 in this particular must be paid through the election agent.

(E) EMPLOYMENT.

In addition to the above restriction on the maximum expenditure, regulations are imposed upon the candidate in respect to the number of persons who may be employed, for payment, in the work of an election, and the number of committee rooms which may be engaged. They are as under :—

Boroughs.—In boroughs, in addition to one election agent (through whose hands all expenditure must pass), and a polling agent in each station, a number of clerks and messengers is allowed in the proportion of one for every 500 electors.

Counties.—In counties, there is allowed in addition to one election agent, a sub-agent for each polling district, together with one clerk and one messenger for every such district, or for every 500 electors in large districts. A candidate is also allowed a staff of clerks and messengers at the central committee room of the county, at the rate of one for every 5,000 electors.

Committee Rooms.—The engagement of committee rooms is authorised to the extent of one for each polling district (or for every 500 electors) in a county, and one for every 500 electors in a borough. Several restrictions are placed upon the choice of these committee rooms. They must not be held in either a licensed house or a refreshment house, or upon the premises of any elementary school in receipt of a parliamentary grant. But they may be held without objection in the rooms of any permanent political club.

(F) RETURN OF EXPENSES.

With a view to ensure the due observance of these provisions, the Act requires a detailed return of the amount expended under each head to be made by the election agent, and signed and attested before a Justice of the Peace. The candidate is also bound to make a similar declaration pledging his belief that the return is correct, and that no expenses have been incurred which are not included in it. If either a candidate or an election agent knowingly makes a false declaration, he is liable to a prosecution for perjury, and, if convicted, to seven years' penal servitude.

THE PARLIAMENTARY FRANCHISE. (Scotland.)

The following are the qualifications :—

MEN

(over 21 years of age). If a Naval or Military Voter (over 19 years of age).

A man is entitled to a Parliamentary Vote if on the last day of the qualifying period he is residing in premises or occupying business premises, that is land or other premises for the purpose of his business, profession, or trade, of annual value not less than £10 (£20 for two joint occupiers, £30 for three joint occupiers, if partners, and so on, £10 for each partner) in the Constituency, and during the whole of the qualifying period has resided in premises or occupied business premises as the case may be in the same Constituency or in the same Parliamentary Burgh or Parliamentary County, or in a contiguous Parliamentary Burgh or Parliamentary County, or in one separated by water not exceeding at nearest point six miles in breadth, measured in case of tidal water from low-water mark.

QUALIFYING PERIOD.—Six months ending either on 15th January (Spring Register) or 15th July (Autumn Register). One month for an ex-sailor or soldier, that is a person who has been serving as a member of the Naval, Military or Air Forces of the Crown at any time during the six months, and has ceased so to serve.

UNIVERSITY QUALIFICATION.—If he is a Graduate of a University.

NAVAL AND MILITARY QUALIFICATION.—Same as England.

WOMEN

(over 30 years of age).

A woman is entitled to a Parliamentary Vote if on the last day of the qualifying period either she or her husband is occupying, as owner or tenant, any land or premises, namely, any dwelling house (including service occupation, but excluding lodgings let furnished) of annual value not less than £5 (£10 for two joint occupiers, £15 for three joint occupiers, if partners, and so on, £5 for each partner) in the Constituency, and during the whole of the qualifying period has so occupied any land or premises in the same county (including Burghs) or County of a City.

QUALIFYING PERIOD.—Same as for men.

UNIVERSITY QUALIFICATION.—If she is a Graduate of a University.

WAR SERVICE QUALIFICATION.—Same as England.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The word "tenant" includes a person who occupies a room or rooms as a lodger only where such room or rooms are let to him or her in an unfurnished state.

Any "land or premises" other than a dwelling house must be of the yearly value of not less than £10 to qualify a man, or £5 to qualify a woman.

No rental is necessary when a "dwelling house" is the qualifying premises.

A "dwelling house" means any house or part of a house occupied as a separate dwelling.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

COUNTY COUNCILS.

Under the Local Government Act, 1888, a County Council was established in every County in England and Wales, the duties of which body include all the administrative and financial business of the county formerly transacted by the Magistrates in Quarter Sessions.

The next elections for the County Councils in England and Wales will take place, on a day to be fixed by the County Councils, between March 1st and March 8th, 1920, (If no day is so fixed, the elections will take place on March 8th.) A brief account is here given of the constitution of the County authorities and of the regulations under which the elections are conducted.

CONSTITUTION OF COUNCIL.

The Council consists of a Chairman, County Aldermen, and County Councillors.

They are elected and conduct their proceedings similarly to existing Town Councils in boroughs, with some exceptions.

The County is divided into Electoral Divisions, each returning one Councillor.

The Electoral Divisions are arranged so that the population of each is as nearly equal as possible, regard being had to the proper representation of rural and urban districts and to the distribution and pursuits of the population.

Boroughs with over 50,000 inhabitants are constituted administrative counties of themselves, and their Town Councils are the sole authority under the Act. The enrolled Local Government Electors (Burgesses) in other municipal boroughs elect a certain number of representatives to the Council of the County in which they are situated; they are not, however, entitled to vote on any expenditure to which the boroughs are not assessed.

London is constituted an administrative county, and each parliamentary division is an Electoral Division and elects two (the City of London elects four) Councillors.

The quorum of a County Council is one-fourth of the whole.

The Councillors are elected triennially, and all retire together.

A Councillor who is chosen to be an Alderman vacates his office of Councillor.

Bankruptcy, or absence from the County for 12 months, disqualifies an Alderman or Councillor.

CHAIRMAN.—The Chairman is elected by the Council from among the Aldermen or Councillors, or persons qualified to be such.

The Chairman holds office for one year, and may receive such remuneration as the Council think reasonable.

The Chairman (unless a woman) is ex officio a Justice of the Peace for the County.

COUNTY ALDERMEN.—The County Aldermen are elected by the Council and constitute one-third of the number of Councillors.

A person is disqualified for election as an Alderman unless he is a Councillor, or qualified to be a Councillor.

A County Alderman may not as such vote in the election of a County Alderman.

The term of office of a County Alderman is six years, but one-half of the first Aldermen chosen under the Act retire at the end of three years.

In the county of London the number of Aldermen must not exceed one-sixth of the number of Councillors.

QUALIFICATION OF ELECTORS.

In Municipal Boroughs the enrolled Local Government Electors (Burgesses) choose the Councillors to represent them on the County Council, and in the other parts of the county the qualifications entitling an Elector to be registered, and when registered to vote, are defined by the Representation of the People Act, 1918, substantially as follows :—

PERSONAL.—An Elector may be a man or a woman, but must be of full age, not subject to any legal incapacity, and enrolled on the Register of Local Government Electors.

QUALIFICATION OF COUNCILLORS.

The qualification of County Councillors is thus defined by the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, by 4 and 5 Geo. V., c. 21, and by R.P. Act, 1918, 8 Geo. V., c. 64, as extended to Counties:—

The Councillors are to be fit (i.e., legally qualified) persons chosen by the Local Government (County) Electors.

A person is not qualified to be elected, or to be a County Councillor, unless he

(a) Is enrolled, and entitled to be enrolled, as a Local Government Elector, and is possessed of real or personal property to the value, in the county, of £1,000; or is rated to the poor rate in the county on the annual (rateable) value of £30.

(b) “ Provided that every person shall be qualified to be elected, and to be a County Councillor, who is at the time of election qualified to elect to the office of Councillor, which last-mentioned qualification for being elected shall be alternative for, and shall not repeal or take away any other qualification.

“ But if a person qualified under the last foregoing proviso ceases for twelve months to reside in the county, he shall cease to be qualified under that proviso, and his office shall become vacant, unless he was at the time of his election, and continues to be, qualified in some other manner.”

(c) Has resided within the County or Borough during the whole of the twelve months preceding the election.

(d) Is the owner of property held by freehold, copyhold, leasehold, or other tenure within the area of that County Council local government authority.

The practical effect of these provisions is that any person who has so resided or who is the owner of property in the County or who is properly enrolled as a Local Government Elector may be elected a Councillor for that county, and need not in that case be qualified for election by property or rating.

The Local Government Act further provides that peers owning property in the county shall be qualified to be elected County Councillors.

Clerks in holy orders, and other ministers of religion, may also be elected, if duly qualified.

Women are qualified to elect and to be elected (7 Edw. VII, ch. 33).

The County and Borough Councils (Qualification) Act, 1914, adds the qualification by residence within the County or Borough during the whole of the 12 months preceding the election.

Disqualifications for Election.—Persons holding any office of profit in the gift or disposal of the Council, or any share or interest in any contract or employment with, by or on behalf of the Council. Bankrupts, persons convicted of felony, or corrupt practices. Coroners for the County.

THE ELECTIONS.

The poll at contested elections for the County Council is conducted by ballot, as a Parliamentary election. No elector can vote more than once at any election for the same county, even though he may be on the register for more than one electoral division. (In London any elector may vote for one or both candidates, but may not give his two votes to one candidate.)

The elections for all the divisions of a county are held on the same day, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

THE NOMINATION.

Every candidate must be nominated in writing by two registered Local Government Electors of the electoral division for which he stands, and eight others must assent to the nomination. The names of the nominators and assentors should be signed in full.

No elector must subscribe more nomination papers than there are vacancies to be filled.

Nomination papers must be delivered by the candidate, or his proposer or seconder at a place and time to be fixed by the Returning Officer. In a borough, nominations must be delivered to the Town Clerk.

A candidate may withdraw by giving written notice not later than 2 p.m. on the day after the last day for nomination.

CONDUCT AND MANAGEMENT OF THE ELECTION.

MAXIMUM EXPENSE.—The sum which a candidate may expend in the conduct and management of an election is regulated under the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884, by a scale which allows a maximum of £25 for the first 500 electors, and *threepence for each elector above that number. The limit of expenditure, therefore, will be as follows:—

|-------------------------|----------|
| For 500 electors | £25 0 0 |
| 1,000 „ | £31 5 0 |
| 1,500 „ | £37 10 0 |
| 2,000 „ | £43 15 0 |
| 2,500 „ | £50 0 0 |
| 3,000 „ | £56 5 0 |
| 3,500 „ | £62 10 0 |
| 4,000 „ | £68 15 0 |
| 4,500 „ | £75 0 0 |

And so on, at the rate of *threepence for each elector.

These sums must not be exceeded, or the ELECTION WILL BE VOID.

(In London, if two candidates stand jointly, the maximum amount for each must be reduced by one-fourth, and they are only in that case allowed to hire the number of committee rooms, and employ the number of persons authorised for a single candidate.)

COMMITTEE ROOMS.—One committee room is allowed to be hired for each electoral division, or if the number of electors exceeds 2,000 one additional committee room for every additional 2,000, or part of that number. The use of committee rooms voluntarily lent is not limited, provided they are not in prohibited premises.

The following premises, or any part of the same, MAY NOT BE USED either as a committee room or for holding a meeting to promote the election of a candidate viz. :—

Premises licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquor for consumption on or off the premises :

Premises where refreshment of any kind, whether food or drink, is ordinarily sold for consumption on the premises :

Premises where any intoxicating liquor is supplied to the members of a CLUB, SOCIETY, or ASSOCIATION.

N.B.—The use of Public Elementary Schools is not prohibited.

EMPLOYMENT.—The number of persons who may be employed for payment, as clerks or messengers, or in either capacity, in connection with the election is as follows:—

|------------------------------------|------------|
| Not more than 2,000 electors... .. | 2 persons. |
| „ „ 3,000 „ | 3 „ |
| „ „ 4,000 „ | 4 „ |
| „ „ 5,000 „ | 5 „ |

and so on, one additional person being allowed for every 1,000 electors, or part of that number.

There is no provision authorising the payment of an election agent, as such.

One polling agent is allowed for each polling station, and agents (unpaid) to attend the counting of votes on the candidate's behalf may also be appointed.

ELECTION EXPENSES.—Claims in respect of the election expenses of a candidate must be sent in within fourteen days after the election, or they will be barred and cannot be paid.

All such expenses must be paid within twenty-one days of the election.

Every agent must send into the candidate, within twenty-three days after the election, a return, in writing, of all expenses incurred by him in the conduct and management of the election (under a penalty of £50).

* April, 1919. The new Local Elections (Expenses) Act reduces this to twopence.

Every candidate must, within twenty-eight days after the election, send to the Clerk of the County Council a return of all expenses incurred by him or his agents, together with bills stating the particulars and receipts for all sums over twenty shillings.

A declaration must accompany the return.

A candidate who fails to make the return is forbidden, under a penalty of £50 a day, to sit or vote in the Council.

The penalties and disqualifications attending the commission of corrupt or illegal practices at the election of a County Councillor are similar in most respects to those which follow the same offences at Parliamentary elections.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT (England and Wales).

PARISH COUNCILS AND MEETINGS.

By the Local Government Act, 1894, Parish Meetings were brought into existence, the Guardians were reconstituted, and Parish, Rural District, and Urban District Councils were created.

QUALIFICATION OF ELECTORS.

For all elections under this Act the elector is the "local government elector," who is defined to be any person on the Local Government Register.

PARISH MEETINGS.

(a) Where there is a Parish Council there must be at least one annual meeting for the election of the Council, summoned by the chairman of the Council, by notice of not less than seven clear days before meeting. The meeting shall be held at an hour not earlier than 6 p.m. (b) In smaller parishes where there is no Parish Council, there must be at least two meetings a year. The chairman holds office for a year, and, with the overseers, forms a body corporate.

The Parish Meetings consist only of local government electors, and for the annual election of councillors a meeting is held in March. In absence of the chairman, the clerk of the Parish Council, or overseer, will discharge his duties.

PARISH COUNCILS.

I.—CONSTITUTION.

Every rural parish having a population of 300 and upwards has a Parish Council. (A rural parish is one situated in a rural sanitary district.)

In a rural parish with a population of 100 and upwards, if the Parish Meeting so decide, the County Council must issue an order for its establishment. In a rural parish with less than a population of 100 the County Council may, if the meeting so wish it, issue an order for its establishment, or such small parishes may, with consent of the meeting, be grouped together under a common Parish Council.

The Council consists of a chairman and councillors. The councillors are elected at the annual or first Parish Meeting, if there is no poll required. If there is a poll, then the election is by ballot according to rules laid down by the Local Government Board. The electors are the local government electors of the parish.

The chairman is elected by the councillors at the annual meeting, which takes place on or within seven days after the 15th of April.

The councillors and chairman hold office for three years from the 15th of April, 1904.

The number of councillors is not less than 5 nor more than 15, the number being fixed by the County Council.

The quorum of a Parish Council is one-third of the councillors, but in no case is the quorum to be less than three.

Absence of a councillor from meetings of the Council for more than six months consecutively, unless from illness or cause approved by the Council, vacates the seat.

II.—QUALIFICATION OF PARISH COUNCILLORS.

A person to be qualified as a parish councillor must be registered as a local government elector of the parish, or must have come into residence within it, or within three miles of it, on or before the 25th March in the year preceding the election. No person is disqualified by sex or marriage for being elected a parish councillor; practically, therefore, any adult elector or resident of either sex is qualified for election.

A person is disqualified for election when he [or she]

(a) Is an infant or alien.

(b) Has within 12 months before or after election received union or parochial relief.

(c) Has within five years before or after election been sentenced to imprisonment with hard labour; or has been adjudged a bankrupt, or compounded with his creditors.

(d) Holds a paid office under a parish council.

(e) Is a contractor under the council or board, or profits by any contract or work done for them.

Disqualification does not apply to a person selling or leasing land or lending money to the council or board, nor to contracts for supplying stone, gravel, &c., from his own land for road repairs, nor to the transport of such material for such repairs in his neighbourhood; nor does it apply to persons interested in newspapers which insert advertisements relating to council or board, nor to shareholders in joint stock companies holding contracts, but they must not vote on any matter in which the company is interested.

ELECTION OF PARISH COUNCILLORS.

(a) NOMINATION OF CANDIDATES.

At the parish meeting the chairman shall call for nomination papers to be handed to him, and number them as they are handed in, in the order in which he receives them.

Form of nomination paper may be obtained free from the Returning Officer, the overseers, or from the Clerk to the Parish Council.

The nomination paper should be filled up as a matter of precaution before the parish meeting. It must be signed by two local government electors of the parish, and no more, as proposer and seconder.

Each candidate must be nominated by a separate nomination paper; the same proposer or seconder may sign as many papers as there are candidates to be elected, but no more, for the parish, or ward (if there are wards).

When all the nomination papers have been received, and not less than fifteen minutes has elapsed since the chairman took the chair, he shall read out the names of all the duly nominated candidates alphabetically, with their addresses and descriptions, and the names and addresses of their proposers and seconders.

After this has been done, no further nominations can be received, except to replace candidates who may withdraw their names.

The chairman's decision that a nomination paper is valid is final; but if he decides that any paper is invalid, he must write and sign his reasons for so deciding, and inform the meeting thereof.

After the nominations are read out, questions may be put to candidates, and explanations given by them.

Candidates may withdraw their candidature before the names are put to the meeting, either in writing or by word of mouth, and in such event, if any elector desires it, an opportunity must be given for further nominations to be made.

(b) THE ELECTION.

The number of parish councillors for each parish is fixed by the County Council.

If the candidates validly nominated are not more in number than the number of councillors to be elected, the chairman declares them all duly elected.

If, however, the nominations are in excess of the number of councillors, the chairman will put each name to the meeting in its alphabetical order, and will take a vote by show of hands in favour of each candidate. The votes will be counted and the number in favour of each declared.

If no poll is demanded, he will declare those to be elected who have obtained the largest number of votes.

One-third of the electors present, or five electors, whichever number is least, may demand a poll to be taken, and if such demand be made and not withdrawn before the close of the meeting (ten minutes being given for the purpose), a poll will be taken as shewn below. If no poll is demanded, the declaration of the chairman, as to the result of the election, will be generally final, subject to an election petition (if any).

(c) THE POLL.

If a poll is demanded, the chairman shall send the names of the candidates and the nomination papers to the Returning Officer, and shall also send notice to each candidate that he has been nominated and that a poll has been demanded.

At any time, not later than twelve o'clock, on Tuesday following the Thursday after the Parish meeting for the election, a candidate may withdraw his candidature by giving written notice to the Returning Officer, and if the withdrawal of one or more names renders it unnecessary to take a poll, the Returning Officer declares the remaining candidates duly elected.

If a poll is taken the Returning Officer gives five clear days' notice, and the proceedings are conducted in a similar manner to those at a Parliamentary election, the votes being taken by ballot.

The poll shall take place on the first Monday in April, or, if that is Easter Monday, the last Monday in March; or in either case, such other day, not being earlier than the preceding Saturday or later than the following Wednesday, as may be decided by the County Council.

RURAL DISTRICT COUNCILS.

I.—CONSTITUTION.

The Rural District Council consists of a chairman and councillors.

The councillors are elected by the local government electors of those parishes or areas now electing guardians, and they are the representatives of that parish or area electing them on the Board of Guardians.

The chairman is elected by the councillors. The chairman, as also a vice-chairman, and not more than two other persons qualified to be district councillors, may be elected by the councillors outside their own body, and from those who have been ex officio guardians.

The term of office of councillors is three years, one-third as nearly as possible going out of office on the 15th of April in each year. By order of County Council they may retire simultaneously at end of the third year.

The chairman of the Rural District Council, unless a woman, is ex officio a Justice of the Peace for the county.

II.—QUALIFICATION OF COUNCILLORS.

A person qualified to be a councillor must be a local government elector of some parish within the union, or have resided in the union during the whole of the twelve months preceding the election. No person is disqualified by sex or marriage; practically, therefore, any adult elector or resident in the union, of either sex, is qualified for election.

Disqualifications are the same as those of parish councillors, referred to ante, but the disqualification is not removable as it is in certain cases of parish councillors, and certain further disqualifications as to guardians are applicable to rural district councillors.

III.—ELECTION OF RURAL DISTRICT COUNCILLORS.

Notice of election must be published by returning officer (the clerk of the council).

Candidates must be nominated as in case of parish councillors.

Nomination papers, properly filled in, must be sent to the returning officer.

Nomination papers may be obtained free from the returning officer or overseers.

No elector can sign nomination papers for more than the number of rural district councillors to be elected in any one parish or area.

Returning officers deal with nomination papers, as the chairman does in the case of parish councillors. Candidates may withdraw their candidature by giving the prescribed notice.

The number of rural district councillors is in each parish or area the same as the number of guardians.

If the candidates validly nominated are not more in number than the number of councillors to be elected the returning officer gives notice that no poll will be taken.

If there is to be a poll notice is given at least five clear days before date fixed.

The date and hours of the election are the same as for parish councillors elected for the same parish.

An elector cannot vote in more than one parish in the district, although his property may be in several.

GUARDIANS (OUTSIDE LONDON).

I.—CONSTITUTION.

Under rural district councillors, ante, the status and election of the guardians, and the term of office have been explained, so far as they relate to a guardian for rural districts, and the same apply to all guardians, whether in rural or urban districts outside London, with one or two minor differences in the case of guardians in boroughs, which are noted below.

II.—QUALIFICATION.

The qualification is the same whether in rural or urban districts, except in the case of a borough, where, additionally, in case of a parish wholly or partly situate in the borough, the residence qualification of a municipal councillor is that to qualify for a guardian.

III.—THE POLL.

The polling hours for Guardians in urban districts, other than boroughs, and for urban district councillors, are the same.

URBAN DISTRICT COUNCILS.

I.—CONSTITUTION.

The number of councillors is that provided by any local or personal Acts, the County Council having power from time to time to add to the number.

The local government electors of the parishes in the district are the electors of the councillors of the district, and if the District Council is divided into wards the electors of the councillors for each ward are such of the electors as have qualifications within that ward.

Each elector gives one vote and no more for each of any number of persons not exceeding the number to be elected.

The term of office of a councillor is three years, one-third of the Council as nearly as possible (and if the district is divided into wards one-third of such ward) going out of office on the 15th April in each year. The County Council may, on request of an Urban District Council, direct the members to go out simultaneously at the end of the third year. The chairman, unless a woman, is, ex officio, a Justice of the Peace for the county.

II.—QUALIFICATION OF URBAN DISTRICT COUNCILLORS.

A councillor must be a local government elector of some parish within the district, or have resided in the district during the whole of the twelve months immediately preceding the election. No person shall be disqualified by sex or marriage.

Disqualifications are the same as those for rural district councillors and guardians.

III.—ELECTION OF URBAN DISTRICT COUNCILLORS.

(a) Notice of election is given by the returning officer (the clerk to the council).

Nomination paper is provided by the returning officer free of charge.

It must be signed by two electors of the district, or ward, if there are wards.

Each candidate must be nominated by a separate nomination paper, and no elector shall sign more nomination papers than there are councillors to be elected for the district or ward, nor shall he sign nomination papers for more than one ward.

The returning officer deals with the nominations as in the case for district councillors, and publishes the names of those persons validly nominated.

A candidate may withdraw from his candidature by a notice in writing to the returning officer.

(b) Election.—If the valid nominations do not exceed the number to be elected there shall be no poll.

(c) Poll.—If there is to be a poll the returning officer gives notice at least five clear days before date fixed, with full particulars of candidates.

METROPOLITAN BOROUGH COUNCILS.

The London Government Act, 1899, established in London, in lieu of the Parish Vestries and District Boards, a number of councils which for all intents and purposes converted the various areas into Municipal Boroughs. Each of these boroughs is governed by a Council, consisting of a Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors. The qualification for the office of councillor is the same as for members of Urban District Councils, and the electors are the local government electors as defined by the Representation of the People Act, 1918. Any such elector is entitled to vote and to be a candidate (including women) for the office of Councillor.

INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES.

If a candidate, or a number of candidates combined, determine to institute a canvass of the parish, and to hold meetings, distribute bills, &c., with a view to their election, it is desirable that they should know the provisions of the law as regards such matters, and the limitations which it puts upon their action.

EXPENSES.

The Local Government Act, 1894, does not apparently contemplate that any large expense will be incurred by candidates at Elections under the Act, since no maximum sum has been laid down by it, nor is any return of expenses required to be made by Candidates, as in the case of Parliamentary and Municipal Elections.

The general provisions of Election law against bribery, treating, undue influence, personation, illegal practices, illegal payments, employment and hiring, apply however, to Parish Council Elections, and should be carefully studied.

It is considered that some of the restrictions imposed by the Municipal Elections Act, 1884, also apply to Parish Council Elections. Among such are the following:—

COMMITTEE ROOMS.

One Committee Room only is allowed to be hired by a Candidate. An additional Committee Room may be hired if the number of electors is above 2,000.

The following premises may not be used by a Candidate as a Committee Room:—
Premises licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquor for consumption on or off the premises.

Premises where refreshments of any kind, whether food or drink, are ordinarily sold for consumption on the premises.

Premises where any intoxicating liquor is supplied to the members of a Club, Society, or Association.

The use of Public Elementary Schools as Committee Rooms is not in terms prohibited, as at Parliamentary Elections, but it would be highly unwise that they should be used for the purpose.

EMPLOYMENT.

Two persons, but not more, may be employed for payment, either as Clerks or Messengers, when the number of Electors is below 2,000. One additional person is allowed for every further 1,000 electors, or part of that number, over 2,000.

Candidates who stand jointly are only allowed to hire the number of Committee Rooms and to employ the number of paid Clerks or Messengers authorised for a single Candidate.

If there are only two Candidates, each may appoint one Polling Agent for each Polling Station, who may be paid or unpaid.

If there are more than two Candidates, any number of them, being not less than one-third of the whole number of candidates, may appoint one Polling Agent for each Polling Station, who may be paid or unpaid.

Unpaid Agents to attend the counting of votes on the Candidates' behalf may also be appointed. Notice of the polling and counting Agents' names and addresses must be given to the returning Officer not less than two clear days before the polling. Each must make a declaration of secrecy before a magistrate or the Returning Officer.

MEETINGS.

The arrangements for meetings should be well considered beforehand, and the plans for engaging rooms, announcing the meetings, selecting Chairman and Speakers, &c., settled.

All printed Bills, Notices of Meetings, &c., must bear the name and address of the printer and publisher at foot.

THE CANVASS.

If a personal Canvass of the parish is decided upon, voluntary canvassers must be obtained in sufficient numbers.

PREPARATIONS FOR POLLING DAY.

When the list of nominations is closed, and a poll is certain to be held, the candidates should send to each elector a card, entering thereon particulars of his register number, and the time and place for the polling.

THE POLLING DAY.

All payments for conveyance of voters being prohibited by law, reliance must be placed upon such private vehicles as may be voluntarily lent for the purpose. No vehicle or animal which is usually let for hire may be used for the conveyance of voters to or from the poll.

TOWN COUNCIL ELECTION LAW.

QUALIFICATION OF TOWN COUNCILLORS.

The qualification of Town Councillors is thus defined by the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, by 4 and 5 Geo. V., c. 21, and by the R.P. Act, 1918.

The Councillors are to be fit (i.e. legally qualified) persons chosen by the local government electors (Burgesses).

A person is not qualified to be elected, or to be a Town Councillor, unless he

(a) Is enrolled, and entitled to be enrolled, as a local government elector (Burgess) for the Borough in which he is a candidate, and is possessed of real or personal property to the value or amount in the case of a Borough having four or more wards of £1,000; or in the case of any other Borough, of £500, or is rated to the poor rate in the Borough, in the case of a Borough having four or more wards or the annual value of £30, and in the case of any other Borough of £15.

(b) "Provided that every person shall be qualified to be elected, and to be a Borough Councillor, who is at the time of election qualified to elect to the office of Councillor, which last-mentioned qualification for being elected shall be alternative for, and shall not repeal or take away any other qualification. But if a person qualified under the last foregoing proviso ceases for six months to reside in the Borough he shall cease to be qualified under that proviso and his office shall become vacant, unless he was at the time of his election, and continues to be, qualified in some other manner."

(c) Has resided within the Borough during the whole of the twelve months preceding the election.

(d) Is the owner of property held by freehold, leasehold, copyhold or any other tenure within the area of the Local Government Authority.

The practical effect of these provisions is that any person who has so resided or who is the owner of property in the Borough or who is properly enrolled as a local government elector may be elected a Councillor for that Borough, and need not in that case be qualified for election by property or rating.

A person who is enrolled in one ward is entitled to be elected for any other ward in the same Borough. Women are now qualified for election as County or Borough Councillors or Aldermen, or Mayor, but cannot act as magistrates.

Disqualifications for Election.—Persons holding any office of profit in the gift or disposal of the Council, or any share or interest in any contract or employment with, by or on behalf of the Council. Bankrupts, persons convicted of felony, or corrupt practices. Coroners for the County.

THE ELECTIONS.

The poll at contested elections for the Town Council is conducted by ballot, as at Parliamentary elections. No elector can vote more than once at any election for the same Borough, even though he may be on the register for more than one ward.

The elections are held on the same day, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

THE NOMINATION.

Every candidate must be nominated in writing by two registered local government electors (Burgesses) of the ward for which he stands, and eight others must assent to the nomination. The names of the nominators and assentors should be signed in full.

No elector must subscribe more nomination papers than there are vacancies to be filled.

The candidate's name and address, &c., must be filled in before the paper is signed.

Nomination papers must be delivered by the candidate, or his proposer or seconder, at a place and time to be fixed by the Town Clerk, seven days before the election.

A candidate may withdraw by giving written notice not later than 2 p.m. on the day after the last day for nomination.

CONDUCT AND MANAGEMENT OF THE ELECTION.

MAXIMUM EXPENSE.—The sum which a candidate may expend in the conduct and management of an election is regulated under the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884, by a scale which allows a maximum of £25 for the first 500 electors, and *threepence for each elector above that number.

These sums must not be exceeded, or the ELECTION WILL BE VOID.

If two candidates stand jointly, the maximum amount for each must be reduced by one-fourth, and they are only in that case allowed to hire a number of committee rooms, and employ the number of persons authorised for a single candidate.

COMMITTEE ROOMS.—One committee room is allowed to be hired for each ward, or if the number of electors exceeds 2,000 one additional committee room for every additional 2,000, or part of that number. The use of committee rooms voluntarily lent is not limited, provided they are not in prohibited premises.

The following premises, or any part of same, MAY NOT BE USED either as a committee room or for holding a meeting to promote the election of a candidate, viz. :—

Premises licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquor for consumption on or off the premises :

Premises where refreshment of any kind, whether food or drink, is ordinarily sold for consumption on the premises :

Premises where any intoxicating liquor is supplied to the members of a CLUB, SOCIETY, or ASSOCIATION.

Permanent political clubs.

N.B.—The use of Public Elementary Schools is not prohibited.

EMPLOYMENT.—The number of persons who may be employed for payment, as clerks or messengers, or in either capacity, in connection with the election is as follows: Not more than 2,000 electors, two persons, and so on, one additional person being allowed for every 1,000 electors, or part of that number.

There is no provision authorising the payment of an election agent as such.

One polling agent is allowed for each polling station, and agents (unpaid) to attend the counting of votes on the candidate's behalf may also be appointed.

ELECTION EXPENSES.—Claims in respect of the election expenses of a candidate must be sent in within fourteen days after the election, or they will be barred and cannot be paid.

All such expenses must be paid within twenty-one days of the election.

Every candidate must send to the Town Clerk, within twenty-eight days after the election, a return, in writing, of all expenses incurred by him in the conduct and management of the election (under a penalty of £50).

The charges of the Returning Officer for municipal elections are not paid by the candidate.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION LAW.

The Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act of 1884 introduced large changes into the previously existing law, and enacted a Code of Regulations for the conduct of elections. There are here shewn in a concise form—

1. The principal acts which constitute offences against the election law and the penalties which they entail.
2. The regulations under which Candidates and their Agents are obliged to conduct the election.

*April, 1919. The new Local Elections (Expenses) Act 1919 reduces this to twopence.

1.—OFFENCES AT ELECTIONS

The offences are grouped under three main heads, (A) Corrupt Practices, (B) Illegal Practices, (C) Illegal Payment, Employment, or Hiring.

(A) CORRUPT PRACTICES.

OFFENCES.

Bribery.—To give, lend, or promise money or money's worth, in order to induce an elector to vote or abstain from voting.

It is bribery to give, offer, or promise any employment to or for a voter, or anyone connected with him, with the same object.

Any person who gives money to be spent in bribery, or who repays it afterwards, is guilty of a corrupt practice.

It is bribery to pay the day's wages of any voter, or to give him money for railway fares, loss of time, &c.

An employer may give his workman or servants reasonable leave of absence (without deduction of pay) for the purpose of voting, on condition that all voters in his employment are treated alike.

The elector who receives a bribe for his vote, or who bargains for a promise of employment or reward of any kind, is equally guilty of bribery, whether it is done after or before the election.

Treating.—The offence of treating is committed if any meat, drink, entertainment, or provision is corruptly paid or provided for any person at any time in order to influence him, or any third party, to vote or abstain from voting at the election.

Treating the wives or relations of electors is equally forbidden. The person accepting any meat, drink, or entertainment, is also guilty and punishable accordingly.

Candidates are not allowed to provide refreshments for workers at an election.

Undue Influence.—Using force, restraint or fraud to compel an elector to vote or abstain from voting. Using or threatening spiritual or temporal injury for the same purpose.

Personation.—Any person who applies for a ballot paper in the name of another, whether living or dead, or of a fictitious person, is guilty of personation.

Voting twice at the same election is the same as personation.

Aiding or abetting personation is equivalent to personation itself.

PENALTIES.

To the briber or the person bribed, imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months, with or without hard labour, or a fine not exceeding £200.

Removal from, and disqualification for, any public office.

If committed by a candidate personally, he loses his seat, if elected, and is disqualified from ever holding a corporate office in the Borough.

If committed by any agent of a candidate, the election is void, and the candidate is disqualified for three years.

The same as for bribery.

The same as for bribery.

To the offender, imprisonment for two years with hard labour.

Seven years' incapacity to be elected, to vote or to hold any public office.

If committed by any agents, the candidate loses his seat.

(B) ILLEGAL PRACTICES.

OFFENCES.

PENALTIES.

Conveyances.—Paying or receiving money for the conveyance of voters to the poll. Private conveyances gratuitously lent can be used, but electors may pay for their own conveyance to and from the poll.

Advertising.—Paying an elector for exhibiting bills, notices, &c., unless he is a bill poster or an ordinary advertising agent.

Committee.—Hiring or letting committee rooms for payment in excess of the number allowed.

Personations.—Voting when prohibited, or inducing a prohibited voter to vote.

False Statement.—Publishing a false statement of the withdrawal of any candidate, or a false statement of fact in relation to the personal character or conduct of a candidate.

{ A fine not exceeding £100.
Incapacity to vote in the constituency during the succeeding five years.
If committed by an agent of a candidate, the election of the latter may be rendered void.

{ Same punishment as above, but election not voided unless committed by the candidate or election agent.

(C) ILLEGAL PAYMENT, EMPLOYMENT, OR HIRING.

Paying—for bands, torches, flags, banners, cockades, ribbons, or other marks of distinction.

Lending or using for the conveyance of voters to the poll, any animal or conveyance ordinarily kept for hire.

Employment of any person (for payment) at the election for any purpose or in any capacity not permitted by the Act.

Using as a committee room or for holding a meeting for promoting the election of the candidate any licensed house, or refreshment house, or any premises where any intoxicating liquor is supplied to members of a club or association, unless in a part ordinarily let as offices or for holding public meetings and having a separate entrance without direct communication with the prohibited part.

Publishing election bills, placards or posters, without the name and address of the printer and publisher.

A fine not exceeding £100.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Any of the above offences, if committed by a candidate, will render the election void.

The term "Agent" as used above, MAY, under certain circumstances, include members of an election committee or voluntary canvassers.

NOTE.—The following list contains particulars of eight important divisions which took place during the Sessions of 1916-18. (February 15, 1916, to November 21, 1918.)

In order to ascertain how any particular member voted in any of these divisions, reference should first be made to the number it bears in the consecutive list printed below, and then under the heading indicating the number of the division will be found the letter A or N, showing that the member in question voted with the "Ayes" or with the "Noes."

Columns 9, 10 and 11 contain the number of divisions attended by each member during each of the Sessions of 1916-18; the last column contains the number of divisions attended by each member during the whole Parliament. It will be understood that this is not a record of the number of sittings each member has attended, but only of his attendance at divisions.

The total number of divisions during the Session of 1916 was 67; of 1917-18, 157; of 1918, 95. The aggregate number of divisions during the whole Parliament is 1,902.

Particulars of the principal divisions which took place between the years 1880 and 1915 will be found in the previous issues of the Constitutional Year Book.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS IN 1916-1918.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

May 8, 1916.

"That, in view especially of the economy in fuel and its transport that would be effected by shortening the hours of artificial lighting, this House would welcome a measure for the advancement of clock time by one hour during the summer months of this year."

Proposed by Sir H. Norman (L.); Seconded by Mr. Basil E. Peto (U.). For, 170; against, 2.

MEMORIAL TO LORD KITCHENER.

June 21, 1916.

"That this House will, to-morrow, resolve itself into a Committee to consider a humble Address to His Majesty, praying that His Majesty will give directions that a monument be erected at the Public charge to the memory of the late Field-Marshal Earl Kitchener, with an inscription expressing the admiration of the House for his illustrious military career and its gratitude for his devoted service to the State."

Proposed by Mr. Asquith (L.); Seconded by Mr. A. Bonar Law (U.). Agreed to without division.

GOVERNMENT OF IRELAND.

July 31, 1916.

"That, in view of the announcement by the Government that they do not intend to introduce their long-promised Bill to settle the Government of Ireland, it is vitally necessary and urgent that the Government should immediately disclose to the House their plans for the future Government of Ireland during the continuance of the War."

Proposed by Mr. John Dillon (N.); Seconded by Mr. Patrick O'Brien (N.). Agreed to without division.

FOOD SUPPLY.

November 16, 1916.

"That, in the opinion of this House, it is the duty of the Government to adopt further methods of organisation to increase and conserve the national food supply, and so diminish the risk of shortage and serious increase in prices in the event of the War being prolonged."

Proposed by Mr. W. A. S. Hewins (U.); Seconded by Mr. de F. Pennefather (U.). Agreed to without division.

SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS (HOUSE OF COMMONS).

February 28, 1917.

"That the members of this House request the Kitchen Committee to observe in the sale of intoxicating liquors the same restrictions as are imposed upon the general public."

Proposed by Mr. T. E. Wing (L.); Seconded by Mr. George D. Faber (U.). Agreed to without division.

CONTRIBUTION BY INDIA TOWARDS THE COST OF THE WAR.

March 14, 1917.

"That, whereas the Government of India, deeming the well-being and interests of the Indian Empire to be vitally concerned in the successful prosecution of the War, have recommended that a contribution charged on the revenues of India should be made towards the expenses of the same, such contribution to consist of the sum of £100,000,000, to be provided in part from the proceeds of a loan to be raised in India and the remainder by assuming liability for interest on British War Loan of the required amount, and whereas this contribution has been offered to His Majesty's Government and gratefully accepted by them, and the Government of India have now made provision by legislation and in their Revenue and Expenditure Estimates for meeting, by means of increased taxation and otherwise, the annual charge for interest and sinking fund in respect of the contribution as aforesaid, this House consents that a contribution of £100,000,000 charged on the Revenues of India shall be made towards the cost of the War. The House at the same time declares its opinion that such changes as are proposed in the Indian Budget in the system of Indian Cotton Duties should be considered afresh when the fiscal relationship of the various parts of the Empire to one another and to the rest of the world comes to be reviewed as a whole after the War."

Proposed by Mr. J. A. Chamberlain (U.). Agreed to after a division.

DEATH OF DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT.

March 19, 1917.

(1) "That an humble Address be presented to His Majesty to express the deep concern of this House at the loss which His Majesty has sustained by the death of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, and to condole with His Majesty on this melancholy occasion; and to assure His Majesty that this House will ever participate with the most affectionate and dutiful attachment in whatever may concern the feelings and interests of His Majesty."

(2) "That this House do condole with H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught on the great loss which he has sustained by the death of H.R.H. the Duchess of Connaught."

Proposed by Mr. D. Lloyd George (L.); Seconded by Mr. H. H. Asquith (L.). Agreed to without division.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA (ENTRY INTO ALLIANCE).

April 18, 1917.

"That this House desires to express to the Government and people of the United States of America its profound appreciation of the action of that Government in joining the Allied Powers, and thus defending the high cause of freedom and the rights of humanity against the gravest menace by which they have ever been imperilled."

Proposed by Mr. A. Bonar Law (U.); Seconded by Mr. H. H. Asquith (L.). Agreed to without division.

WAR SERVICE (VOTE OF THANKS).

October 29, 1917.

"That the thanks of this House be given to the officers, petty officers and men of the Navy for their faithful watch upon the seas during more than three years of ceaseless danger and stress, while guarding our shores and protecting from the attacks of a barbarous foe the commerce upon which the victory of the Allied cause depends.

"That the thanks of this House be given to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the British Armies in the field, and also to the women in the medical and other services auxiliary thereto, for their unflinching courage and endurance in defending the right, amid sufferings and hardships unparalleled in the history of war, and for their loyal readiness to continue the work to which they have set their hands until the liberty of the world is secure.

"That the thanks of this House be accorded to the gallant troops from the Dominions overseas, from India, and from the Crown Colonies, who have travelled many thousands of miles to share with their comrades from the British Isles in the sacrifices and triumphs of the battlefield, and to take their full part in the struggle for human freedom.

"That the thanks of this House be accorded to the officers and men of the Mercantile Marine for the devotion to duty with which they have continued to carry the vital supplies to the Allies through seas infested with deadly perils.

"That this House doth acknowledge with grateful admiration the valour and devotion of those who have offered their lives in the service of their country, and tenders its sympathy to their relatives and friends in the sorrows they have sustained."

Proposed by Mr. D. Lloyd George (L.); Seconded by Mr. H. H. Asquith (L.). Agreed to without division.

GRANT TO LADY MAUDE.

March 5, 1918.

“That a sum, not exceeding £25,000, be granted to His Majesty, to be issued to Lady Maude in recognition of the eminent services rendered by the late Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Stanley Maude, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., while commanding His Majesty’s Forces during the campaign in Mesopotamia.”

Proposed by Mr. D. Lloyd George (L.); Seconded by Mr. R. McKenna (L.). Agreed to without division.

SILVER WEDDING OF THE KING AND QUEEN.

July 8, 1918.

“That an humble Address be presented to Their Majesties to congratulate Them on the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Their Wedding, and to assure Their Majesties that this House, deeply interested in the personal well-being of the Sovereign and warmly appreciating Their Majesties’ unflinching devotion to duty in this time of stress, profoundly share the sentiments of loyal affection with which their peoples throughout the world welcome the Anniversary of so felicitous a union; and joins with them in praying earnestly for the continuance during many years of Their Majesties’ health and happiness.”

Proposed by Mr. D. Lloyd George (L.); Seconded by Mr. H. H. Asquith (L.). Agreed to without division.

PENSIONS AND PARTY POLITICS.

July 10, 1918.

“That, in the interests alike of the State and of the wounded and discharged sailors and soldiers and their dependants, and of the widows and orphans of those who have fallen, it is essential that all questions relating to Pensions and Allowances should be kept free from party politics and the influence of party organisations.”

Proposed by Sir C. A. M. Barlow (U.); Seconded by Sir G. Toulmin (L.). Agreed to without division.

WOMEN AS MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT.

October 23, 1918.

“That, in the opinion of this House, it is desirable that a Bill should be passed forthwith making women eligible as Members of Parliament.”

Proposed by Mr. H. L. Samuel (L.); Seconded by Lord Robert Cecil (U.). For, 274; against, 25.

EUROPEAN WAR: ARMISTICE (ADDRESS TO HIS MAJESTY).

November 18, 1918.

“That an humble Address be presented to His Majesty to congratulate His Majesty on the conclusion of the Armistice and on the prospect of a victorious peace.

“That the said Address be presented to His Majesty by the whole House.

“That such members of this House as are of His Majesty’s Most Honourable Privy Council do humbly know His Majesty’s pleasure when he will be attended by this House with the said Address.”

Proposed by Mr. A. Bonar Law (U.); Seconded by Mr. H. H. Asquith (L.). Agreed to without division.

PARLIAMENTARY PUBLICATIONS, 1916-18.

NEARLY all the general State publications of the United Kingdom appear in the form of Parliamentary Papers; the exceptions being some few which are issued by and at the expense of the respective departments, e.g., "The Post Office Guide," or "The Board of Trade Journal," and also certain publications of general interest, such as "The London Gazette," or the Statutes.

The information contained in the Parliamentary Papers appertains to every conceivable object of political and statistical interest. Besides Bills representing all the legislative projects of each session, and Returns specially relating to them, there are periodical statements of the working of different departments of the Government, of the results of recent legislation, Reports of Royal Commissions or of Committees of either House, Treaties, Correspondence with foreign countries or with our Colonies, Reports of diplomatic and consular agents abroad, Census and other returns, Statistics of all kinds, Accounts, Estimates, and many miscellaneous papers that cannot be included under any of the above heads.

Parliamentary publications are divided as follows:—

- (1) Bills introduced into either House, either by the Government or by private members. They are numbered in a new series for each year.
- (2) Papers by Command include all such Reports, Papers, &c., as equally concern both Houses of Parliament. They are distinguished by the letters Cd., with numbers in brackets. The numbering runs for a series of years.
- (3) Reports and Papers. These comprise Reports, Returns, &c., specially ordered to be printed by either House, and sometimes afterwards communicated to the other House. They, also, are numbered in a fresh series for each year.

The following résumé is intended to supply materials from which may be obtained information respecting—(1) The objects of the most important of the Public Bills which were introduced in the Sessions of 1916-18 but failed to pass into law. (The Statutes of the year will be found in another part of the work.) (2) A list of such Parliamentary Papers as relate to subjects of general interest or importance issued during the same period.

The explanatory notes are confined to those publications of which the substance is not contained in the statistical tables or other parts of the Constitutional Year Book.

The distinguishing numbers will assist those who desire further details in purchasing the publications either through a bookseller or from H.M. STATIONERY OFFICE, 28, Abingdon Street, London, S.W.1; 1, St. Andrew's Crescent, Cardiff; 23, Forth Street, Edinburgh; or E. PONSONBY, LTD., 116, Grafton Street, Dublin.

PUBLIC BILLS.

THE following list shows the objects of such measures introduced into Parliament during the Sessions of 1916-18 as were of general interest, but failed to pass into Law. GLOSSARY OF POLITICAL TERMS.

Address, The, in answer to the King's Speech, was formerly a series of resolutions passed by both Houses echoing the language of the Speech, but in recent years its form has been much modified, and it is usually now a simple expression of thanks to His Majesty. An amendment to the Address is one of the forms of expressing approval or disapprobation of the policy of the Government, and if carried is incorporated in the Address and presented to the King. The passage of a hostile amendment usually involves the resignation of the Government.

Addresses to the Crown proceeding from individuals are presented through the Secretary of State for the Home Department.

Adjournment.—See Prorogation.

Adullamites.—See Cave.

Ad valorem Duty.—(Lat. valor, value). A duty charged at a certain rate per cent. on the value of goods, leases, &c. The system, as applicable to customs duties, &c., has been condemned by Mr. Gladstone and other Chancellors of the Exchequer.

Advowson.—The right of presentation to, or the patronage of, a benefice. "An advowson is of the nature of a temporal property, and a spiritual trust."—(Wharton.)

Affirmation (Parliamentary) is made by Quakers and others who have religious objections to taking the oath. (Generally) a solemn declaration without an oath.

Alabama Claims.—The damages (£3,196,875) awarded to the United States in 1873 as compensation for the injuries inflicted upon American commerce by the Confederate cruiser Alabama, which had been fitted out in England.

Alaska Tribunal.—The International Commission, 1903, on which Great Britain, Canada, and the United States were represented, for the settlement of the boundaries between Canada and the United States in the Alaska region. The President was Lord Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice of England.

Alien.—A subject of a foreign state who has not obtained a certificate of naturalisation.

"All the Talents."—A nickname applied to the Grenville Administration, 1806-7.

Ambassador.—In ordinary parlance often signifies any diplomatic envoy. Strictly, however, it is only an envoy of the highest class who is called an Ambassador. See Plenipotentiary; Chargé d'Affaires.

Appropriation Act.—Carries into effect the resolutions of the Committee of Ways and Means, authorising the application of a sum out of the Consolidated Fund and appropriating to each separate service the several funds voted by the Committee of Supply. It is among the last of the Bills introduced during a Session of Parliament.

Appropriation in Aid.—An appropriation in aid of a Vote is the sum received (e.g. for fees, proceeds of sales, repayments, &c.) in connection with the service to which the vote is applicable, and taken in reduction of the gross amount that would otherwise have to be voted by Parliament.

Articles of War.—Ordinances for the government of Troops, Seamen and Camp Followers. Prior to 1689, the year in which the Mutiny Act was passed, they were issued for each Campaign. Those issued in 1878 were consolidated with the Mutiny Act, in the Army Discipline Act, 1879, now replaced by the Army Act, 1881.

Naval Articles of War are of a similar nature. They have been incorporated in the Naval Discipline Act.

Ashbourne Acts.—The Land Purchase (Ireland) Acts, 1885 and 1888, under which a sum of £10,000,000 was set apart to be advanced to tenants for the purchase of their holdings, being repayable in 49 years.

Ashburton Treaty, concluded in 1842 between Lord Ashburton, representing England, and President Tyler, of the United States, defining the boundaries of the United States and Canada, &c.

Assessed Taxes.—The term now applies only to the land tax and house duty.

Balance of Power.—A principle much discussed in the early years of the 19th century, and invoked to secure the independence and integrity of states, and control the ambition of sovereigns.

Balance of Trade.—The difference between the aggregate amounts of a nation's imports and exports; or, the difference between the amounts of a nation's imports from, and exports to, some other specified nation.

Ballot.—(Fr. Ballotte, a little ball). A method of secret voting, introduced into Parliamentary elections in England in 1872.

Baronet.—The first rank among gentry, and hereditary. Instituted by James I. in 1611.

Bath.—The Order of the Bath, consisting of three degrees—Knights Grand Cross, Knights Commanders, and Companions. Instituted in 1399, and revived in 1725.

Betterment.—The enhanced value which a property is assumed to gain by a public improvement in its neighbourhood.

Bills of Mortality.—The returns of births and deaths in London. Superseded since 1837 by the Registrar-General's returns.

Bi-Metallism.—The system in which two standard metals are used indiscriminately as legal tender up to any sum, the respective value of each being fixed by law.

Black Rod.—The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod is an officer attending the House of Lords, and is their messenger to summon the Commons.

Blockade.—The closing of enemy's ports to commerce. It is a principle of international law that a blockade to be binding on neutrals must be effective.

"Blocking" a Bill in Parliament consists in putting down a notice of opposition, which has the effect of preventing its consideration after midnight.

Blue Books.—The Reports and papers issued by Parliamentary authority, many of which are bound in blue.

Bona-fide Traveller.—See Traveller.

Bond.—When goods are chargeable with customs or excise duties, and are placed in an authorised warehouse, not to be taken out until the duties are paid, they are said to be in bond.

Borough.—A town which has a Charter of Incorporation, or which returns a member or members to Parliament.

Bounty.—Money paid by a Government to producers, exporters, or importers, to encourage a particular branch of trade. In England it usually took the form of an export bounty, e.g., a bounty or premium of 8s. on every quarter of wheat exported. In France and elsewhere bounties have been given on the manufacture of sugar and the construction of ships.

Boycotting.—A form of social ostracism which took its name from the persecution of the late Captain Boycott by the Irish Land League in Mayo in 1880, and has been more or less resorted to in Ireland since. It was condemned by Pope Leo XIII., April 20th, 1888, as contrary to justice and charity. Mr. Gladstone described it as "exclusive dealing."

Brehon Laws.—The ancient laws of Ireland.

Bright Clauses, The.—The sections of the Irish Land Act of 1870 introduced at the instance of Mr. Bright with the object of facilitating the purchase of their holdings by the tenants. In practice, these sections had little or no success. (See Ashbourne Acts.)

Broad Arrow.—The mark used to distinguish Government property. Introduced in 1689.

Broadbottom Administration.—The coalition Government under Pelham, 1744.

Budget.—The general statement of the finance of the country, annually made by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, usually as soon after April 1st as possible. It is derived from the French "Bougette," a small bag.

Bulwer-Clayton Treaty between England and the United States, 1850, by which the two Powers agreed not to construct a canal across the Isthmus of Panama without the consent of the other. In 1900 this consent was given to the United States on condition that the canal should be open to the world's commerce, and should always remain neutral. According to President Taft, the Panama Canal is to be finished in 1913.

Bureaucracy.—A state of society in which social status depends upon official position, as in Russia.

Burgesses.—A term originally applied to the representatives of boroughs in Parliament; now, by the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, used to distinguish those entitled to the municipal franchise.

Cabal.—The term applied to the Cabinet of Charles II. in 1670, being formed from the initial letters of their names: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, and Lauderdale.

Cabinet.—See article on "The Constitution."

Call of the House.—Has fallen into desuetude, and has not been ordered since 1836, though a motion has been made for it. The object was to secure a full attendance when any important measure was under discussion, and the names of all members were called over.

Capitulations.—The instrument by which certain rights are granted to foreign subjects as in Turkey and Egypt.

Carpet-Bagger.—A term applied to a parliamentary candidate who has had no previous connection with the constituency he seeks to represent.

Caucus (American).—A combination of electors or voters for the purpose of introducing certain persons into places of trust and power. In England it has taken the form of a large committee of electors selected from the whole constituency for the purpose of choosing candidates for the representation of the constituency in the House of Commons and for all municipal honours. It is obviously a powerful means of stifling the voice of a dissentient minority of a party, and of securing the adoption of a particular ticket or programme.

Cave.—The term is usually applied to a combination of a small number of members to defeat a measure introduced by the party to which they belong. The appellation took its origin from the Scriptural parallel drawn by Mr. Bright, March

13th, 1866, when he compared the Liberal opponents of Lord Russell's Reform Bill to the men who gathered themselves to David in the cave of Adullam.—(I Sam. xxii.)

Chairman (of Ways and Means).—In every Session, on the first occasion of the House going into Committee, the leader of the House moves "that Mr. — take the chair," and thereupon he becomes the Chairman of Ways and Means and of the Committee of the whole House during that Session. He is a salaried officer, and has much control over unopposed Private Bill legislation.

Chairman (of Committees in the Lords) is a permanent paid official who takes the chair when the House is in Committee, and has also a general superintendence over Private Bill legislation.

Chandos Clause.—Section 20 of the Reform Act of 1832, by which occupiers at £50 rental were admitted as voters.

Chargé d'Affaires.—Is a diplomatic envoy of the third class, ranking below a plenipotentiary; he is only accredited to the foreign Government, and has no right of access to the foreign Sovereign.

Charter Party.—A covenant between merchants and masters of ships relating to the ship and cargo.

Chartists.—A body of agitators who carried on an active propaganda between 1838 and 1848.

Chauvinism.—The term (derived from Chauvin, a character in one of Scribe's comedies) is used to describe an exaggerated form of patriotism.

Chiltern Hundreds.—The acceptance of this office is a form by which a member of Parliament can resign his seat. It is only by obtaining office that he can do so, and the Crown is therefore always ready to confer on any member, except in cases of misconduct, the Stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds, of East Hendred and Northstead, or of Poynings, which he holds till another member is appointed to it. A writ for a vacancy caused by acceptance of the Chiltern Hundreds can only be issued while Parliament is sitting.

Church Rate.—The rate imposed by parishioners in vestry meeting for the purpose of maintaining the fabric and services of the parish church. It was abolished as a compulsory impost in 1868.

Civil List.—See "The Civil List and Royal Grants," p. 25.

Closure.—See House of Commons—Procedure, p. 157.

Combination Laws.—These statutes forbade the association of workmen in Trade Unions. Repealed in 1824.

Committees of the House of Commons

- (1) — "Of the whole House" is formed when the Speaker leaves the Chair and the Chairman of Ways and Means takes it for the consideration of the details of Bills in the Committee stage, and for other purposes.
- (2) "Of Supply" is formed in the same way for any proceedings relating to the public income or expenditure. Estimates are submitted to it, and resolutions moved granting to the Crown the sums requisite.
- (3) "Of Ways and Means" is formed in the same way for any proceedings relating to the funds by which the expenditure of the country is sustained. All loans, duties, and imposts are submitted to it. All the propositions of Government are reduced to resolutions divided on by this Committee. Those agreed to are reported to the House, and incorporated in Bills.
- (4) "Of Selection" is a Committee nominated by the House of experienced members, whose duties are to nominate the members of Private Bill Committees, and in any other case where the House may so order.

- (5) "Private Bill."—These Committees are nominated by the Committee of Selection, and usually consist of five members, sometimes including an official referee, to consider all private Bills affecting railways or other similar questions. They sit in one of the upstairs rooms, usually from twelve to four, and are empowered to hear counsel and witnesses.
- (6) "Select."—These are appointed by the House, either at the suggestion of the Government or of some private member, to consider any Public Bill or subject of interest which may be referred to them. Their number is uncertain, varying from five to even twenty-eight members. They can only take evidence when specially authorised to do so. They select their own chairman.
- (7) "Hybrid."—These are appointed partly by the House itself and partly by the Committee of Selection, for the purpose of considering any private Bills, of special interest to the public at large, which may be referred to them.
- (8) "Standing or Grand."—First adopted in modern times in 1833 by the appointment of Standing Committees on Trade and on Law. The experiment was repeated in 1834, when it was, however, not put into operation, but in 1838 the two Committees were again constituted. In 1894 a Standing Committee for Scotch Bills was appointed. In 1907 four Standing Committees were established. They deal only with Bills referred to them by the whole House, and assimilate their procedure to that of Committees of the whole House. There is no official report of the debate in Standing Committees. For details of composition, &c., see p. 156.

Communism.—The system of things in common and the doctrines relating to it.

Compound Householder.—The term applied to those occupiers whose landlords "compound" with the parish authorities to pay the rates on their houses.

Comtists.—The disciples of Auguste Comte, the founder of the Positivist creed, d. 1857.

Concordat.—A formal agreement between the See of Rome and any foreign Government, by which the administration of the Roman Catholic Church within the territory of that Government is regulated—e.g., the Concordat of 1801 with France, and of 1855 with Austria.

Conference (1) Parliamentary.—A negotiation between the Lords and Commons in the event of a difference. The Lords name the time and place, and reasons for the course proposed are given, in writing, on both sides. But these reasons are now generally given by message from one House to the other without a conference; (2) Diplomatic—A meeting of ambassadors or special envoys for the purpose of settling some international question.

Congé d'Elire.—The licence given by the Sovereign, as head of the Church, to a dean and chapter empowering them to elect a Bishop, when a See becomes vacant.

Congress.—A meeting of Sovereigns or Ministers for Foreign Affairs for the purpose of settling some international question.

Conscience Clause.—The provision of the Education Act, 1870, by which parents could withdraw their children from instruction in religious doctrines to which they were conscientiously opposed.

Conservatives.—The name by which the political party whose fundamental principle is the preservation of our national institutions has been known since 1830. (Quarterly Rev., xliii., p. 276.)

Consolidated Fund is the general revenue of the country to which the gross produce of all taxes and revenues, and also certain miscellaneous receipts, are paid. The expenditure for certain of the Public Services, such as the National Debt, the Civil List, and the salaries of the judges, is charged once and for all on the Consolidated Fund.

Consols (short for "Consolidated").—The name owes its origin to an Act of 1752, which consolidated various Government stocks into 3 per cent. annuities, at which rate they remained until 1838, when Consols at 2½ per cent. (after April 5th, 1903, 2½ per cent.) were created by the National Debt Conversion Act, introduced by Mr. Goschen. During the year 1911 Consols touched the very low price of 76½.

Constitutional Party.—The alternative name assumed by Conservatives and seceded Whigs in the general election of 1868.

Consul.—A diplomatic agent abroad whose duty it is to aid and advise British subjects requiring assistance, to report on the trade of the district of which he resides, and generally to discharge the duties of a commercial agent for the home country.

Contraband.—A term used to denote articles which are forbidden to be imported into or exported from any country by the law of that country.

Contraband of War.—A term used to denote articles, such as munitions of war, which may not be supplied by a neutral to a belligerent Power.

Convention.—A meeting of representatives from two or more States for the purpose of settling some international question not sufficiently important for a Congress or a Conference.

Convocation.—The general assembly of representatives of the clergy of the Church of England convened by the Sovereign. Convocation is divided into two Houses for each Province (Northern and Southern), the Upper being composed of Bishops, and the Lower of Deans, Prebendaries, Archdeacons, and members elected by the beneficed clergy.

Corn Laws, The.—A series of enactments regulating and imposing duties or granting bounties on the importation or exportation of corn. They were repealed by Sir Robert Peel in 1846.

Countervailing Duties.—Duties imposed on imported articles in order to equalise the charges imposed on them with the charges imposed on articles manufactured at home.

Count-Out.—If any member of the House of Commons calls the attention of the Chair to the fact that the quorum of forty members is not present, the debate is stopped, and after two minutes, the House is counted, when, if forty members are not in sight, the House stands adjourned. No count-out can take place on Wednesdays until after four o'clock.

County Councils.—The authorities established by the Local Government Act, 1888, to take over the administrative portion of County business formerly in the hands of magistrates in quarter sessions. In London the County Council superseded the Metropolitan Board of Works.

Courts-martial.—Courts for the trial of all persons subject to the military law or the Naval Discipline Act. Military Courts-martial, under Army Act, 1881, are of five kinds: General, District, Regimental, Field-general, and Summary.

Naval Courts-martial consist of Admirals, Captain's and Commander's, who try offences against the Naval Discipline Act.

Cowper-Temple Clause.—A provision of the Education Act of 1870, by which it was enacted that "no religious catechism or religious formula which is distinctive of any particular denomination shall be taught" in any Board School.

Crown Lands.—The hereditary property of the Sovereign, surrendered by him to Parliament in exchange for a fixed Civil List.

Cumulative Vote.—The provision by which electors are allowed to give all their votes to one candidate, or distribute them at will. Applied to School Board Elections, 1870-1902.

Customs.—The duties levied upon goods of merchandise at the place of importation.

Death Duties.—The Estate, Legacy and Succession Duties.

Democrats.—The advocates for the government of the people by the people; a name adopted by the French Republicans, 1790, and by the pro-slavery party in the United States.

Direct Taxation.—A tax is said to be direct when it is assessed upon the persons on whom the burden of it falls. Thus the income-tax is direct, but a tax on tobacco, which, though paid in the first instance by the dealer, really falls on the consumer, is indirect.

Dispensing Power.—The power claimed by several English Sovereigns to set aside the laws. It was finally rejected by the Bill of Rights, 1689.

Domesday Book.—The book containing the General Survey of England, completed in 1086. The Modern Domesday Book or Return of Owners of Land, was issued in 1875 (Parl. Paper, 1097).

Drawback or Rebate.—Duty remitted or paid back by the Government on the exportation or re-exportation of the commodities on which the duty was charged.

Education Code.—The annual regulations issued by the Board of Education, in accordance with which the grants to elementary schools are determined.

Eight Hours Movement.—A proposal to enact a legal working day of eight hours; first adopted in England by the Trades Union Congress at Liverpool, September, 1890. An Eight Hours' Act was passed in regard to Coal Mines in 1908.

Elgin Commission.—The Royal Commission of Enquiry into the S. African War, held in 1903, under the Chairmanship of the Earl of Elgin.

Estimates.—The annual statements prepared by the heads of the Government Departments, of the sums to be voted by the House of Commons for the requirements of the year.

Exchange.—The par of exchange is the fixed value of the standard of value of one country in the standard of value of another country—e.g., £1=4dols. 86c. 6½m., American. The exchange is said to be against a country, say England, when a bill on London can be purchased in New York below its par value.

Exchequer.—The national Treasury.

Exchequer Bills.—Negotiable interest-bearing bills payable to bearer, issued by the Treasury under the authority of Parliament for amounts varying from £100 to £1,000.

Extradition.—The surrender of fugitives from justice by one State to another in pursuance of a treaty.

Faggot Vote.—A vote procured by an illusory purchase of property with the object of acquiring a nominal qualification. Faggot votes were usually manufactured by the division of a hereditament into qualifying lots, which were distributed between several persons; they occurred chiefly in counties, and were virtually abolished by the Franchise Act of 1884.

Fair Trade.—The principle urged by the supporters of the doctrine is that although Free Trade ought to be universally adopted by nations, yet one nation ought not to subject its industries to a disadvantage by refusing in the face of hostile tariffs to tax foreign goods. In other words, if France, for example, refuses to admit our goods free of duty, we in fairness ought to levy a reciprocal duty on French goods.

Federation.—Where several States combine on equal terms to provide and obey a common central government for matters of general polity, e.g., foreign relations, while each State governs itself in local matters, the combination is called a federation—the Commonwealth of Australia, for example.

Fenians.—The common name of the "Irish Republican Brotherhood," instituted in 1858 by James Stephens, whose attempted insurrection in 1867 was easily suppressed.

Filibusters.—A name given to Freebooters who plundered the American coasts in the 17th century, and now applied to any illegitimate military enterprise.

Forbes Mackenzie Act.—The Act of 1853 which regulates public houses in Scotland.

Foreign Enlistment Act.—passed in 1819—forbids British subjects to enter the military service of a foreign state without special permission, or to make war without authority upon a friendly country.

Free Port.—A port where ships of all nations may load and unload free of duty, provided the goods are not carried into the adjoining country.

Free Trade.—Trade free from restrictions, and in particular unencumbered by customs duties designed to prohibit or restrict the importation of foreign goods.

French Treaty.—The treaty negotiated by Cobden with France in 1860.

Funded Debt.—That part of a national debt which stands in the form of permanent stock, as opposed to money owing on bills, paper currency or other temporary indebtedness, which is classed as Unfunded Debt.

Game Laws.—The principal Act is that of 1 and 2 William IV., c. 32, which greatly modified preceding laws and legalised the sale of game at certain seasons.

Geneva Convention.—The international code adopted in 1864, which lays down the regulations under which succour is provided for the sick and wounded in war.

Gerrymandering.—A manipulation of a section of voters from one constituency to another where they may be more wanted, in order to secure the dominant party a majority in both. A term borrowed from American politics.

Griffith's Valuation.—The valuation of Ireland, for purposes of taxation, carried out under the supervision of Sir R. Griffith between 1830 and 1850.

Habeas Corpus Act.—The Act 31 Charles II., c. 2, passed in 1679, by which a subject who is imprisoned may demand a writ of habeas corpus to bring him before a court which shall determine whether his imprisonment was just.

Hague Tribunal.—The permanent Committee of Arbitration, established by the International Conference in 1899, held at the Hague at the instance of the Czar of Russia.

"Hanging Gale."—The half-year's rent which, on many estates in Ireland, is not collected until six months after it is due.

Heckling.—A Scotch expression, to describe the process of questioning a candidate during an election.

High Commission.—An ecclesiastical court (abolished 1641), by which all spiritual jurisdiction was vested in the Crown.

High Treason.—An offence against the security of the Commonwealth, or the person of the Sovereign.

Hinterland.—The German word used to denote the undefined territories lying behind the European colonies, in Africa and elsewhere.

Holy Alliance.—The alliance entered into in 1815, between the sovereigns of Russia, Prussia, and Austria, by which they bound themselves to be governed by Christian principles in their policy, with the object of maintaining the peace of their States.

Home Rule.—The movement set on foot by the late Isaac Butt, M.P., in 1870, which had for its object the establishment of an Irish Parliament, dependent upon the Crown. The basis of the demand was afterwards enlarged by the party of Mr. Parnell, and was adopted by Mr. Gladstone and a large section of the Liberal party in 1886.

Horse Guards.—The name originally applied to the Household troops, and now used to denote the building in Whitehall where some of the departments of the army administration are located.

Hue and Cry.—A police circular, established in 1710, and now superseded by the Police Gazette.

Hundred, The.—An ancient division of a county, so called from having, as is supposed, originally contained one hundred families.

Hustings.—The place from which candidates for Parliament addressed the electors at the nomination prior to the Ballot Act of 1872.

Hypothec.—An obligation by which property of a debtor was made over to his creditor in security of his debt. The modern mortgage corresponds very closely with it.

Illiterate Vote.—The provision of the Ballot Act, 1872, which enables a person who cannot read or write to require the presiding officer to mark his ballot paper for him.

Impeachment.—A proceeding by which a minister, charged with crimes against the State, may be brought to trial.

Imperial Federation.—The movement having for its object the consolidation of the United Kingdom and the Colonies for the purposes of trade, and for the defence of material interests and common rights. The Imperial Federation League was dissolved in 1893, but has been succeeded by the British Empire League, with more definite objects.

Indemnity Bill.—A measure by which Parliament may relieve a ministry from the consequences of a breach of the law committed in extreme and urgent cases without Parliamentary sanction.

Indirect Taxation.—See Direct Taxation.

Inland Revenue includes the proceeds of the Excise, Death Duties, Stamp Duties, Property and Income Tax, Land Tax, and House Duty.

Interpellation.—A formal question or challenge to a minister by a member of Parliament; the term is chiefly used in France.

Kenyon-Slaney Clause.—The section of the Education Act, 1902, giving control of religious education to managers, in schools not provided by the local authority; moved by Col. Kenyon-Slaney, Oct. 31, 1902.

Kilmainham Treaty.—The alleged understanding between Mr. Gladstone's Government and Mr. Parnell in 1882, by which the latter would have been released from Kilmainham prison, giving an undertaking to assist in suppressing outrages and forwarding Liberal measures.

Laissez-faire.—The doctrine of non-interference by the Government in the affairs of society. Its advocates insist on leaving as much as possible to private enterprise.

Lichfield House Compact.—Said to have been entered into between the Whig Government of 1835 and Daniel O'Connell, at Lichfield House, 13, St. James' Square.

Limitations, Statutes of.—The Acts which limit the time within which redress may be sought for injuries sustained.

Local Option or Local Veto.—The terms applied to projects of temperance legislation, by which a certain majority of the inhabitants of a district would be empowered to prohibit the issue of publicans' licences.

Lodger Franchise.—Established by the Disraeli Reform Act of 1867.

"McKinley Act."—An Act of the United States Legislature passed in 1890, under which the import duties on foreign goods imported into the United States were enormously raised. So called after William McKinley, afterwards President of the U.S.A., 1897-1901.

Magna Charta.—See The Constitution, page 20.

"Manchester Martyrs."—The term applied by Irish Nationalists to Allen, Larkin, and O'Brien, who were hanged for having murdered Police-Sergeant Brett at Manchester in 1866, while attempting to effect a rescue of the Fenian prisoners under his charge.

Mandamus.—A process by which the Courts may enforce the performance of a public duty.

Marque, Letters of.—Licences formerly granted by Government in time of war, authorising private individuals to fit out ships of war for the purpose of harassing and plundering the enemy. Abolished by treaty, 1856.

Match Tax.—A tax of $\frac{1}{4}$ d. per box upon lucifer matches, proposed by the late Mr. Lowe (Lord Sherbrooke) when Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1871, but afterwards abandoned in consequence of the hostility it provoked.

Minority Vote.—A provision of the Reform Act of 1867, by which, in order to secure the representation of the minority in certain constituencies, some 20 in number, each returning three members, it was enacted that no elector should vote for more than two members. The provision was rendered obsolete by the Redistribution Act, 1885.

Monroe Doctrine.—The opinion held by President Monroe of the United States, 1817-24, against permitting European powers to interfere in questions of liberty in North or South America.

Moonlighting.—The name given to night outrages in Ireland with the object of preventing the payment of rent, or punishing an unpopular tenant.

Mortmain.—The possession of lands or tenements in dead hands, or hands that cannot alienate. Originally applied to conveyances of land made to Ecclesiastical bodies; afterwards made to any corporate body.

Mutiny Act.—The popular name of the Army (Annual) Act, which regulates the discipline and payment of the British army.

Navigation Laws.—Certain enactments designed to secure a commercial monopoly to this country. One, for example, provided that no goods should be exported from this country except in British vessels. They were repealed in 1849.

"No Rent" Manifesto.—The proclamation issued by Mr. Parnell and others from Kilmainham Gaol in 1881, ordering the Irish tenant farmers to pay no rent until the "suspects" were released.

Oath.—The oath taken by members of Parliament is as follows:—"I, ——— do swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty King George V., his heirs and successors, according to law. So help me, God."

Oligarchy.—A form of Government which places the supreme power in a small number.

"One Man, One Vote."—The article first adopted by Mr. Gladstone at Nottingham, October, 1837, as an item of the Gladstonian Liberal programme. It involves the abolition of the existing property franchise, which dates from 8 Henry VI., and of every qualification which does not depend upon mere residence.

Orders of the Day.—See House of Commons—Procedure, p. 157.

Over-Regulation Price.—A bonus formerly paid by officers in the army (under the Purchase System, q. v.) to facilitate the retirement of their superiors in rank, and thereby accelerate promotion.

"Passive Resistance."—The movement among Nonconformists in 1903, to resist payment of rates, so far as they might consider them to be applicable to education purposes, including therein the maintenance of denominational schools.

Peelites.—The name given to those Whig and Tory Members who adhered to Sir R. Peel after his defeat in 1846.

Penal Laws.—Statutes of great severity against criminals; they were considerably mitigated by Sir R. Peel in 1826-8, and subsequently.

Permissive Bill.—The name formerly given to a project of law which proposed to give power to a certain majority of the parishioners in any parish to veto the grant of publicans' licences.

"Plan of Campaign."—A system initiated by Mr. J. Dillon, M.P., and published in United Ireland, October, 1886, by which the tenants on an estate determined the amount of rent they would pay, and handed the same to secretly appointed trustees, to be used in fighting the landlord if he declined to accept the terms proposed. The practice was emphatically condemned by the Pope in a letter of April 20th, 1888, addressed to the Irish Bishops.

Plenipotentiary.—A diplomatic envoy of the second class. He does not represent his Sovereign as an ambassador does, nor does he, like an ambassador, have a personal right of access to the foreign Sovereign at all times, but only on special occasions.

Political Economy.—The science which has for its object the amelioration of the condition of mankind and the furtherance of civilisation, wealth, and happiness.

Poyning's Act.—The Act of 1494 (10 Henry VII.), by which the measures introduced into the Irish Parliament were subjected to the control of the Privy Council. It was in effect repealed in 1782.

Preferential Tariffs.—The movement instituted in 1903 by Mr. J. Chamberlain, having for its object the grant of preferential duties on British Colonial imports, as against those from foreign countries.

Prerogative, The Royal.—See The Crown, p. 24.

Previous Question.—A mode of avoiding for a time a decision on a question of principle by withholding it from the vote.

Prime Minister, or Premier.—Is usually, but not necessarily, First Lord of the Treasury. He is the head of the Ministry, and may be in either House of Parliament.

Primogeniture, Law of.—It gives the eldest born superiority of rights over those of younger brothers in cases of intestacy.

Privateer.—A ship belonging to private individuals sailing under Letters of Marque.

Privy Council.—This is the successor in the ancient Curia Regis; the Sovereign acts in Council in the discharge of certain statutory business through this body, and summons any member thereof he pleases; three form a quorum. The higher officers of State and of the Sovereign's Household are invariably members of it.

Prorogation.—The effect of proroguing Parliament is to bring to an end all pending proceedings (except an impeachment), and to suspend all business until Parliament may be summoned again. An adjournment is simply a suspension of business. A prorogation can only be at the will of the Sovereign; either House may adjourn at any time at its own pleasure.

Protection.—The protection of domestic industry by the imposition of duties on imported goods.

Protectionists.—(1) The party which opposed the repeal of the Corn Laws, deriving this name from the Society for the Protection of Agriculture. (2) The opponents of free trade generally.

Protest.—Any one or more peers have the right of entering on the journals of the House of Lords the fact of their dissent from a measure which has received the sanction of the majority, with their reasons for dissenting. This is called their protest.

Protocol.—A rough draft of the proceedings at a congress, conference or convention, to be afterwards embodied in a formal treaty, and formally ratified by the attending Powers.

Purchase System.—The practice of purchasing commissions in the army, which obtained up to 1871, when it was abolished by Royal Warrant, legislation for the purpose having been rejected in Parliament.

Quarantine.—The period of detention imposed upon ships and passengers arriving from places infected with disease.

Queen Anne's Bounty.—A fund established in 1708 for the purpose of increasing the incomes of the poorer clergy.

Quorum.—In the House of Lords three form a quorum; in the House of Commons forty.

Rack Rent.—In practice the rack rent is the maximum which can be obtained under free competition.

Rebate.—See Drawback.

Reciprocity.—In relation to commercial questions, implies equality of treatment between one country and another in matters of trade.

Retaliation.—In relation to tariffs, refers to the policy adumbrated by Mr. A. Balfour in 1903, by which power would be given to the Government to impose retaliatory duties on imports from countries which penalise the entry of British exports.

Ribbonism.—The principles of a secret society in Ireland, the object of which was to intimidate the landlords and revenge alleged injuries.

Round Table Conference.—The meeting of Liberal leaders, viz., Mr. Chamberlain, Sir W. Harcourt, Lord Herschell, Mr. John Morley, and Sir G. Trevelyan, held at Mr. Chamberlain's suggestion in 1887 to devise, if possible, a means of re-uniting the Liberal party on the Irish question. The conference proved abortive.

Royal Assent.—The act by which the Crown, either in person or by a commission, gives its assent to Bills passed by both Houses. The Royal decision is announced in Norman French by the Clerk of the Parliaments. To a Money Bill he says, "Le Roi remercie ses bons sujets, accepte leur b n volence, et ainsi le veult." To an ordinary Public Bill he says, "Le Roi le veult."

To a private Bill he says, "Soit fait comme il est désiré." If the Royal Assent is refused, he says, "Le Roi s'avisera." This power, however, has not been exercised since 1707. The moment the assent is given, the Bill becomes an Act.

Royalties.—Payments which the lessee or manufacturer makes to the owner of a patent, copyright, mine, &c., for the right of applying the invention or getting minerals.

Schomburgk Line.—The line of demarcation between the territories of British Guiana and Venezuela, originally traced by Sir R. Schomburgk for the British Government.

Septennial Act.—Passed in 1716, by which Parliament is dissolved ipso facto on the seventh anniversary of the date upon which it met. By the Parliament Act, 1911, Section 7, the maximum duration of Parliament is now fixed at five years.

Session.—In Parliamentary language means the period during which Parliament sits after it has been summoned by proclamation until it has been prorogued. An adjournment, therefore, does not end a Session.

Sessional Orders.—Regulations which expire at the end of the Session in which they are made, although they are renewable.

Settlement, Act of.—See The Constitution, page 21.

Sinking Fund.—A fund formed by putting aside a certain sum every year to accumulate at compound interest, with the object of ultimately extinguishing the whole or some part of the National Debt.

Sliding Scale.—The term, as applied to the Corn Laws, signified the import duties imposed by the Acts of 1828 and 1842, which varied according to the average price of wheat in England.

Socialism.—Roughly, is the collective name for a group of doctrines which aim at a comparative equality in the distribution of property as opposed to the existing system.

Speaker (The).—In the House of Lords he is generally, but not necessarily, the Lord Chancellor or Keeper of the Great Seal. He is the organ and mouthpiece of the House, but has not the right of preserving order or of giving a casting vote.

Speaker (The).—In the House of Commons he presides over the meetings of that assembly, except when in Committee. He represents the House in the Royal Presence, and on other public occasions. He does not speak in debate, except sometimes in Committee.

Standing Orders.—The permanent regulations for the conduct of business in either House of Parliament.

Sugar Bounties.—Bounties on the export of sugar, granted by certain foreign countries. The Convention of 1902, held at Brussels, established a permanent commission to report on such bounties, with a view to penalising the country which adopted them. An Act was passed in 1903 to enable the Government to apply the principles of the Convention.

Surtax.—A tax on something already taxed; an additional tax on specified articles.

Supply.—See Committees.

Tallies.—Sticks of wood with notches on them indicating the sum due to the Exchequer. When cut in two, one part was retained by the Chamberlain of the Exchequer and the other by the party paying in the money. They were abolished in 1782.

Tariff.—A list or table of duties payable on goods imported into or exported from a country.

Tellers.—The members who are appointed to ensure the accuracy of divisions in Parliament. Two are appointed on either side.

Terminable Annuities.—Another name for the Sinking Fund, by means of which a considerable portion of debt is paid off every year, thereby extinguishing the capitalised sum after a certain time.

Test Act.—An Act that obliged all Government officers to receive the Sacrament according to the rites of the Church of England. It was abolished in 1678. The Test and Corporation Acts were abolished in 1828.

Three-Corner Constituency.—See Minority Vote.

Three F's.—An expression which came into use during the debates on the Irish Land Act in 1881, signifying the demands of the Irish tenants for Fixity of Tenure, Fair Rents, and Free Sale.

Three R's.—A loose expression employed in the Education debates in and since 1870, and signifying Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic.

Time Limit.—A term used of the proposal to enact a limit to the operation of the provision of the Licensing Act, 1904, by which no licence can be refused renewal by Licensing Justices, merely on the ground of public policy and redundancy, without the interested parties receiving compensation from a fund raised for that purpose by a levy on licensed premises. The use of the term generally implies, also, a proposal that after the period specified, licence-holders shall be subject to the exaction of "monopoly value."

Town Council.—The authority established by the Municipal Corporations Act, which controls the affairs of towns having a charter of incorporation.

Traveller, The Bonâ-fide.—A person defined by the Licensing Acts as one whose lodging during the preceding night is at least 3 miles from the place where he demands to be served with liquor.

Unearned Increment.—A controversial term intended to express the increase in the value of land owing to circumstances external to the land—e.g., the growth of an adjacent town. It has subsequently been extended to other forms of property—e.g., stocks and shares.

Voluntary Schools.—In common parlance are those which receive grants and rate-aid under the Education Acts, but which have been built and are structurally maintained by voluntary agency.

Ways and Means.—See Committees.

Wyndham Act.—The Irish Land Act of 1903, introduced by Mr. G. Wyndham, Chief Secretary for Ireland, providing for the purchase of land by means of State aid.

THE GENERAL ELECTION, 1918.

THE POLICY OF THE COALITION.

WAR INDEMNITIES.

In Newcastle, on November 29th, 1918, Mr. Lloyd George said :—

“ . . . In every Court of Justice throughout the world it is an axiom that if the claimant fails to establish the justice of his case he has got to bear the costs of the litigation. What is true between individual litigants is equally true between nations. When Germany defeated France she made France pay. That is the principle which she herself has established. There is absolutely no doubt about the principle and that is the principle we shall proceed upon—that Germany must pay the costs of the war up to the limit of her capacity to do so . . .”—Times, November 30th, 1918.

In Bristol, on December 11th, 1918, Mr. D. Lloyd George said :—

“ . . . I want you to bear these facts in mind as the reason why I have always said we will exact the last penny we can out of Germany up to the limit of her capacity, but I am not going to mislead the public on the question of the capacity until I know more about it, and I am not going to do it in order to win votes. It is not right; it is not fair; it is not straightforward; and it is not honest. If Germany has a greater capacity, she must pay to the very last penny . . .”—Times, December 12th, 1918.

At an overflow meeting in Bristol, on December 11th, 1918, Mr. D. Lloyd George said :—

“ . . . There must be stern justice for those who have been guilty of plunging the world into this misery. Otherwise, you will have somebody trying it on again. There must be punishment for those who began it. Those who started it must pay to the uttermost farthing, and we shall search their pockets for it . . .”—Times, December 12th, 1918.

PUNISHMENT OF THE KAISER AND OTHERS.

In a statement of policy issued to the Press on December 6th, 1918, Mr. D. Lloyd George said :—

“ . . . The Kaiser must be prosecuted. The war was a frightful crime. The men responsible for this outrage on the human race must not be let off because their heads were crowned when they perpetrated the deed. The British Government referred the question of the criminal culpability of the Kaiser and his accomplices to their law officers some weeks ago. They invited a body of jurists in England to investigate the matter, and they have unanimously come to the conclusion that the Kaiser and his accomplices in making the war ought to be tried by an International Court. There were other matters, such as murder on the high seas and the abominable maltreatment of our prisoners, also referred to the law officers of the Crown some weeks ago, and the same Legal Committee reported strongly in favour of the punishment of those who were guilty of these offences, and the British Government will certainly use the whole of its influence in the Peace Conference to see that justice is executed . . . ”

NAVAL AND MILITARY REDUCTIONS.

In a manifesto to the electors Mr. D. L. George and Mr. A. Bonar Law said :—

“ . . . The military institutions of the country must necessarily be dependent upon the needs of the Empire and the prospective requirements of any League for the preservation of peace to which this country may hereafter be a party. Meanwhile, it will be the aim of the Government to carry through the inevitable reductions in our military and naval establishments with the least possible suffering to individuals, and to the best advantage of industry and trade. . .”—Times November 22nd, 1918.

At Bristol, on December 11th, 1918, Mr. D. L. George said :—

“ . . . The first question I am going to talk about is conscription. You have got the usual attempts made to frighten the electorate, and one of the most effective means of doing so is to say that the Government mean to keep up a great conscript army in this country. It is not true. The Military Service Act was passed in order to meet a great emergency. When the emergency is past the need is past and the Act will lapse, and there is no intention to renew it . . .”—Times, December 12th, 1918.

PROVISION FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

In a statement of policy issued to the Press on December 6th, 1918, Mr. D. L. George, said :—

“ . . . As to those who have happily survived the terrors of the battlefield and the innumerable dangers of the high seas, the State is under a deep obligation to them. The country has been enriched by their valour. Without it we should have been in a very poor plight to-day. We have only to look at the condition of Germany and to contrast it with ours to realise the difference between victory and defeat. That difference we owe in the main to these dauntless men. They therefore, are fully entitled to their share in all that this difference means to their country. The Government is bound to use whatever powers it possesses to see that they are restored to the employment which they were engaged in before the war. . . . There has been a great anxiety expressed by multitudes of our soldiers for settling on the land. . . . The Government have ready great schemes, necessarily involving a large expenditure of public money, for the purchase of land for soldiers who desire to earn a living in cultivation. There will be provision for ex-service men for either

Small Holdings,
Cottage sites and garden holdings,
Allotments on lease.

according to the choice which they make and the fitness which they show. Provision has been made for building houses, money has been set aside for the provision of equipment, for the cultivation of the land, and credit will be provided on easy terms for the stocking of the land. Facilities will be provided to enable tenants to purchase their holdings . . . ”

PROVISION FOR MAIMED AND WOUNDED, AND DEPENDENTS, &c.

In the same statement, Mr. D. Lloyd George said :—

“ . . . The first item in the Government programme is the discharge of the country's debt of honour; I mean the obligation we are under to our gallant soldiers and sailors for what they have endured and achieved for Britain. We are under a sacred obligation to the fallen, to the crippled, and to the survivors. As to the fallen, they have left behind them women and children who were dependent upon their case. The country must take up the guardianship which dropped on the field of duty. It will be the duty of the new Parliament to see that this guardianship is honourably and generously discharged. As to the crippled and the maimed, the State must see that they have not suffered by their sacrifice. Not merely should an honourable allowance be made to them to compensate for the loss which they have sustained for their country, but special means ought to be adopted, are being adopted indeed, to train them to make the best use of their remaining strength so as to supplement their income and to provide them with employment adequate to their capacity.”

THE ENEMY ALIEN.

In London, on December 9th, 1918, Mr. D. L. George, M.P., said :—

“ . . . There is a lady here who wants to know whether the Germans are going to be turned out of this country. I can assure her that even men will see to that. I have repeatedly said that, in my judgment, these people having abused hospitality they must not get another opportunity to do so. It has pleased some persons who are discontented for quite other reasons to say I have not been clear about it. Let me make it clear here again. . . .”—Times, December 10th, 1918.

REMOVAL OF SEX INEQUALITIES.

In a manifesto to the electors, Mr. D. L. George and Mr. A. Bonar Law said : —

“ . . . It will be the duty of the new Government to remove all existing inequalities of the law as between men and women . . .”—Times, November 22nd, 1918.

REFORM OF THE SECOND CHAMBER.

In the same manifesto to the electors they said :—

“ . . . It has been recognised by all parties that reform is urgently required in the constitution of the House of Lords and it will be one of the objects of the Government to create a Second Chamber which will be based upon direct contact with the people and will, therefore, be representative enough adequately to perform its functions . . .”—Times, November 22nd, 1918.

HOME RULE AND ULSTER.

In a letter to Mr. Bonar Law, M.P., Mr. D. Lloyd George, M.P., wrote :—

“ . . . There will be no political peace either in the United Kingdom or the Empire so long as the present state of affairs continues. The situation in regard to Ireland is governed by two fundamental facts: the first, that the Home Rule Act of 1914 is upon the Statute Book; the second, that in accordance with the pledge which has been given by me in the past and, indeed, by all party leaders, I can support no settlement which would involve the forcible coercion of Ulster . . . ”—Daily Chronicle, November 18th, 1918.

RESTORATION OF TRADES UNION PRACTICES.

In a speech to Trade Unionists and Employers at the Caxton Hall, London, on November 13th, 1918, Mr. Lloyd George, M.P., said :—

“ I gave pledges (in March, 1915) specific and definite. There is absolutely no doubt about these pledges, and I am here to own and to acknowledge them at the present time . . . and the only question which we have to deal with to-day . . . is the best method of carrying them into operation without a complete dislocation of industry and the best method of preparation for the time when the pledges must be redeemed, because they are pledges which come due at the end of the war. Believe me, there is no question of treating them as a scrap of paper. . . . What is that undertaking? Here it is: ‘ Any departure during the war from the practice ruling in the workshops, shipyards, and other industries prior to the war shall only be for the period of the war. No change in practice made during the war shall be allowed to prejudice the position of the workmen in the owner’s employment or of their trade unions with regard to the resumption or maintenance after the war of any rules or customs existing prior to the war.’ . . . It is not in the interests of workmen or employers to see a complete unrest in this country. You want the transition to work sensibly, practically, and in a way which will enable us to carry on the industries in the best possible way. I have, therefore, a suggestion to make. There are two or three different ways of carrying it out. I want some sort of body representing employers and workmen—practical men—who will take these pledges into account and start on the assumption that there is a definite pledge which every Government is bound by. On that basis I want them to consider and to advise the Government on the best method of carrying it out. . . . ”—Times, November 15th, 1918.

PLEDGE TO LABOUR AND CAPITAL.

In a statement of policy issued to the Press on December 6th, 1918, Mr. D. L. George said :—

“ You must give confidence to all classes, confidence to those who have brains, to those who have capital, and to those with hearts and hands to work. I say to Labour you shall have justice, you shall have fair treatment, a fair share of the amenities of life, and your children shall have equal opportunities with the children of the rich. To Capital I say: You shall not be plundered nor penalised; do your duty by those who work for you, and the future is free for all the enterprise or audacity you can give us . . . ”—Times, December 6th, 1918.

HOUSING.

In the same statement he said :—

“ . . . There is no doubt that our housing conditions in this country are a disgrace to the Empire. . . . The tackling of this problem is one for the central Government with the assistance of the local authorities. There will be plenty of room for private enterprise, but it is too big a task for the private contractor at this stage. The cost of building material has gone up and it would not pay the private contractor, but it would pay the State in the improved health of its people. . . . ”
Times, December 6th, 1918.

PROFIT-SHARING.

In the same statement he said :—

“ . . . I will work hard for any scheme of profit-sharing which provides the workman with a real inducement to increase production. Therein lies our national salvation. . . . ”

ECONOMIC POLICY.

In a letter to Mr. Bonar Law, M.P., Mr. D. Lloyd George, M.P., wrote :—

“ . . . In the first place, in regard to economic policy. I have already accepted the policy of Imperial Preference as defined in the resolutions of the Imperial Conference, to the effect that a preference will be given on existing duties and on any duties which may subsequently be imposed. On this subject I think there is no difference of opinion between us. I have at the same time stated that our policy does not include a tax on food, but that does not, of course, interfere with the granting of a preference on any article as, for example, tea or coffee, on which for our purposes we have imposed a duty. That question has, I think, been largely settled by the Corn Production Bill, but, of course, one of the great objects which must be aimed at in the future is to maintain the improved agricultural position which has now been reached ; and for this purpose a great deal can be and ought to be done in many directions, including, for instance, an improvement and, indeed, a complete change of the transport situation. As regards other aspects of this problem, I am prepared to say that the key industries, on which the life of the nation depends, must be preserved. I am prepared to say also that in order to keep up the present standard of production and develop it to the utmost extent possible, it is necessary that security should be given against the unfair competition to which our industries have been in the past subjected by the dumping of goods below the actual cost of production. . . ” —Daily Chronicle, November 18th, 1918.

EDUCATION AND CHILD WELFARE.

In a statement of policy issued to the Press on December 6th, 1918, Mr. D. L. George said :—

“ . . . Our recent Education Act shows our purpose here. We shall pursue the policy of perfecting our education system, our educational methods. . . . I am also profoundly convinced that we need to devote more thorough and systematic care to child welfare problems and the care of the mother before and after child-birth. . . . ”

RURAL DEVELOPMENT.

In the same statement he said :—

“ . . . The Government have schemes for rural development which will take the population back to the land, increase the output of food, provide new markets for our town industries . . . ”

TRANSPORTATION.

In the same statement he said :—

“ . . . Another essential branch of the problem of increased production is an improvement in the transportation system of this country. Some of the ablest transportation advisers of the Government have already got plans. The war has shown how much could be effected in the way of rapid development of our transportation system behind the lines, especially by laying down hundreds, if not thousands, of miles of light railways. If this were done in this country, especially in connection with an improvement in our roads, it would achieve great results in the opening up of the resources of the country and the spreading of the population into healthier areas . . . ”

ELECTRICAL POWER.

In the same statement he said :—

“ . . . One of the most important things the Government has in mind is the utilisation of our great mineral resources for the production of electrical power on a great scale. This will enable rural industries to be created so that workmen should find remunerative employment under conditions which they can also have a little bit of land for cultivation, and where they can bring up their children in the healthier atmosphere of the country. A great electrical power scheme would also assist in cheapening and increasing the efficiency of our town industries so as to increase the output, diminish the cost, and thus enable all classes interested in production to benefit. . . . ”

PARLIAMENTARY SUMMARY, 1918.

The following pages contain a résumé of the more important proceedings in Parliament from February 12 to November 21, 1918.

The proceedings are collected under headings indicative of the subject matters of discussion, with cross references when necessary, so as to show the chronological course of each Bill throughout the Session. They are, as far as possible, arranged in alphabetical order, with the exception of debates on the "Civil Service Estimates," which generally appear in order of date under that heading, unless the subject is noticed elsewhere, when it is so stated.

The Summary deals only with such matters of public business as are of general importance or interest, and gives, as far as space permits, an outline of the leading speeches and arguments in both Houses.

Business in the House of Lords is prefixed by the letter L, and in the House of Commons by C.

* An asterisk prefixed to Legislation indicates that it is a part of the emergency legislation arising out of the European War.

L—Opening of Parliament.—The Eighth Session of the Second Parliament of King George V. was opened by His Majesty in person.

The King's Speech.—The King's Speech was in the following terms:—

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"The necessities of War render it imperative for Me, after but a brief interval, to summon you again to your deliberations.

"The aims for which I and My Allies are contending were recently set forth by My Government in a statement which received the emphatic approval of My peoples throughout the Empire, and provided a fair basis for the settlement of the present struggle and the re-establishment of national rights and international peace in the future.

"The German Government has, however, ignored our just demands that it should make restitution for the wrongs it has committed, and furnish guarantees against their unprovoked repetition. Its spokesmen refuse any obligation for themselves, while denying the rightful liberties of others.

"Until a recognition is offered of the only principles on which an honourable peace can be concluded, it is Our duty to prosecute the War with all the vigour that we possess. I have full confidence that My forces in the field, in close co-operation with those of My faithful Allies, will continue to display the same heroic courage and My people at home the same unselfish devotion that have already frustrated so many of the enemy's designs and will ensure the ultimate triumph of a righteous cause.

"I have summoned representatives of My Dominions and of My Indian Empire to a further session of the Imperial War Cabinet in order that I may again receive their advice on questions of moment affecting the common interests of the Empire.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

"You will be asked to make suitable provision for the requirements of the combatant services and for the stability of Our national finance.

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

The struggle on which we are engaged has reached a critical stage, which demands more than ever Our united energies and resources. I confidently commend to your patriotism the measures which will be submitted to you, and I pray that the Almighty may bestow His blessing on your labours."

Feb. 12.

L—Address, Debate on the.—The Duke of Atholl (U.) moved and Major-Gen. Ld. Treowen (L.) seconded the Address in reply.—Ld. Crewe, referring to the Supreme War Council at Versailles, said there had been disturbing reports as to the relations between the civil and military authorities responsible for the conduct of the war. The delimitation of spheres between the civil and military authorities in war time was no easy matter.—Ld. Curzon (U.), Pres. of the Council, said the prosecution of the war, the continued supply of men, the future of the German Colonies, the conditions of peace, post-war problems—all these are matters in which we shall be the gainers when we deliberate with our fellow-countrymen across the sea. It is as essential to our Dominions across the seas that militarism should perish from the earth as it is for ourselves in Europe. It is essential to them that they should be given free scope for the development to which they look forward in the future. The capture of Jerusalem by General Allenby had aroused the enthusiasm of the whole

L—Address, Debate on the—continued.

Christian world. It was regarded by all as an expiation of the affront which Christianity has had to endure for centuries, and as the sacred symbol of the victory which we hope will crown our cause. Whatever fate may befall Palestine in the future, the House would be united in the hope that it shall never be allowed to revert to the Turk. In the early days of the war there was not that co-ordination between the Allies in the spheres of strategy and diplomacy which ought to have prevailed. Since the present Government came into power a constant effort had been made to improve the situation; and in no respect had Mr. L. George, the Prime Minister, rendered greater service to the country than in his unceasing activity in being ready to go at a moment's notice to Italy or to France in order to hold consultations with representatives of our Allies. Having seen the questions which have been referred for examination to the military officers at Versailles, he could say that they have devoted to their work a zeal and ability, attended by practical consequences, which have really more than justified the most sanguine expectations that were entertained when the Council was set up.—Ld. Beresford (U.) said the malignant and discreditable attacks which had been made on the Chief Command of the Army had had a bad effect in the trenches and in the Fleet. If the soldiers and sailors were led to believe that they had inefficient commanders they would lose confidence in their commanders, and we should lose the war. These attacks must be stopped by the Government.—The Address was agreed to.

Feb. 12.

C—Major-General Lowther (U.) moved the Address in reply, the seconder being the Hon. A. Shaw L.—Mr. Asquith said no one has a greater interest than we have in accelerating the advent of peace, but the peace for which we are fighting is a clean peace, a lasting peace, and a peace resting upon the foundation of international justice. We were all agreed that while the war lasts and the purposes for which we entered into the war are still unachieved, it should be prosecuted so far as we are concerned with the best resources at our disposal.—Mr. L. George, the Prime Minister, in replying, said the Govt. stood by the declaration, the considered declaration, which he made to the trade union representatives early in the year. A question was asked with regard to the Versailles Conference, and Mr. Asquith seemed to assume that it was possible to answer it without giving away information as to the conduct of our military operations. It is no use giving partial information; it is impossible to make a statement to the House as to the decisions taken there without giving information as to the plans of the Allies. After dealing with the decisions of the Council at Versailles and the complaint that they were not made public, remarked there was nothing which made the work of the Govt. more difficult than the strategical discussions going on in the press. He appealed to the House, and outside the House to those who are interested in seeing this war conducted efficiently, to prevent discussions of this kind going on. If the House and the country are not satisfied with the conduct of the war, if they think another Govt. can conduct it better, it is their business, in God's name, to put that Govt. in; but as long as the House retains its confidence in the Govt., then it ought to allow the Govt. a full and free hand in the direction of the war. By that means national unity and unity amongst the Allies—a vital thing for the cause we are fighting for—would be preserved.

Feb. 12.

DEBATE RESUMED.—Mr. H. L. Samuel (L.) criticized the domestic policy of the War Cabinet in regard to man-power, food production, food control, finance, ship-building, and other matters.—Mr. A. Bonar Law (U.), the Chan. of Exchqr., said it was the right and the duty of the House to examine and, where they think it wise and right, to criticize the action of the Govt. But up to the present in the conduct of the war the view generally taken was that there should not be that kind of criticism usual before the war, and he ventured to say that Mr. Samuel's case really amounted to a condemnation not only of the system but of the present Govt. If that was the case, it was his duty and the duty of the House to try to put into power a Govt. in whom they have confidence. Until that time came it would be well for the House to continue the practice which had prevailed from the outbreak of war of leaving aside many opportunities for most successful criticism, because that was the way the interests and objects of the Govt. and the Opposition could best be accomplished. In 1917 the Army got 820,645 additional men; 731,000 men and 804,000 women were placed in industrial life at home. A million additional acres were brought under the plough; an additional 850,000 tons of cereals and an extra supply of 3,000,000 tons of potatoes were produced. In regard to shipbuilding, in 1916 the total quantity built was 539,000 tons, in 1917 the tonnage built was 1,163,474, and 170,000 tons in addition were secured from abroad. Before the war every 100 tons net shipping coming into this country brought 106 tons of goods, now by utilizing every inch of space, on the average every 100 net tons brings in 150 tons of goods. The home supply of timber has increased, the number of guns available in France increased in 1917 by 30 per cent., and the supply of aeroplanes had been multiplied two-and-a-half times in 1917 as compared with 1916.—Mr. W. Adamson (Lab.) said the Allies should at the earliest moment discuss the conditions on which they were ready to enter on peace negotiations, and publish them to the world. If the Central Powers rejected those conditions he believed the overwhelming majority of our people would be against accepting peace on any terms, and in favour of fighting on with all the resources at our command. But everything must be done to give the population the assurance that the sufferings and sacrifices involved in the struggle were falling equally upon all. Profiteering, difficulties about wages, the food and housing questions, and other causes had all contributed to bringing a certain change of temper in the civil population. Unless care was taken we should have revolution in this country.—Mr. R. D. Holt (L.) moved as an amendment: "But regrets that, in accordance with the decision of the Supreme War Council at Versailles, the prosecution of military effort is to be the only immediate task of your Majesty's Government." He said it was the word "only" in the decision which it was desired to elucidate, and, if necessary, to challenge. Was the prosecution of the military effort the only task of the Govt.?—Mr. A. J. Balfour, Foreign Secy., said the Supreme War Council met at Versailles to deal primarily with the great military problems which is its main business. The Council consists, besides the military advisers, of the Prime Minister of each of the European countries concerned, with another Minister. America is represented only by a military adviser. If peace terms or questions connected with diplomacy had been the object of the Conference, necessarily and obviously the Foreign Secretary of each country would have had to be present, but that was not the business for which the Council met.—Mr. J. H. Thomas (Lab.) said there could be no greater danger to this country than that the Govt. should be compelled to negotiate peace by reason of pressure at home. There was war weariness now and glib talk about revolution. A number of people were advocating revolution and openly talking of the Bolshevist policy.—The amendment was rejected by 159 votes to 28. Feb. 13.

DEBATE RESUMED.—Mr. Lough (L.) moved an amendment: "Regretting that the continuous fresh Orders in Council interfering with the regular course of trade and industries have unnecessarily diminished importation and production, and done much to increase the distress prevailing in many parts of the country owing to the shortage of food and other vital necessities."—Mr. R. E. Prothero (U.), Pres. Bd. of Agriculture, said a suggestion had been made that he, as head of the Department responsible for Food Production, should fix prices to the producer, leaving to the Food Controller all the prices regarding distribution. There were disadvantages to the proposal. A producing Department had interests which were to some degree antagonistic to the consumers. He doubted whether Scotland or Ireland would accept his prices. The question of the food supply was the gravest one the country had to face, but farmers were working as they had never worked before.—Mr. J. R. Clynes, Parl. Secy. Ministry of Food, said complaints were made of the numerous Orders being issued day by day from the Ministry. These Orders were the expression of the variety of work and the multitude of the problems with which the Ministry of Food had to deal day by day.—Amendment withdrawn.—Mr. V. McKean (N.) moved an amendment representing to the King that the dual action of the Govt. in having sent to the Peace Note of the Pope of August 1st, 1917, no reasoned reply, and further, that the policy of the Govt. in adopting and endorsing without exception the terms of the secret treaty with Italy, signed on April 26th, 1915, was calculated to impair the military and naval efforts of our forces and to weaken the moral of their friends and co-religionists at home.—Lord R. Cecil (U.), Under-Secy. Foreign Affairs, said Mr. McKean appeared to think the Govt. had been committed to some anti-Papal policy. That was an entire mistake.—The amendment was negatived.—Mr. D. Millar (L.) moved an amendment expressing regret that no mention was made in the Speech of any action to be taken to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicants during the continuance of the war. Colonel Hall Walker (U.), opposing the amendment, contended that beer was a very valuable food.—Mr. Clynes said it was important to remember that the increased amount of drink produced in recent months was due to the conviction forced upon the Govt. that to a considerable extent the industrial unrest prevailing some time ago was caused by the drink shortage. Millions of men were toiling longer hours and working under conditions far more trying than those known in pre-war days. No responsible national organization representing labour opinion would accept the doctrine of the amendment.—The amendment was negatived.—The Address was agreed to. Feb. 14.

C—Agriculture—SLOUGH DEPÔT.—The adjournment was moved for the purpose of calling attention to the appropriation by the War Office of agricultural land in South Bucks.—Mr. J. I. Macpherson, Under-Secy. for War, said the land had been taken for the purpose of erecting a workshop and store for spare parts in connection with their mechanical transport; the German offensive in France had made it absolutely necessary for them to have a great centralized department of this kind as near London and the principal manufacturers as possible. It was also necessary that the depôt should be near a railway and a canal in order to afford facilities for the shipment of stores to the theatres of war all over the world. It was also necessary that the soil should be gravel and that the ground should be level; this was the only place available that satisfied these conditions.—Adjournment negatived. June 12.

C—Air Force, The—ESTIMATES.—On the motion to go into Committee, Major J. L. Baird (U.), Parl. Secy. to Air Ministry, passed in review the progress made in the development of the Air Force since the passing of the Act last year creating an Air Ministry. The works and lands held by the Army Council and the Admiralty respectively in connection with the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service had been taken over. The Ministry controlled all questions of air policy at home and abroad and all aerial operations. A special medical service would be controlled by a Committee responsible to the Air Council. An Advisory Committee on Aeronautics was advising the Govt. on matters of flight by aeroplane or dirigible; the work was primarily research. Over 1,100 inventions had been examined in the course of last month, the object being to ensure that inventors should be given a fair chance. There had been a transfer of the control of the technical dept. of the Air Board to the dept. of the Dir.-Genl. of Aircraft Production in the Min. of Munitions. The use of experimental stations of the Royal Naval Air Service and the Royal Flying Corps had also been transferred to the same dept. Feb. 21.

In Committee, the votes for men and pay agreed to. Feb. 25.

In Committee, on a token vote of £100 for the Air Services, Mr. Pringle (L.) moved the reduction by £100 of the salary of the Secy. in order to discuss the resignation of General Trenchard.—Mr. Ll. George, in reply, said the services of General Trenchard to the Air Force have been incalculable. The General had not been dismissed; he had resigned. If the War Cabinet had dismissed him it would have been different, but he put in his resignation for reasons which it was not desirable to enter into because they involved a dispute, and nothing would be gained by entering into a controversy which occurred inside the Air Board. General Smuts was asked to look into the matter, and without expressing any opinion upon the merits of the dispute he certainly came to the conclusion that General Trenchard's special qualities were not being used to the best advantage in the position of Chief of the Air Staff. There was, however, every hope of General Trenchard's services being retained in a position of considerable power in the Air Force.—The amendment was rejected by 127 votes to 37. Other votes for the Force were agreed to. April 29.

C—Alien Enemies.—See ENEMY ALIENS.

C—Army, The—ARMY (ANNUAL) BILL.—Read a first time. Mar 11.

Read a second time, Mr. Macpherson explaining that the only changes in it were those enabling women enrolled for service in any of the auxiliary corps to be billeted and to prevent traffic in the misuse of discharge or protection certificates and other documents issued to discharged soldiers under schemes for demobilization. Mar. 18.

In Committee, an amendment was carried to increase the penalties provided for the offence of purchasing from soldiers regimental necessaries, equipment, stores, &c. A new subsection, that the Army Council may direct that any officers or soldiers of the Regular force shall, under such conditions as may be prescribed, be temporarily attached to the Air Force, agreed to. April 17.

Read a third time and passed. April 22.

Royal Assent. April 30.

C—ESTIMATES.—On the motion to go into Committee, Mr. Ll. George made a statement on the decisions of the Versailles Council, announcing that Sir William Robertson would not remain Chief of the Staff. He also said that Sir Henry Rawlinson had been appointed our representative at Versailles. Feb. 19.

C—In Committee, Mr. Macpherson, in introducing the Estimates, said that during 1917 the War Office expended 270 millions on manufactured goods and 113 millions on raw materials, preserved meats alone accounted for 12 millions sterling, which was equivalent to 270 million rations. Purchases amounting to 84 million pounds of tea, 177 million pounds of sugar, 8½ million pounds of pipe and chewing tobacco, and 11 million pounds of cigarettes had been made. 250 million yards of woollen material had been bought at a cost to the nation of 88 millions sterling. He explained what had been done to utilize discarded material, to save tonnage, and to increase transport facilities. Figures were given of the number of men and the amount of material conveyed to the front.

In Committee, votes for men and pay and a supplementary vote for pay agreed to. Feb. 20.
Feb. 26.

C—Bastardy Laws Act (1872) Amendment Bill.—To increase to 10s. the weekly sum which may be ordered to be paid by the putative father of a bastard child.

Read a first time. Oct. 28.

Read a second time. Oct. 30.

In Committee. Nov. 4.

Read a third time. Nov. 15.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—British Nationality and Status of Aliens Bill.—Read a first time. May 15.

Sir G. Cave, in moving the 2nd R., said the measure was approved in principle at the Imperial Conference in the spring of 1917, and since that time by India and all the self-governing Dominions with the exception of Australia, which had not approved but had indicated no dissent. The main provisions of the Bill introduced wider powers of revoking certificates of naturalization and set up machinery for that purpose. The power to revoke was proposed to be given in cases of disloyalty; in cases of serious criminal offence or of bad character; where a naturalized person acted contrary to the declaration which he made when he was naturalized; and had left the country for a period of not less than seven years. It was also provided that a certificate might be revoked if its continuance was not in the public interests, and where the naturalized person (a) had shown himself to be disloyal to his Majesty; or (b) had within five years of the grant of the certificate been sentenced to imprisonment for a term of not less than 12 months or to a term of penal servitude; or (c) was not of good character at the date of the grant of the certificate; or (d) had since the granting of the certificate been for a period of not less than seven years ordinarily resident out of his Majesty's dominions otherwise than as a representative of a British subject, firm, or company carrying on business, or an institution established in his Majesty's dominions, or in the service of the Crown.—Read a second time. July 12.

In Committee, Sir G. Cave moved that a certificate of naturalization granted during the present war to an enemy alien, not of British birth, should be revoked if it was decided after inquiry to be desirable. This was agreed to. Other amendments also made. July 17.

On Report, a new clause, providing that no certificate of naturalization should for a period of five years after the war be granted to any enemy alien, the clause not to apply in certain cases, was agreed to.—A clause, moved by Sir G. Cave, giving persons with a dual nationality whose certificates were about to be revoked the right of inquiry, was agreed to.—Bill read a third time and passed. July 19.

L—In Committee, an amendment to extend the period during which no certificate should be granted to an enemy alien from five to ten years agreed to. Aug. 2.

Royal Assent. Aug. 8.

C—Budget, 1918-9.—In Committee of Ways and Means, Mr. A. Bonar Law (U.), Chan. of Exchqr., said he had to submit a financial statement on a scale far exceeding any scale that has ever been known at any time or in any country. The total expenditure had exceeded the estimate by £406,000,000. Our advances to the Allies last year amounted to £505,000,000 sterling, in addition to which the United States have advanced to the Allies during the year £950,000,000. Of this amount, approximately £500,000,000 was advanced to us and £450,000,000 to the Allies. This shows how enormously the financial needs of the Allies have increased and how necessary was the financial assistance which came from the United States. Last year there had been an excess of receipts under every head of taxation, but the total revenue of the year was £707,235,000, leaving a balance to be borrowed of £1,988,986,000. The Estimate for Votes of Credit for next year is £2,550,000,000 as against an actual expenditure last year of £2,403,000,000. It is at the rate of £6,986,000 per day as against a daily average expenditure last year of £6,583,000. The total expenditure he estimated at £2,972,197,000. The revenue on the existing basis of taxation would be £774,250,000, or an excess over last year of £67,000,000. The new taxation proposed would, for the coming year, he estimated, produce £67,800,000. That would make the total revenue for the year £842,050,000, leaving a balance to be covered by borrowing of £2,130,147,000. It was proposed that the rate upon letters both at home and to the United States and our dominions should be 1½d., the rate on post-cards should be 1d.; that the stamp on a cheque in future should be 2d. instead of 1d.; to increase the rate of income-tax by 1s., and make it 6s. in the £ on incomes of over £500; super-tax would be increased from 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. in the £, beginning at incomes of £2,500 instead of £3,000; farmers would be assessed on twice the amount of their rent (double the existing tax) or might be taxed on their profits; to increase the spirit duties from 14s. 9d. to 30s. per gallon; to double the duty on beer, which is 25s. per standard barrel, and make it 50s.; to raise the duty on tobacco from 6s. 5d. to 8s. 2d.; to increase the tax on matches, making the minimum price to the consumer 1d. per box; to levy an additional tax on sugar of 11s. 8d. per cwt. He proposed to levy a luxury tax of 2d. in the shilling, to be charged on schedules arranged by a Select Committee to be set up by the House. It was hoped the new taxation would bring in £67,800,000 in the current year and £114,000,000 in a full year.—The resolutions confirming the proposals in regard to the duties on sugar, spirits, beer, matches and tobacco, income-tax, super-tax, the tax on luxuries, the excess profits duty, and the postage charges were agreed to. April 22.

On Report, the resolutions relating to the duties on tea, dried fruit, and motor spirit were agreed to without discussion. The resolution imposing the sugar duty, after discussion, was agreed to by 141 votes to 56; the resolution imposing the additional duty on beer was agreed to, as were the resolutions proposing an addition to the duties now payable on matches of 1s. 8d. for every 10,000 matches, putting an extra tax of twopence per oz. on tobacco, and imposing a tax of twopence in the shilling on certain articles of luxury to be hereafter specified. On the income-tax resolution, which fixes the rate of the tax at 6s. in the pound, there was a discussion and a division, the resolution being agreed to by 110 to 40 votes.—The resolutions relating to super-tax, farmers' income tax, and the 2d. tax on cheques were then agreed to. May 1.

See also FINANCE BILL.

C—Business of the House.—It was agreed that until the House otherwise determined no public Bills other than Government Bills should be introduced. It was also decided to give Government business precedence at every sitting of the House. Feb. 13.

C—Civil Service Estimates.—On the supplementary vote for the Ministry of Munitions, Mr. Kellaway (L.), Parl. Secy. Min. of Munitions, made a statement on the bonus of 12½ per cent. granted to munition workers. Feb. 18.

On the vote for the salaries and expenses of the Overseas Trade Department, Sir A. Steel Maitland (U.), Secy., Dept. Overseas Trade, said it had been determined to deal with the Overseas Trade Services by a new method, and to institute a new joint department of the Foreign Office and the Board of Trade. It was a composite department and an experiment in administration. It controlled foreign services which would have to do with commercial matters. The number of Trade Commissioners were to be increased from four to sixteen. The Commercial Attaché service would be considerably extended and reorganized, and the whole of the Consular service would also be reorganized in order to make it adequate to meet after-the-war requirements.—The vote was agreed to. Feb. 26.

In Committee, on the Vote on Account, Mr. Bonar Law (U.), Chan. of Exchqr., said the output of shipbuilding in January, and to an extent in February, had been disappointing. That was due largely to labour trouble. It was, besides that, partly due to the larger amount of repair work than had been contemplated. At the end of last year the British tonnage available was reduced as compared with the previous year by no less than 20 per cent.; yet, in spite of that reduction, the imports into this country last year, as compared with the previous year, were only reduced by 2 per cent. Dealing with the existing system of Cabinet working, he said the ordinary system of Cabinet government was absolutely impossible in war time. On the whole, it was possible under the present system to form quicker and better decisions. Dealing with the references made to the appointments of representatives of the Press in the Government, he said if propaganda was necessary at all the only people really competent were people connected with the Press. Feb. 27.

In Committee on the Report on the Vote on Account, the treatment of conscientious objectors and of Litvinoff and Kameneff was questioned. Sir G. Cave (U.), Home Secy., replying, said that so far as there was a difference between the treatment of different classes of prisoners, the difference had been in favour of imprisoned conscientious objectors. With reference to conscientious objectors interned in camps, though there were something like 4,000 of them all told, there had been only eight deaths—or a death-rate of 2.5 per thousand per annum compared with the average of 14.2 per thousand for the whole country. It would not be right, by indulgence to men of this type, to make it easier for others to avoid their national obligations. As to M. Litvinoff, he was not an Ambassador representing any recognized Government, but he was here with the avowed object of engaging in revolutionary propaganda.

He was not bound by the conditions which regulated the conduct of every Ambassador, and not holding that position, held himself free to work against order and against the Govt. of this country. He had issued manifestoes that the Home Office had had to seize, and in some cases to destroy them. He had interviewed British soldiers, and one could conjecture what the object of those interviews was. It was impossible to tolerate the indefinite continuance of attempts of the kind. It had been said that Litvinoff had been compelled for political reasons to pass under several names in Russia. As a matter of fact he had passed under other names in this country, he had been called Buchman and Harrison. Kameneff and his associate came to this country, one as an envoy on his way to France and the other on his way to Switzerland. The Govt. were informed that the French Govt. would not allow them to land in France, and, therefore, the only thing possible was their return to Russia. The Govt., in keeping watch on them during the few days they were in this country, were doing nothing but their duty. The Govt. had decided to issue an Order in Council preventing any alien from addressing meetings or indulging in propaganda which was forbidden.—Mr. J. R. Clynes (Lab.), Parl. Secy. Food Ministry, dealing with a criticism of the meat-rationing scheme, said he was aware there was some dissatisfaction because the same allowance was made to the manual worker as to other classes. The difficulties in dealing with the matter were, first, that there was not in the country at the moment a sufficient supply of meat to provide for a differential ration allowance, and, secondly, that of administration—the allocating of supplies and the identifying of the various classes. When those difficulties could be overcome the Ministry would do everything possible to adjust matters. With regard to the question of pig-keeping, the Govt. were willing to consider any suggestion for raising the price of pigs, provided that would not impose a further strain on the supplies of concentrated foodstuffs. As to milk, in view of certain increases in the cost of production, it was the intention of the Food Controller to increase the price during April next and to permit an increase in price that would provide for the milk supply during the next winter. They had decided to increase the dead-weight price of meat by 9s. 6d. per stone, which would increase the price to the producer by one halfpenny per lb.

Feb. 28.

On the motion to go into Committee, Mr. C. P. Trevelyan (L.) moved that a Standing Committee of Foreign Affairs should be appointed representative of all parties and groups in the House, in order that a regular channel of communication might be established between the Foreign Secy. and the House. He said we wanted the maximum of publicity and not of secrecy in regard to foreign affairs.—Mr. A. J. Balfour, Foreign Secy., said our present system was not undemocratic. The idea that our diplomacy was engaged in spinning diplomatic webs, oblivious of the public opinion of the various countries concerned, with the result that civilized mankind was now groaning under a series of secret undemocratic treaties, was entirely fantastic. What was the proposed Committee going to do? The business of the Foreign Office of this and every other country was not to engage in the pursuit of strange and secret aims. Diplomacy worked to keep each country on good terms with its neighbours. A Foreign Office and diplomatic service was a great instrument for preventing or diminishing friction between States. Their task was largely that of the peacemaker. How would that task be assisted by shouting their grievances from the house-tops? What the House desired was to be in contact with the Ministers who controlled its affairs, so that it could turn them out if it did not like them. It should know what were the general lines of their policy. If Ministers were proceeding on wrong lines, they should be turned out of office; but they would not do their work better by having to explain it to a lot of men who were not responsible, that was not the way to get business properly done. He did not believe the resolution was democratic or practical.—The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mar. 19.

In Committee, on the Vote for the Ministry of Munitions, Mr. W. Churchill (L.), Min. of Munitions, said that all losses of guns, rifles, and munitions of the five weeks of the great battle had been made good, and in many cases more than made good. The supply of aeroplanes had for some time been in advance of the development of squadrons in organization and of trained pilots. The output of tanks had been so accelerated that every one which had been lost could be replaced by a new and better class. The number of persons employed at the headquarters of the Ministry had grown to 18,300, of which number nearly 11,000 were women. The question confronting the Ministry was, how to combine a continually diminished fund of highly skilled and trained labour and a continually contracting volume of imports of raw material with the production of a larger supply of materials and everything needed. There was a simple explanation. Firstly, the loyalty and faithful industry of the whole population engaged in munition supply; secondly, the gigantic transformation in the industries of the country from peace industries into war industries; thirdly, the women. Nearly three-quarters of a million women were actively employed at present under the Ministry of Munitions. We were now making in a single week more aeroplanes than were made in the whole of 1914; in a single month, more than we made in 1915; in a single quarter, more than in 1916. Two reports on finance had been laid before Parliament. He regretted the tone and character, to some extent, of those reports, and the comment to which they had given rise in the newspapers. Every discreditable incident that could be discovered had been used. The bulk of the material on which the scandals rested was not discovered by the Comptroller-General nor by the Select Committee but by the Ministry. No accounting would be any substitute for victorious action in the field. The needs of the Army were continually changing, and speed was often the vital concern, the Minister must have a reasonably free hand and the power of making quick decisions to meet emergency needs.—Sir L. W. Evans (U.), Parl. Secy. Min. Munitions, said the Ministry bought and imported raw materials worth about £150,000,000 a year; they owned over 180 factories in which more than £50,000,000 of public money was invested, these factories gave direct employment to 196,000 workpeople, whose weekly wages amounted to £675,000. Woolwich, Enfield and Waltham Abbey were additional. These three employed 85,000 persons at weekly wages amounting to £360,000, showing that in all their factories 281,000 people were employed, the weekly wages bill amounting to over a million sterling. The Ministry were spending about £620,000,000 a year, or over £2,000,000 each working day, whilst their turnover was about £2,000,000,000 a year.

April 25.

In Committee, on the Vote for the Local Government Board, Mr. W. Hayes Fisher (U.), Pres. Local Govt. Bd., made a general statement upon the housing policy initiated by the Department. The local authorities are to select the land, frame estimates of the probable cost of erecting houses, and of the probable rents over a course of seven years. The Treasury would find 75 per cent. of the estimated deficit, leaving 25 per cent. to be borne by the ratepayers. Where this cost more than a penny rate the Treasury would meet the additional charge. There was every reason to be encouraged by the way in which the local authorities had met the offer. The class of house to be provided would consist of a living-room, scullery, parlour, and three bedrooms. The rent would be fixed by the local authority in consultation with the Bd. at rates which people for whom the houses were intended could reasonably be expected to pay. There was a progressive movement going on in all health questions. The number of health visitors had increased from 600 in 1914 to more than 2,000 in 1918. The majority of the visitors gave the whole of their time to this work. The number of midwives was increasing. Local authorities had, under the regulations of 1916, set up schemes for the treatment of venereal disease, and these were working admirably. The State was going to see there was some supervision of the general education and maintenance of the blind, and for that purpose a special departmental committee had been appointed.—Mr. Albion Richardson (L.) drew attention to the position in the matter of Military Service Tribunals, and moved the reduction of the vote by £100.—Mr. Hayes Fisher in replying said he was prepared to bow to the opinion of the Committee, and he would restore the full right of professional assistance enjoyed by applicants to the old tribunals.—The amendment was withdrawn.—Mr. Gulland (L.) inquired what progress was being made by householders in the filling up of Form A, known as the pink form, under the Rep. of the People Act.—Mr. Hayes Fisher admitted the form was one for experts but he believed that it was as good a form as could be devised in the circumstances. He agreed that they were going to have a most unsatisfactory register if they should rely upon people to fill up these forms without assistance. The Govt. would do their best to obtain a house-to-house canvass, and to provide assistance for those who did not know how to fill up their forms.—The vote was agreed to.

May 2.

In Committee, on the vote for the Bd. of Trade, Sir A. Stanley (L.), Pres. Bd. of Trade, said the decrease in the volume of our imports was about 40 per cent. and in the value of our exports about 30 per cent. That was due to the entire cessation of our trade with our present enemies, and also to the practical cessation of our trade with Belgium and Rumania as well as to the use to which our shipping was now being put. More than one-half of all the workpeople engaged in industry were to-day doing work on Govt. account, but it was estimated that to-day the aggregate output of industry was very little less than was the case before the war. He said the control exercised by the Board over the railways of Great Britain had been thoroughly satisfactory. They had through it secured the maximum of efficiency and had been able to make substantial economies. It was proposed to increase the price of season tickets by 10 per cent. on all tickets issued for journeys within a 12-mile zone, and to add 20 per cent. to the price of all season tickets for journeys beyond that distance. The system of unified control which the Government established over the canals of this country was working with considerable success. The system of coal rationing had been a great success, but it was necessary to go further in reducing the consumption of coal next winter. The Govt. found it necessary to reduce the quantity of coal consumed for industrial as well as domestic purposes. The rationing of gas and electricity would also be necessary. References were made to the control of cotton, of zinc concentrates, and of paper. Dealing with the subject of synthetic dyes, he said progress had been made, not as rapid as was expected, and more in the direction of producing the commoner kinds than in the more complicated range of dyes produced in such large quantities in Germany before the war. The Govt. had made proposals to the dye manufacturers for rendering financial assistance and for controlling the importation of all foreign dye stuffs by a system of licence for a period of not less than 10 years after the war. Speaking of the mercantile marine, he said the conduct of the men engaged in it had constituted a record of unexampled heroism and devotion to duty. The number of deaths that had taken place in that service from enemy action since the beginning of the war was over 12,500, and the amount that was being paid in pensions to dependents in February was at the rate of about £170,000 a year.

May 15.

In Committee, on the vote for the Ministry of Pensions, Mr. John Hodge (Lab.), Minister of Pensions, said that when he succeeded Mr. Barnes the staff of the Ministry numbered 3,700 persons. It now numbered 6,200 and was growing rapidly. The difficulty of administration was greatly increased by the staff being scattered over twenty-three separate buildings. A Medical Service department had been started with an eminent doctor in charge. It was hoped to have an orthopædic clinic in every town of any size. A separate department for training disabled men had been installed. There had been a great development in the supply of artificial limbs.—The vote was agreed to.

May 28.

In Committee, on the vote for the Ministry of Food, Mr. J. R. Clynes (Lab.), Parl. Secy. Min. of Food, remarked that Britain had to carry burdens greater perhaps than any other of the Allies, and had become responsible not only for the feeding of her own people and Army but for assisting the peoples of other nations. The benefits of the policy pursued by the Ministry could be seen at once in remembering what the outlook was at the end of 1917, and while there was no certainty that we could permanently retain the level now reached it was probable that we would never be reduced to that condition of either shortage or confusion such as prevailed towards the end of last year.—The vote was agreed to.

June 6.

In Committee, on the vote for the Post Office, Mr. Illingworth (L.), Pstmr-Genl., stated that nearly 80,000 Post Office employees had been called up during the war. Some 3,000 had been discharged and had returned to work. Many more men would be liable for service, but he did not think that many more could be spared. The war brought to the Post Office work which was not strictly within its purview. The payment of the Army allowances and pensions to the dependents of the Army, Navy and Royal Air Force involved over 4,000,000 counter transactions per week. The extra work included the sale of War Loan and War Savings Certificates. Air-raid warnings sometimes entailed from 10,000 to 20,000 telephone calls. The increase in postal work for the fighting forces grew larger month by month. There were now something like 25,000 fewer persons employed in the Post Office than before the war. One of the features of the year was the large increase in the cost of working the Post Office. The war bonuses granted to members of the permanent and temporary staffs varied from 6s. 6d. to 14s. per week—they totalled £6,000,000 per annum—and this, with other extra costs, made it necessary to increase the charges for Post Office services.—An amendment to reduce the vote was negatived and the vote agreed to.

June 12.

In Committee, on the vote for the Ministry of National Service, Sir A. Geddes (U.), Minister of National Service, dealt with the subject of medical examinations of recruits.

June 27.

In Committee, the vote for the Bd. of Agriculture in Scotland and other Scottish votes were agreed to.—There was a short discussion on the subject of afforestation.

July 4.

In Committee, on the vote for the Bd. of Agriculture, Mr. R. E. Prothero (U.), Pres. Bd. of Agric., said that the vote dealt mainly with the normal activities of the Board. The estimates showed a reduction of something like £17,000, in spite of the fact that for the first time the vote was charged with the Wages Board of £76,000. The Wages Board had been set up in accordance with the Act of Parliament, and 39 district wages committees had also been set up. The Board's plans for providing for the wants of demobilized soldiers and sailors had been before the Govt. for some time. The same might be said of their plans to deal with the difficult question of tithes. Arrangements were being made for engaging disabled officers and men in the work of forestry, and the first of the Board's schools would open in the Forest of Dean on August 1. Turning to the question of fisheries, he said that no industry in the country had done better work for the nation, both as food producers and as an auxiliary branch of the Navy, than the fishing industry. Dealing with the subject of food production, he said the supply of labour had been throughout the greatest difficulty the Board had to contend with. Since the food-production campaign began, the number of women on the land had been increased from something like 91,000 to over 300,000. In pre-war times allotments numbered 570,000; there were now more than 1,400,000.—The vote was agreed to. July 18.

In Committee, on the vote of a first instalment of the sum to be advanced for the development of the British dye-making industry, Sir A. Stanley (L.), Pres. Bd. of Trade, said it was necessary, in order to rescue it from the Germans, that assistance should be given to the British dye industry in two forms—(1) in the nature of a loan, and (2) in the form of assistance not recoverable, namely, by making a contribution towards the cost of extensions. It was further proposed that, for a period of 10 years after the war, the imports of dyestuffs into this country should be restricted by licence.—Mr. J. M. Hogge (L.) moved to reduce the vote by £100; but the amendment was rejected by 103 votes to 52 and the vote was agreed to. July 25.

In Committee, on the report of the vote for the Foreign Office, Lord R. Cecil (U.), Asst. For. Secy., said that notwithstanding the admirable work done by our representatives abroad much could be done to improve the organization of the Foreign Office. The Govt. hoped to carry out reforms in this respect. Reorganization in the conditions of work in our embassies and legations was necessary, and something should be done to encourage post-graduate training of the men in our foreign service. He hoped to be able to introduce something in the way of a promotions board. It was not possible to defend the condition that a man entering the Diplomatic Service should possess an income of £400 per annum. Diplomatic functions must be extended to cover commercial questions. Diplomacy could not be divorced from commerce.—The vote was agreed to.—On the report of the vote for the Bd. of Trade, Sir J. Walton (L.) complained of the unnecessarily severe restrictions on coal consumption. The real fact was that there was no shortage of coal. Sir A. Stanley (L.), Pres. Bd. of Trade, said there was a very considerable falling-off in the output of coal. Up to date the total number of men withdrawn from the mines for military service was roundly 400,000. There would be a deficit of 15 million tons, and it was proposed to meet that by the new Fuel Order.—The vote was agreed to. July 31.

In Committee, on the vote for the Metropolitan Police, Sir G. Cave (U.), Home Secy., made a statement concerning the London police strike.—The vote was agreed to.—On the vote in respect of the Representation of the People Act, Mr. W. Hayes Fisher (U.), Pres. Local Govt. Bd., said the Govt. could give no undertaking to bring about a General Election before March 31. The mere fact that the vote was put down was not to be taken as an indication of an immediate election.—The vote was agreed to. Oct. 24.

In Committee, on the vote for the Ministry of Information, a discussion took place on the article entitled "From War to Peace," written by Ld. Northcliffe.—Mr. S. Baldwin (U.), Financial Secy. of the Treas., said none of the money of the Ministry or of the money that might be wanted for enemy propaganda had been or would be used with reference to the publication to which exception had been taken. The whole of the expense connected with its publication was defrayed by Lord Northcliffe.—A division was taken on the vote, which was agreed to by 113 votes to 40. Nov. 7.

C—Constabulary and Police (Ireland) (No. 2) Bill.—A Bill to amend the law relating to the pay and pensions of the Royal Irish Constabulary and Dublin Metropolitan Police. Moving the 2nd R., Mr. E. Shortt (L.) said the object of the Bill was to raise the wages and pensions of the constabulary and police in Ireland. Nov. 14.

In Committee, and read a third time. Nov. 15.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

L—*Corn Production (Amendment) Bill.—In moving the 2nd R., Lord Clinton (U.), Secy. Bd. of Agriculture, explained that the section of the Act of 1917 which it was designed to amend should have come into operation within a year, but the present conditions were wholly different from those contemplated when the measure was passed. It was essential, therefore, to ask for a renewal of the powers already granted.—Read a second time. July 9.

C—In Committee, Mr. Prothero, Pres. Bd. of Agriculture, moved an amendment giving the right of appeal to any person served on or after August 21, 1918, with a notice determining his tenancy of any land, or requiring any change in the mode of cultivating or in the use of land in his occupation.—A suggestion to alter his amendment so as to give the right of appeal in respect of land which it was considered was not being cultivated according to the rules of good husbandry was accepted and the amendment agreed to. July 25.

On Report, the right of appeal was given to owners or occupiers when land (other than allotments) was taken compulsorily under Defence of the Realm Act.—Read a third time. Aug. 1.

Royal Assent. Aug. 8.

C—*Defence of the Realm (Food Profits) Bill.—To provide for the forfeiture of double the amount received from the sale of goods at prices in excess of those allowed by the Food Controller.—In moving the 2nd R., Mr. J. R. Clynes (Lab.), Secy. Min. of Food, said its object was to impose on profiteers penalties which could not be imposed under the Defence of the Realm Act regulations. The Govt. wanted to deal with exceptionally serious cases. There had been 7,000 prosecutions undertaken by the Min. of Food for profiteering offences, and more than 6,600 convictions had been secured. The Bill was not intended to deal with the ordinary small cases but with the more serious larger cases. The view of the Ministry was that the fine now limited to £100 was not sufficient. It was necessary to go further, and to take from the wrong-doer not only all that he had made but double the amount which he had made by his evasion of the law. The Bill made such offenders liable not only to imprisonment but to forfeit double the amount of his illicit gains.—Read a second time. April 24.

In Committee, on the motion of Mr. T. Lough (L.), the words "after the passing of this Act" were inserted so as to provide that the measure should not be retrospective.—Read a third time. April 30.

Royal Assent. May 16.

L—Deputy-Lieutenants Bill.—To amend the law with respect to the qualifications of deputy-lieutenants.—Moving the 2nd R., the Earl of Derby said the Bill increased the number of classes from which deputy-lieutenants could be drawn. The property qualification was abolished, the residential qualification being retained. A person appointed must have rendered worthy service as a member of, or in a civil capacity in connection with, the naval, military, or air force.—Read a second time. Mar. 20.

Royal Assent. July 30.

C—Education Bill.—To make further provision with respect to education in England and Wales. Presented by Mr. H. A. L. Fisher (L.), Pres. Bd. of Education. Feb. 25.

The motion for the 2nd R. moved by Mr. F. D. Acland.—Mr. B. Peto (U.) moved to postpone the 2nd R. for six months.—Mr. Fisher (L.) said the Bill presented for the first time a scheme for co-ordinating elementary, secondary and technical education, and making the local education authorities responsible for the whole superstructure.—Debate adjourned. Mar. 13.

DEBATE RESUMED.—Sir P. Magnus (U.) said the Bill far surpassed any previous education measure and had met with unprecedented approval. It was regarded by educational bodies as a great democratic measure of educational reform.—Mr. J. O'Grady (Lab.) complimented the President on his courage in entirely abolishing the half-time system.—Mr. J. H. Lewis (L.), Parl. Secy. Bd. of Education, said there seemed to be a consensus of opinion that the time had come for a great advance in education.—The amendment negatived.—Read a second time. Mar. 18.

Read a third time. July 16.

Royal Assent. Aug. 8.

C—Education (Scotland) Bill.—In moving the 2nd R., Mr. R. Munro, Secy. for Scotland, said the Bill was divided into two parts—administrative and educational. The educational area would be the county. The authority would be an ad hoc authority. The members of the authority would be all directly elected under the principle of proportional representation. The main object of the Bill was the better education of the whole of the people of Scotland, irrespective of social class, age, sex, or place of residence. When the Act came into full operation the education of practically every young person would be continued, in one form or another, until the age of 18.

There was provision to prevent the exploitation of child labour by parents or employers. It was proposed to bring Roman Catholic schools and other separate denominational schools into the public school system, to do away with the old system of code and grant, to empower local authorities to initiate schemes of education. An advisory council would be formed to assist the Ministry and similar councils would be created to assist the local education authorities.—Mr. Sutherland (L.) moved the rejection of the Bill on the ground that there has been no adequate opportunity to ascertain the opinion of the Scottish people upon it.—The amendment negatived.—Bill read a second time.

June 26.

On Report, a new clause to continue the custom of giving instruction in religion to children whose parents do not object to the instruction so given was agreed to, as was an amendment providing that an education authority might, after due inquiry, exempt young persons from attending continuation classes.

Oct. 16.

Royal Assent.

Nov. 21.

C—Enemy Aliens.—Sir G. Cave, Home Secy., laid before the House the proposals of the Govt. He said the lists of exemptions from internment, of women exempted from repatriation, and of certificates of naturalization granted during the war would now be very carefully reviewed and drastically revised by the existing advisory committees strengthened by additional members. No person not a natural-born British subject would be allowed to change his name without a licence from the Secy. of State. It was proposed to make it a rule that no person shall, during the war, work in a Govt. office unless he is the child of British-born parents, allowing exceptions only where there is a "definite national reason." In the cases of friendly and neutral aliens, the existing system of identity books would be extended. With regard to enemy businesses and matters of that kind, the Govt. proposed to vest all pre-war patents in the Public Trustee and to discontinue receiving applications for new patents from enemy subjects. Businesses carried on before the war in the interests of enemy subjects would be wound up. Enemy banks would also be wound up and the business ended, and legislation making it impossible for a period of years to open any enemy bank in this country after the war would be introduced.

July 11.

C—European War : ARMISTICE, THE.—Mr. Ll. George announced the terms of the Armistice granted to Austria-Hungary, which provided that the Allies are to have the right of free movement over all roads, rails, and waterways in Austro-Hungarian territory, and the use of the necessary Austro-Hungarian means of transportation; that surrender is to be made of all the Austro-Hungarian submarines, of all German submarines in Austro-Hungarian waters, of three battleships, three light cruisers, nine destroyers, and other war vessels; that German troops were to evacuate Austria-Hungary within 15 days; that all Allied prisoners were to be immediately released; that all invaded territories were to be evacuated; and that the Austro-Hungarian armies were to be demobilized.

Nov. 5.

L—The terms of the Armistice accepted by Germany were announced by Ld. Finlay, the Ld. Chancellor. The House thereafter attended the service of thanksgiving at St. Margaret's Church.

Nov. 11.

C—Mr. Ll. George said the Armistice was signed this morning at five o'clock after a discussion which was prolonged all night, and the war ceased at 11 a.m. He then read the conditions of the Armistice, and moved that the House do immediately adjourn and proceed to St. Margaret's to give humble and reverent thanks for the great deliverance of the world from its great peril.—This was agreed to.

Nov. 11.

L—It was moved and agreed that an Address be presented to His Majesty congratulating Him upon the conclusion of the Armistice.

Nov. 18.

C—Mr. Bonar Law moved that an Address be presented to the King congratulating His Majesty on the conclusion of the Armistice (see page 418).—Mr. Asquith seconded and the motion was agreed to.

Nov. 18.

ARMISTICE WITH TURKEY.—Sir G. Cave, Home Secy., announced the conclusion of an Armistice with Turkey, the terms including the free passage for Allied ships through the Bosphorus to the Black Sea, the Allied occupation of the forts in the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, and the immediate repatriation of the Allied prisoners of war.

Oct. 31.

SERVICE AT ST. MARGARET'S.—Mr. Ll. George (L.) moved "That this House will attend at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on Sunday, the 4th of August, being the fourth anniversary of the declaration of war, to invoke the Divine Blessing on our just cause." He said it required no words to commend to the House the motion.—Mr. Asquith (L.) said the proposal would be universally regarded as fit and appropriate.—The motion was agreed to.

C—VOTES OF CREDIT.—In Committee, Mr. Bonar Law (U.), Chan. of Exchqr., said the sum he now asked the Committee to agree to was for £600,000,000 sterling, the largest single vote that had ever been submitted to the House. The daily expenditure was £6,750,000, rather more than the average for the financial year up to the present time. This sum should last to the end of June.—Vote agreed to.

Mar. 7.

In Committee, Mr. Bonar Law (U.) moved a Vote of Credit for £500,000,000. He said that from March 7 to June 8 the expenditure had been £472,500,000, which was below the estimate by £9,500,000. The total amount of all our Votes of Credit had gone up at an alarming rate. In the first year of the war, 1914-15, the amount was only £362,000,000. In the second year it was £1,420,000,000; in the third year, £2,010,000,000; and last year, £2,450,000,000, making up to that period £6,242,000,000. The present vote brings the total for the current year up to £1,100,000,000, making the total Votes of Credit, including the present one, £7,342,000,000. This vote should carry us on until the end of August.—The vote was agreed to.

June 18.

In Committee, Mr. Bonar Law (U.) moved a Vote of Credit for £700,000,000. He said the expenditure to July 13 was less by 2½ millions than the estimate. There had been under-spending in the fighting forces and in shipbuilding. The loans to Allies had been less than was expected, at the end of the financial year the debt due by the Allies to us was £1,332,000,000; it is now £1,402,000,000. The debt due by the Dominions is now £208,500,000. Our debt from the Russian Govt.—or the Russian people—is £568,000,000; from France, £402,000,000; from Italy, £313,000,000; and from the smaller States of the Alliance—Belgium, Serbia and Greece—£119,000,000. He later referred to the progress of borrowing in connection with National War Bonds.—Vote agreed to.

C—Finance Bill.—Introduced and read a first time.

May 1.

On the motion for the 2nd R., Mr. Lloyd George said long-term borrowing had been going on for rather less than eight months. As against £1,000,000,000 raised by the spectacular loan in January, we had raised, excluding War Savings Certificates, up to April 1, £719,000,000. Referring to the taxes, he said it was rather a curiosity of finance that in a Budget dealing with such immense sums, the bulk of the criticism had been in reference to the cheque tax. His own belief was that, just as people now were paying 2d. for what used to be a penny paper without any diminution in the circulation, it would be found in a short time that 2d. would be paid on the cheque and people would never know the difference.—Bill read a second time.

May 14.

In Committee, Mr. D. M. Mason (L.) moved to omit Cl. 8, which increases the Customs duties on sugar.—Mr. Bonar Law pointed out it was the only additional taxation on anyone with less than £500 a year. In 1913-14 direct taxes produced 57½ per cent. of the revenue, but this year they produced between 81 and 82 per cent.—The amendment rejected by 149 votes to 31.—Clauses 11, 12 and 13, which proposed a duty on articles and places of luxury, were negatived in order that they may be re-embodied in a separate measure.

June 3.

In Committee, a new clause, introduced by Mr. Bonar Law, reducing the entertainments tax in some cases, was agreed to.

C—*Flax Companies (Financial Assistance) Bill.—Introduced and read a first time.

June 27.

In moving the 2nd R., Mr. H. W. Forster (U.), Finl. Secy. War Office, said the object of the Bill was to encourage a considerable extension of flax growing. Banks would advance money under a joint guarantee of the linen industry and the War Office, and companies willing to undertake the liabilities would be given power to do so.—Read a second time.

C—*Government War Obligations Bill.—Presented and read a first time.

July 22.

On the motion for the 2nd R., Mr. S. Baldwin (U.), Finl. Secy. to Treasury, said the Bill was on similar lines to the previous ones. Only two new obligations had arisen : a guarantee to indemnify the Portuguese Govt. for claims arising on British-owned cargoes in interned enemy vessels ; and a guarantee, up to £600,000, in connection with the scheme of flax production in Ireland.—Read a second time.

Royal Assent. July 24.

C—Housing Bill.—Presented by Mr. W. Hayes Fisher (U.), Pres. Local Govt. Bd., and read a first time. Aug. 8.

Mr. Hayes Fisher, in moving the 2nd R. of the Housing Bill, said the Bill was only an instalment of the Govt. programme. The first clause enabled county councils to build houses for their own employees, to raise loans for that purpose, and to extend the period of repayment over 80 years instead of 30 years. If the councils could not raise loans on reasonable terms, the Treasury would raise the loans or give facilities for raising them. Housing would be expensive in the near future, and if there was a deficit, the Treasury would be willing for a period of seven years to meet 75 per cent. of the deficit, the remaining 25 per cent. to be borne by the rates. Cl. 2 gave county councils, where the smaller bodies were not taking adequate means to provide houses for the population of the area, power to undertake the duty and to put the rate on the local authority.—Bill read a second time. Oct. 17.

Bill withdrawn. Oct. 28.

L—Income Tax Bill.—To consolidate the enactments relating to the income tax. Presented by Lord Finlay (U.) and read a first time. Nov. 19.

Royal Assent. Aug. 8.

L—*Increase of Rent, &c. (Amendment) Bill.—Presented by Lord Finlay (U.), Ld. Chancellor, and read a first time. Mar. 12.

In moving the 2nd R., Lord Finlay explained the object of the Bill was to prevent a landlord from turning out tenants of small houses in order that he may occupy them himself. Mar. 14.

Royal Assent. May 2.

L—Juries Bill.—Presented by Lord Finlay (U.), Ld. Chancellor, and read a first time. May 14.

Lord Finlay moved the 2nd R. of the Bill, which limits the right to a jury in certain civil cases, raises the liability age for jury service from 60 to 65 years, and enables coroners' inquests, in certain cases, to be held without a jury. The Bill was for the period of the war and six months afterwards. It provided that the normal custom should be that actions in the High Court in England should be tried by a judge alone without a jury ; and that, in the county court, subject to the discretion of the judge, a jury should not be summoned to try an action unless the amount claimed exceeded £5. Power was given to hold a coroner's inquest without a jury if the coroner was satisfied it was proper so to do.—Bill read a second time. May 15.

Royal Assent. July 30.

L—Loans (Incumbents of Benefices) Amendment Bill.—To amend the Acts relating to loans to incumbents of benefices by Queen Anne's Bounty.—Lord Muir-Mackenzie, moving the 2nd R., said the Bill was purely administrative and had nothing to do with Church policy. Its object was to simplify the formalities in connection with the granting of loans to the clergy under the Gilbert Acts.—The Abp. of Canterbury supported the measure.—Read a second time. July 9.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—Maude, Lady.—In Committee, Mr. Ll. George (L.), Prime Minister, moved that a sum of £25,000 be granted to Lady Maude in recognition of the eminent services rendered by the late Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Stanley Maude whilst commanding His Majesty's Forces during the campaign in Mesopotamia. He said he had never submitted a proposal to the House with greater conviction of its merits and of its claim on the acceptance of the House. The services which Sir Stanley Maude rendered, notably in Mesopotamia, to the Empire were distinguished, far reaching, permanent in their effects. Sir S. Maude found British prestige at a very low ebb in a quarter of the globe where prestige counts for very much. The British Army in the East had suffered a series of severe reverses. One great enterprise on which a good deal of the strength of the Empire had been concentrated had to be abandoned. One British Army had surrendered to a Turkish force after another British Army had been defeated in a series of attempts to relieve it. In Egypt we had a large force sheltering behind the desert and canal from an interior Turkish Army. This tale of discomfiture and humiliation spread throughout every bazaar in the East, and like a tree grew as it spread. Before it ripened into irreparable mischief for the Empire the genius of Sir Stanley Maude had restored the position.—The vote was agreed to. Mar. 4.

C—Maurice, General, Letters of.—Mr. Asquith (L.) asked whether the attention of the Govt. had been called to a letter in the Press from Major-General Maurice, lately Director of Military Operations.—Mr. Bonar Law, Chan. of Exchqr., in reply, said the letter raised two questions—the question of military discipline involved in the writing of such a letter, and the question of the veracity of Ministerial statements. The first question was being dealt with by the Army Council in the ordinary way; the second question would be inquired into by two of his Majesty's judges acting as a Court of Honour. May 7.

Mr. Asquith (L.) moved: "That a Select Committee of this House be appointed to inquire into the allegations of incorrectness in certain statements of Ministers of the Crown to this House, contained in a letter of Major-General Maurice, the late Director of Military Operations, published in the press on May 7."—Mr. Ll. George (L.), Prime Minister, said it was perfectly clear no statements, no decision of any select tribunal, would ever be accepted. They had decided, therefore, to give the facts in public and to let the public judge. The charges in the letter were then taken seriatim, after which Mr. Ll. George proceeded to say that the action of General Maurice was a flagrant breach of the King's Regulations. Mr. Asquith had been responsible for the conduct of the war for two years; if this motion was carried he would again be responsible. Make no mistake, this is a vote of censure upon the Govt. If carried, the Govt. could not continue in office.—The motion was rejected by 293 to 108 votes. May 9.

C—Midwives Bill.—In moving the 2nd R., Mr. Hayes Fisher (U.), Pres. Local Govt. Bd., explained that its sole object was to assimilate the law relating to midwives in England and Wales to that of Scotland and Ireland. At the present time there was a great shortage of midwives, and the removal of the smaller difficulties would do something to attract more women and, it was hoped, a better class of women to that honourable profession.—Bill read a second time. Oct. 15.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—*Military Service Bill.—In asking leave to introduce this Bill to make further provision for military service during the present war, Mr. Ll. George (L.), Prime Minister, after referring at some considerable length to the present military position, said our first proposal is to raise the military age up to fifty, and in certain specified cases to raise it to fifty-five; then to take power, under a Proclamation, to cancel all exemptions for men, should a national emergency arise; to make changes in the constitution and powers of the tribunals dealing with exemptions, and to speed up their procedure; to extend the provisions of the measure to ministers of religion for non-combatant service; and to bring Ireland within the provisions of the Military Service Act.—Mr. J. Dillon (N.) protested against the extension of compulsory service to Ireland.—Mr. Asquith (L.) said he had always regarded from the beginning of the war the various proposals submitted to or by successive Govts. by one test; not the test of principle, but whether or not they were calculated to promote the prosecution of the war. Never since the war broke out had this country been face to face with anything like as grave a situation as at this moment. He urged the House with all the earnestness he could command and with all the solemnity of which he was capable to realize that never before in the experience of any man within these walls or of his father or his forefathers had this country, with all the great traditions and ideals embodied in our history—never had this most splendid inheritance ever bequeathed to a people been in greater peril or in more need of united safeguards than at the present time.—Mr. J. Devlin (N.) moved the adjournment of the debate, which, after closure had been carried, was negatived by 323 to 80 votes.—The motion was agreed to by 299 to 80.—Bill read a first time. April 9.

In moving the 2nd R., Sir George Cave said the proposal to take men between fifty and fifty-five, except as regarded medical practitioners, who were urgently and immediately required, would not be taken except in a very great national emergency. The Govt. were advised that their proposal as regards Ireland would yield a large number of men. For Ireland to refuse help at this time of peril would create a feeling that Ireland would bitterly regret in the future. If they desired Home Rule their best plan was to do what their greater men had done—give their services in this time of need.—Sir C. Hobhouse (L.) moved: "That this House, while recognizing the gravity of the military situation in France and the urgent necessity of giving all possible support to the British and Allied forces, is of opinion that this measure diminishes the naval and economic power of the nation without adding commensurate military strength." He said the trade of the country must be seriously affected by the withdrawal of 400,000 men. If they took away the managers of businesses and the hands engaged in business, who were going to take their place from the point of view to keeping up the exchange and financing the Army?—Sir D. Maclean (L.) strongly urged the Govt. not to increase the age beyond forty-seven or forty-eight.—Mr. J. Dillon (N.) said the real purpose of the introduction of the Bill was to divert attention and inquiry from the true cause of the failures and defeats on the western front.—Mr. Asquith (L.) said he trusted the age might be put at a lower limit than 50. In his opinion it would have been easier to have imposed military compulsion upon Ireland two years ago than it was to-day.—Capt. W. A. Redmond (N.) said he felt it incumbent on him to oppose the application of compulsion to Ireland.—The closure was adopted by 319 to 105 votes, the amendment then being rejected by 321 to 106 votes.—On a division the 2nd R. was carried by 323 to 100.

April 10.

It was agreed, after divisions, that proceedings on the Bill should have precedence of Supply.—Upon the motion of Mr. Bonar Law (U.) a resolution, allotting the time to be spent on the different stages of the Bill and fixing the conclusion of the Committee stage for April 15, was agreed to.—Mr. G. R. Thorne (L.) moved and afterwards withdrew an amendment providing that there should be an appointed day for men affected by the Act coming under liability and service.—Sir John Spear (U.) moved that the age limit should be 48 instead of 51, but this was rejected by 262 to 152 votes.

April 11.

In Committee, Mr. H. J. Tennant's (L.) motion to omit the subsection giving power at any time to call up men up to the age of 56 negatived by 201 votes to 94.—Mr. Leif. Jones's (L.) amendment to omit the subsection applying compulsory service to medical men up to the age of 56 negatived by 249 to 95 votes.—The amendment of Mr. R. D. Denman (L.) to make ministers of religion subject to the same obligations as other citizens rejected by 267 to 10 votes.—On Cl. 2 (Extension of Act to Ireland), Mr. Lardner (N.) moved an amendment that this should not be done until after the passing of a resolution by an Irish Parliament approving thereof.—Mr. H. E. Duke, Chief Secy. for Ireland, said the Govt. had come to a decision to impose conscription on Ireland because it seemed to be their inexorable duty. The Govt. had resolved to deal with its pledge as regarded the granting of self-government to Ireland in such a way as would give satisfaction to Irish aspirations. He saw no reason why at an early date there should not be on the Statute Book a Bill for the establishment of self-government in Ireland.—Mr. H. L. Samuel (L.) said he was glad to hear the statement by the Chief Secy. that it was designed that an Act for the establishment of a self-governing Parliament should be placed on the Statute Book before any Irishman was called to the colours under this Bill.—Mr. Duke said that was not what he said. He had no authority to pledge the Govt.—Mr. Bonar Law, Chan. of Exchqr., said: "We intend at the earliest moment to introduce a Bill which we hope will give Home Rule or, rather, local government, to Ireland. It is now being prepared. It will be a Govt. Bill and it will be brought forward as soon as it can be got ready. We shall try to carry it through simultaneously with the preparations for carrying out the Bill we are discussing to-night."—The amendment defeated by 280 to 108 votes and the clause carried by 281 to 116 votes. April 12.

In Committee, Cl. 3, giving power by Proclamation to withdraw certificates of exemption in cases of national emergency, discussed.

April 13.

On report, the provision imposing obligatory military service on ministers of religion was omitted.—Motion for the 3rd R. agreed to by 301 to 103 votes.—Bill read a third time.

April 16.

L—Bill read a first time.—Standing Order 39 having been suspended, Viscount Peel (U.), Secy. Min. of Nat. Service, moved the 2nd R.—The Marquess of Crewe (L.) did not think it possible to question the general necessity of a measure of this kind. He had no sympathy whatever with those Irishmen who take the view that it is possible for Ireland or a large part of the population of Ireland to refrain from taking their proper place in the Empire in the prosecution of this eminently just war.—Lord Buckmaster (L.) thought it most unfortunate that this Bill should be introduced at a time when, of all others, domestic broils should have been avoided.—The Earl of Derby (U.), Secy. for War, said nothing would destroy our industries more definitely than if we suffered defeat at the hands of the Germans. Therefore it was no use talking of retaining business if we did not at the same time maintain our supremacy in France and Flanders.—Read a second time.

April 17.

Passed through remaining stages.—Royal Assent.

April 18.

C—Ministries of Health Bill.—Dr. Addison (L.), Minister for Reconstruction, asked leave to introduce this Bill, the main purpose of which was to bring together under one Ministry the chief departments dealing with the health of the people. Powers were taken to bring in the medical inspection and treatment of school children at present under the charge of the Education Board, the health duties of the Minister of Pensions with regard to the treatment of sick soldiers, and the powers of the Secy. of State with reference to lunacy and mental deficiency. The Poor Law authorities administration in regard to services relating to the care and treatment of the sick and infirm would also be taken over. The remaining functions of the Poor Law authorities would be transferred to other bodies.—The Bill was read a first time. Nov. 7.

Order for 2nd R. read and discharged, Bill withdrawn. Nov. 18.

C—Ministry of Labour (Requisitioning of Premises) Bill.—Presented by Mr. G. H. Roberts (Lab.), Min. of Labour, and read a first time. Nov. 14.

Mr. G. H. Roberts, in moving the 2nd R., explained that it was a temporary measure to enable the Commissioner of Works to take possession of premises on behalf of the Ministry of Labour for the purposes of employment exchanges and other work connected with the Ministry. At the present time the employment exchanges dealt with about 4,250,000 workpeople a year and had a staff of about 6,000. It was anticipated that on demobilization the exchanges would have to deal with about 14,000,000 persons, and the staff would have to be at least trebled. The need was instant and urgent.—The Bill read a second time. Nov. 15.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—*Ministry of Munitions Bill.—In moving the 2nd R., Mr. F. G. Kellaway (L.), Parl. Secy. Min. of Munitions, said its object was to enable the Ministry to use the powers given for the production of munitions for the reverse process of getting industry back as rapidly and effectively as possible to peace production.—Read a second time and passed through remaining stages. Nov. 19.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—National Expenditure.—In Committee, on report of the Vote of Credit Mr. H. L. Samuel (L.) drew attention to the question of national expenditure, and said his Committee had already presented six reports dealing with a large number of Govt. departments.—Mr. Bonar Law (U.), Chan. of Exchqr., replied. June 19.

C—Navy Estimates.—In Committee, a supplementary estimate for wages was agreed to. Feb. 26.

On the motion for Supply, Sir Eric Geddes, First Ld. of Admty., made a statement on naval matters. He said that, on the whole, naval warfare had proceeded increasingly in our favour. It had continued to be chiefly a trial of strength between the enemy submarine and the measures of the Allies for combating that menace. He had on a previous occasion expressed the opinion that the submarine menace was held but is not yet mastered, and he saw no reason to depart from that opinion. The submarine was being destroyed in increasing numbers, and as our methods develop the numbers will still further increase. Mar. 5.

In Committee, the vote for men and wages agreed to. The retirement of Lord Jellicoe was a subject of discussion. Mar. 6.

In Committee, on the vote for shipbuilding and contract work, Sir E. Geddes said the world's tonnage from the commencement of the war until December 31, 1917, exclusive of enemy-owned tonnage, had fallen by a net figure of roughly 2½ million tons. This is out of 33 million estimated Allied and neutral ocean-going tonnage, which is arrived at after deducting small craft, river and estuary craft, and a considerable amount of lake tonnage, tugs, &c. So that, with a net loss of 2½ million tons, there has been about 8 per cent. reduction in ocean-going tonnage of the world, excluding enemy countries. The percentage of net loss of British tonnage alone reaches 20 per cent., the more favourable Allied and neutral tonnage percentage being due largely to a credit brought in by the United States of interned German ships. Dealing with the output of tonnage, he said in the fourth quarter of 1914 the merchant tonnage produced in the United Kingdom was 420,000 tons. This steadily fell until the fourth quarter of 1915, when it reached 92,000 tons. It then began to rise, and in the fourth quarter of 1916 reached 213,000 tons. In the same quarter of 1917 it again reached 420,000 tons.—Mr. Ll. George (L.) believed that by special exertions the deficiency of 120,000 tons a month could be made up, and that would do far more to shorten the war than any other effort the country could put forward. Mar. 20.

In Committee, on the vote for shipbuilding, repairs, maintenance and personnel, Sir Eric Geddes (U.), First Ld. Admty., said during the past twelve months instead of losing tonnage the world's net result in the quarter ending June 30 has been a gain of roughly 100,000 tons per month on the average, and the Allied and neutral world was as well off on June 30, 1918, as it was on January 1, 1918. So that for the first half of this year we (the Allies) did not lose tonnage on account of the enemy's depredations on mercantile shipping. Owing to the great demands of the Air Force and the Army it had been impossible to obtain the proper quota of skilled men for shipbuilding; it was consequently decided by the Govt. to go ahead with a scheme for building a simple ship which could be erected with the minimum of skilled labour. The enemy now finds it too dangerous to work in-shore and is going far out again. The number of ships damaged, as well as the number sunk, as shown by the monthly returns, are going down, and that allows a transference of men from repairs to new construction. 10,000 men are now working at the national shipyards, almost entirely unskilled; of these, 3,000 are prisoners of war and 7,000 are enlisted men. Under the agreement with the trade unions, enlisted men will not build ships. When completed the national shipyards will have 34 berths.—Mr. W. Runciman (L.) said the only question of importance before the House was not as to whether private enterprise or national enterprise was the better but by which method the larger number of ships had been and could be provided so as to relieve the situation. It should be remembered that the improvement which had taken place was entirely due to the enterprise of private yards, and that no assistance whatever had been given by the national shipyards in that direction.—The vote was agreed to. July 30.

C—Naval and Military War Pensions Bill.—Presented by Mr. John Hodge (Lab.), Pensions Minister, and read a first time. Oct. 15.

In moving the 2nd R., Mr. Hodge said the object of the Bill was to make provision for the better administration of the enactments relating to naval, military, and air force war pensions, grants, and allowances, and for certain other purposes. The intention was that the Ministry should become responsible for the whole of the expense of administration and the consequent control. That would enable it to insist that, so far as the local war pensions committees were concerned, full-time members and secretaries would be experts so far as the administration of pensions was concerned. This Bill would also give an opportunity of insisting upon a larger representation of disabled men on the war pensions committees. Power was taken to suspend a pension when a disabled man refused to undergo treatment. Another provision dealt with the children of the soldier.—Sir H. Craik (U.) moved the rejection of the Bill.—Amendment negatived and Bill read a second time. Oct. 22.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—Naval Prize Bill.—Presented by Dr. Macnamara (L.) and read a first time. July 19.

Dr. Macnamara, in proposing the 2nd R., said it was framed to set up machinery for the distribution of prize money and prize bounty. The two things were very different. Prize money was the award to the Navy for the capture of enemy merchant ships and cargoes, the award being from the proceeds of the sale of the same. Prize bounty was the grant by the State of a certain sum per head to the officers and men who took part in the capture or sinking of an enemy ship. Formerly prize money went to the actual captors, but modern conditions of naval warfare had led to the conclusion that that was no longer an equitable method of distribution, and a main feature of this Bill was to make possible a more general scheme of distribution to the fleet. The net proceeds of such prizes were no longer to be presented to the captors, but were to be placed in a general pool out of which the officers and men of the fleet as a whole actually taking part in the operations of the present war would participate. This necessitated the postponement of the final distribution until the pool was closed at the close of hostilities. Prize bounty stood in a different position, and payments could be made without undue delay.—Read a second time. July 28.

Royal Assent. Aug. 8.

C—Overseas Trade Department (Secretary) Bill.—To make provision for the joint appointment by the Board of Trade and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs of a Secretary of the Overseas Trade Department. Presented by Sir A. H. Stanley (L.), Pres. Bd. of Trade, and read a first time. Mar. 12.

Royal Assent. Mar. 21.

C—*Parliament and Local Elections Bill.—Presented by Mr. Bonar Law (U.), Chan. of Exchqr., and read a first time. July 3.

Mr. Bonar Law, in moving the 2nd R., said that the present Parliament would in present circumstances come to an end at the end of this month. This Bill would extend the life of Parliament until the end of January of next year—that was to say, that Parliament would then have extended to eight years. Of course, that did not mean that Parliament must necessarily continue for that length of time. The House had the power at any time to terminate the length of Parliament.—Mr. H. H. Asquith (L.) supported the motion.—Bill read a second time. July 8.

Royal Assent. July 30.

C—Parliament (Qualification of Women) Bill.—To enable women to sit in Parliament. Presented by Lord R. Cecil, Asst. Foreign Secy., and read a first time. Oct. 31.

On 2nd R., the Bill was opposed by Major H. Terrell and Sir H. Meux.—Read a second time. Nov. 4.

In Committee, Sir C. Henry (L.) moved an amendment fixing the minimum age of eligibility for women as candidates for Parliament at 30 years.—Amendment negatived.—The Bill read a third time. Nov. 6.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—Petroleum Production Bill.—Sir L. Worthington Evans (U.), Min. of Blockade, introducing the Bill, explained that its main object was to extend the prohibition against searching and boring for and getting petroleum without a licence which the Ministry of Munitions would be empowered to grant. The whole aim of the measure was to protect oil pools by preventing indiscriminate and wasteful boring. Aug. 1.
Read a second time, passed through remaining stages. Aug. 5.

L—In Committee, the Duke of Northumberland moved an amendment to the effect that nothing in the Act should prejudice or affect the rights of any person interested in land in respect of petroleum gotten through or from land of which he was the owner, which was agreed to.—A further amendment agreed to providing that any person who got petroleum under a licence should keep a record of the same. Nov. 6.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—Police (Pensions) Bill.—Sir G. Cave (U.), Home Secy., in moving the 2nd R., said it would authorize the payment of £26 per annum to the widow of a constable, £32 to the widow of an inspector, and £40 a year in cases where the constable had attained a rank higher than inspector.—Read a second time.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—Post Office (No. 2) Bill.—To alter the statutory limits of postal rates. Presented by Mr. Illingworth (L.), Postmaster-Genl., and read a first time. May 1.

Mr. Illingworth, in moving the 2nd R. of the Bill, explained that it dealt with the increase on the postage of post cards from a halfpenny to a penny and other increases in the inland book packet post. He said there had been an enormous increase in the cost of working the Post Office during the war. The profits on the Post Office before the war averaged about £5,000,000 a year, but this year the net profit would be only from 2 to 2½ millions. It was felt that the user ought to meet the extra cost and not the taxpayer. It had been decided to withdraw the extra postage as it affected letters to soldiers serving abroad.—Read a second time.

C—Proportional Representation.—Mr. H. A. L. Fisher (L.), Pres. Bd. of Education, moved: "That the scheme for the election to the House of Commons of members for certain constituencies on the principle of Proportional Representation, prepared by the Commissioners appointed for that purpose under the Representation of the People Act and laid before Parliament, be and the same is hereby adopted by the House." It was proposed, he said, that proportional representation should be applied in 11 parliamentary boroughs and six parliamentary counties, and that 99 members should be returned under the system. The House was invited to approve a modest and limited experiment.—Mr. Asquith (L.) said he thought the moderate proposal now made was one that was entitled to respectful and sympathetic consideration. He asked the House to agree to the motion.—Mr. Burdett Coutts (U.) moved an amendment opposing the change, which was carried by 166 to 110 votes. May 13.

C—School Teachers' Superannuation Bill.—Mr. H. A. L. Fisher (L.), Pres. Bd. of Education, said at the present time 100,000 pensionable teachers were employed by the State, and the Bill would increase that number by about 70,000. It would also increase the amount of the pensions to be granted. The existing pension scheme cost £250,000 a year and would probably in ten years' time cost about £428,000. The new scheme proposed would probably in ten years cost about £2,000,000 per annum more, and any further increase in salaries would bring about a corresponding increase in pensions.—Read a first time. Oct. 15.

Moving the 2nd R., Mr. Fisher said the object of the Bill was to provide a generous scheme of pensions for teachers in grant-aided schools. The scheme would be non-contributory, and, for the future, benefits of men and women would be proportionate to their salaries.—Read a second time. Oct. 21.

Royal Assent. Nov. 21.

C—Small Holding Colonies (Amendment) Bill.—Sir R. Winfrey (L.), Parl. Secy. Bd. of Agriculture, in moving the 2nd R., explained that the Bd. of Agriculture had exhausted its powers under the previous Small Holding Colonies Act. They had acquired 4,530 acres in England and 1,345 acres in Wales out of the 6,000 they had power to acquire. In Scotland, out of 2,000 acres, they had obtained 1,174, and were negotiating for a further 700 acres. This Bill proposed that the quantity of land should be increased from a total of 8,000 to 80,000 acres—namely, 60,000 in England and Wales and 20,000 in Scotland. This was only an enabling Bill, and it did not purport to deal with the national problem.—Read a second time. May 13.

C—Statutory Undertakings (Temporary Increase of Charges) Bill.—Presented by Sir A. H. Stanley (L.), Pres. Bd. of Trade, and read a first time. July 3.

In moving the 2nd R., Mr. Wardle (Lab.), Parl. Secy. Bd. of Trade, said the Bill gave effect to the recommendations made by a Special Committee. It would apply to gas, tramway, water and electricity undertakings when, in consequence of the war, the dividend on the ordinary stock or shares had been reduced to one-half of its standard rate or one-half of its average dividend calculated on three years before the war—whichever were the smaller. Under these conditions the sliding scale prices or maximum charges of the company might be suspended, and the company would be entitled to charge such prices as might be held by the Board of Trade to be sufficient to cover the cost of manufacture, distribution and working, and a dividend at half the standard or pre-war average dividend. Municipal authorities' prices could only be increased so as to secure the authorities against loss. The Bill would cease to be operative after two years after the war.—Bill read a second time.

July 8.

In Committee, Mr. H. J. Tennant (L.) moved to insert "three-quarters" instead of "one-half" as the point in reduction of dividend where the Bill should come into effect.—Agreed by 118 to 42 votes.

C—*Termination of the War Bill.—To make provision for determining the date of the termination of the present war. Presented by Dr. Addison (L.), Min. of Reconstruction. Nov. 13.

Dr. Addison, in moving the 2nd R., said that the Bill was necessary to define the meaning of phrases such as "termination of the war" in many emergency Acts of Parliament. The proposal of Mr. Justice Atkins's Committee and the Select Committee—that the termination of the war should mean the date of the ratification of the Peace Treaty—was incorporated in the measure, but power was taken by Order to stop certain powers before the date fixed.—Read a second time. Nov. 15.

C—Tithe Bill.—Introduced by Mr. R. E. Prothero (U.), Pres. Bd. of Agriculture, and read a first time. July 24.

C—Trade Boards Bill.—Mr. G. H. Roberts (Lab.), Min. of Labour, proposed the 2nd R. of this Bill, which is to amend the Act of 1909, and said there had been brought under the Act passed in 1909 approximately 390,000 workpeople, of whom 80,000 were males, and the number of firms affected was about 17,000. The Bill aimed at simplifying the procedure in setting up boards, and in fixing rates of wages, and increasing the powers of boards in certain directions. Power is given to the Ministry of Labour to set up boards by special Order instead of proceeding by means of Provisional Order Bills. It was proposed to confer on the trade boards discretion to fix a guaranteed minimum time rate, to fix differential rates for overtime, and to establish machinery for accelerating the fixing of a compulsory minimum rate of wages.—Mr. J. F. Mason (U.) moved the rejection of the Bill.—Mr. Holt (L.) seconded.—Amendment negatived and Bill read a second time. June 17.

On Report, an amendment by Lord H. Bentinck (U.), providing that overtime might be counted for extra payment if it was worked on any day, was agreed to. As the Bill stood, overtime would only have been counted when the normal number of hours for the week had been worked.—Bill read a third time. July 22.

G—Trading with the Enemy (Amendment) Bill.—Sir A. Stanley (L.), Pres. Bd. of Trade, presented this Bill to amend the enactments relating to trading with the enemy and to extend temporarily certain of these enactments to the carrying on of banking business after the termination of the present war.—Read a first time.

July 19.

Sir A. Stanley (L.), in moving the 2nd R. of the Bill, said the object was to introduce legislation dealing with certain businesses in this country which were wholly or mainly for the benefit of or under the control of subjects of enemy States, and which under the existing law could not be expeditiously wound up. The Bd. of Trade proposed by this Bill to take the power to wind up a company without having to make application to the Court for an order, and, further, to prevent enemy-controlled banks from reopening in this country for five years after the close of the war. At present they had the power to wind up the business of a company but not to wind up the company itself. As to the definition of a bank, it was intended to include discount houses and institutions established for financial undertakings. The Bill dealt also with businesses carried on under partnership arrangements, the Bd. of Trade taking power to wind up these businesses. The Bill also dealt with clubs, friendly societies, and institutions of that kind, and the Board would have power to wind up those concerns if deemed desirable and necessary.—Read a second time.

G—*Wages (Temporary Regulation) Bill.—In moving the 2nd R., Mr. G. H. Roberts (Lab.), Min. for Labour, said the main purpose of the Bill was to secure that for a period of six months, during which industries were changing from war to peace production, the present rate of wages should be maintained. The principle had been agreed to by the chief employers and trades unionists concerned. It was proposed that the place of the Committee of Production should be taken by tribunals of employers and workpeople, with an independent chairman, and women would be represented on the tribunals.—Bill read a second time.

G—*War Loan Bill.—Mr. A. Bonar Law (U.), Chan. of Exchqr., in moving the 2nd R. of the War Loan Bill, said the Bill was of the same form as those which had been required every year since the War. The Treasury had no power to raise money by loan for a long period except what was given by a Loan Bill. Finance was treated on a yearly basis, and the power of issuing loans was asked only for the year to which the issue might apply.—Bill read a second time.

G—Workmen's Compensation (Illegal Employment) Bill.—To amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, with respect to persons suffering injury while working under an illegal contract. Presented by Mr. W. Brace (Lab.), Under-Secy. Home Affairs, and read a first time.

April 10.

Mr. Brace, in moving the 2nd R., said its object was to remove a disability which attached to certain workpeople, mostly women and children, who might be injured while engaged in illegal employment. Under the pressure of war, women and children were being employed in circumstances which rendered their employment technically illegal, and if they were injured they could get no compensation under the Act. The Bill provided that compensation might be awarded in such cases as though the employment were legal.—Bill read a second time and passed through remaining stages.

The King's Speech.—His Majesty's Speech was as follows:—

" My Lords and Gentlemen,

" The occasion on which I address you marks the close of a period which will be for ever memorable in the history of our Country.

" The War, upon which all the energies of My Peoples throughout My Dominions have for more than four years been concentrated, has at length been brought to a triumphant issue. The conclusion of an Armistice with the last of the Powers that have been ranged against us gives promise at no distant date of an honourable and enduring Peace. I have already sought an opportunity of expressing publicly to My Peoples and to My Allies the sentiments of heartfelt admiration and gratitude with which I regard the supreme and self-sacrificing devotion that has led to this glorious result. Amidst our rejoicing let us not forget to render humble thanks to Almighty God for the success with which it has pleased Him to crown our arms.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

"I thank you for the unfailing patriotism with which you have made provision for the requirements of the War.

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"The exertions which have carried us to victory in the field must in no wise be abated or slackened until the ravages of war have been repaired, and the fabric of our national prosperity has been restored. Through the extension of the suffrage which this Parliament has carried into effect, all classes of My People will have an opportunity of inspiring and guiding this beneficent undertaking. I trust that the spirit of unity which has enabled us to surmount the perils of war will not be wanting in the no less arduous task of establishing on the sure foundation of ordered liberty the common welfare of My People.

"In bidding you farewell, I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may rest upon your labours."

NOTE.—In the above statement an attempt has been made to place the financial affairs of the Country before the public in as clear and intelligible a manner as possible, and to make those deductions on both sides of the account which appear to be necessary to bring the final totals of Income and Expenditure to their proper limits. In putting forward this statement it is proper to make the following observations as to the particulars of which it consists:—

- (1) It should be stated, in the first place, that the items in the above account represent the actual receipts into, and issues from, the Exchequer during the year 1916-1917.
- (2) The table does not include receipts on account of Advances for Public Works, nor payments on account of the sums raised to make those Advances, these receipts and payments having been transferred to the "Local Loans Fund" under the provisions of the "National Debt and Local Loans Act, 1887."
- (3) In virtue of Treasury Minutes issued under the "Public Accounts and Charges Act, 1891," the Miscellaneous Receipts of the Revenue Departments, and the bulk of the Extra Receipts of the Civil Departments, are now appropriated by the Departments concerned in aid of their expenditure.
- (4) Under the Finance Act, 1908, certain Licence Duties were transferred for direct collection by County Councils in England and Wales. The proceeds of these in a full year were estimated at £1,650,000. This Table is not, therefore, comparable with those for years previous to 1908-1909.

Estimated and Actual Revenue and Expenditure of the United Kingdom in each of the financial years since 1897-8; with the proportion of the actual Revenue and Expenditure per Head of the Population, and the Surplus or Deficiency of Income. † Based upon the estimated population on the 30th of June in the year in question, e.g., for year ending 31st March, 1916, the population on 30th June, 1914, as estimated in the Statistical Abstract for the United Kingdom for 1915, is taken.

(a) Including Extraordinary Expenditure on account of War in South Africa.

‡ Including arrears of 1909-10, estimated at £30,046,000.

|| The Revenue Act, 1911, directed that the income and expenditure of the years 1909-10 and 1910-11 should be aggregated for the purpose of determining the old Sinking Fund for 1910-11.

N.B.—Under the Finance Act, 1908, certain Licence Duties were transferred for direct collection by County and Borough Councils in England and Wales, the proceeds of which were estimated at £1,270,000 for 1908-9, and at £1,650,000 for a complete normal year. Although no longer appearing in accounts of Imperial Revenue these Duties continue to be collected and to be applied to the same purposes as formerly. Consequently, the figures given above for 1908-9 and subsequent years are not comparable with those for previous years.

Revenue.—Amount of Imperial Revenue (payments into the Exchequer) from each of the Principal Branches of Revenue in each of the undermentioned years. (In thousands of pounds—000's omitted.) N.B.—The amounts shown above as Imposed and Remitted, and the consequent gains or losses in Revenue, are those for a normal year as computed at the end of the year of change.

* £1,650,000 of this does not represent remission of taxation, being the estimated produce of certain Licence Duties transferred for direct collection by County and Borough Councils in England and Wales under the Finance Act, 1908. These are still levied as before and go towards the same purposes, but do not pass through the Imperial Exchequer.

† Cannot be stated, no computation having been made for several duties imposed or increased. See Table 8, p. xxv.

Taxes Reduced or Increased, in each year since 1893-94, giving the amount of annual gain or loss to the Revenue, estimated for a normal year as computed at the end of the year of change.

* Amount of New Estate Duty and of old Probate and Account and Temporary Estate Duties collected, exclusive of proportion due to Local Taxation Account. This latter is now, under the Finance Act of 1907, paid direct into the Exchequer, and the necessary corresponding payments to the Local Taxation Accounts fall to be made out of the Consolidated Fund. See also note †† below.

†† Exclusive of one-half of receipts from Probate Duty due to Local Taxation Accounts.

†† NOTE.—The amounts of property subjected to Duty, stated above, are not properly comparable with the amounts stated for earlier years, on account of the great changes introduced into the system of the Death Duties by the "Finance Act, 1894." The New Estate Duty, which is in substitution of the former Probate and Account Duties and the old Estate Duty of 1889, applies to the estates of all persons dying after the 1st August, 1894; but while the Probate Duty applied only to personality, the New Estate Duty applies to ALL PROPERTY, real or personal, settled or unsettled, passing at death. A further difference between the old and new systems is to be found in the provisions of the "Finance Act, 1894," permitting, in certain circumstances, property to be declared and taken into consideration in fixing rates of duty on which duty may not actually be paid until subsequent years. The gross amount of capital of which the Inland Revenue Department had notice as passing at death in 1914-1915 was £344,499,584.

* Nominal Value. † Estimated Market Value. (a) In 1883, £70,241,908 three per cent. Stock was converted into Terminable Annuities. ‡ The Debt was greatly reduced in the year 1887-8 by the Cancellation of Stock, and the transfer of an equivalent amount of Local Loans Assets to the Local Loans Fund. § £15,000,000 Consols, and the Book Debt of £13,000,000 held on account of the Savings Banks Funds, were cancelled in 1899-1900 in exchange for Terminable Annuities. ¶ In consequence of the War in South Africa the Funded Debt was increased in 1901-2 by the creation of £60,000,000 Consols, and in 1902-3 by the creation of £32,000,000 Consols.

|| This item includes instalments of the 5 per cent. and 4 per cent. War Loan not due until 31st March, 1917, as well as approximately £157,000,000 Ways and Means Advances borrowed before that date in anticipation of those instalments.

(b) Naval Works Acts, 1896 to 1906, £15,643,898; Military Works Acts, 1897 to 1903, £8,766,340; Telegraph Acts, 1892 to 1907, £13,775,323; Uganda Railway Acts, £2,970,195; Royal Niger Company Act, £502,830; Pacific Cable Act, £1,744,176; Telephone Transfer Act, 1911, £9,206,136; other Acts, £4,376,172.

(c) The Increase in the Unfunded Debt in 1899-1900 and 1900-1 was due to the Treasury Bills, Exchequer Bonds, War Stock, and War Bonds issued in those years to meet the large expenditure incurred in connection with the War in South Africa.

(d) The increase in the Unfunded Debt in 1909-10 was due to temporary borrowings in view of delay in the passing of the Finance Act for that year.

NOTES.—Under the Finance Act of 1907 the arrangement ceased by which certain sources of Imperial Revenue were car-marked for direct payment to the Local Taxation Accounts, and the equivalent thereof was made payable from the Consolidated Fund.

Under the Finance Act, 1908, certain licence duties and the collection thereof were transferred to local authorities and ceased to pass through the Exchequer.

The following table gives the amount of the actual payment to Local Taxation Accounts in each Division of the United Kingdom:—

NOTE.—The figures in the above table are exclusive of the Army and Navy for the years up to 1831, inclusive.

* Approximate.

‡ Exclusive of the Isle of Man and Channel Islands.

§ The excess in the number of females is partially attributable to the fact that men serving in the Army, Navy, and the Merchant Service, abroad, are excluded from the reckoning.

¶ A different method of arriving at the number of houses in Scotland from that previously used was adopted in 1881. In that year and at the subsequent enumerations every dwelling with a distinct outside entrance, or with a door opening directly into a common stair, was treated as a house.

Population.—Population of each Division of the United Kingdom as Estimated at the middle of each of the undermentioned years.

NOTE.—From the Return No. 17 of Session 1898, relating to the Acquisition of Land by Local Authorities, it appears that, between December, 1894, and June, 1897, land had been acquired for Allotments by 3 County Councils, the Councils of 3 County Boroughs, 120 Urban District Councils, 9 Rural District Councils, 1,009 Parish Councils, 4 Parish Meetings, and one Metropolitan Vestry; and that 3 County Councils had acquired land for small holdings. The total extent of land acquired was 14,939 acres, and it had been let to 32,708 tenants.

* Holdings of less than $\frac{1}{2}$ of an acre are not enumerated, but this minimum limit does not apply to allotments.

† Included in the counties of Kent, Middlesex and Surrey.

‡ These figures are not available later than in 1895.

NOTE.—Figures for 1909 and subsequent years are not strictly comparable with those for former years. In 1909 and subsequent years Imports are assigned to the countries whence they were consigned to the United Kingdom, and not, as in previous years, to the countries whence they were shipped direct to the United Kingdom. So also with Exports. In 1909 and subsequent years Exports are assigned to the countries to which they were consigned, though possessing no seaboard, and not to the countries through which they were shipped, as in previous years.

The Annual Statement of Trade for 1915 (Vols. I. and II.) contains figures on the new basis for the years 1910-1915. A supplemental volume is also issued containing figures for 1915 on the old basis.

† The assessments on quarries, mines, ironworks, fisheries, canals, railways, gasworks, &c., were transferred from Schedule A to Schedule D from the 5th April, 1866.

* In the years prior to 1874-5 net figures only were returned for Ireland under this Schedule. The full annual value of land assessed under Schedule B is given for all the years included in the table, but it should be remembered that the amount assessed is the "assumed profits from the occupation of land (i.e., one-third of the annual value)."

‡ All assessments on interest of Municipal and Corporation Stocks are included under Schedule D in 1892-3 and subsequent years instead of partly under Schedule C and partly under Schedule D as in former years.

‡‡ Estimated in lieu of statistics previously published, which were incomplete owing to a necessary change in practice following legislation.
